

Puke Bucket

USE THE TABS! YOU HAVE 17 of them!

Democratic Secular Humanism

Introduction

Democratic Secular Humanism

(this is a self help book)

I told them “Fix your hearts, or die.” - David Lynch, Twin Peaks

So I hopefully don't get killed for writing this,

Look, ok. I have Aspergers Syndrome, and my imagination is different. This entire work is the product of my imagination, and I thought it might be compelling enough for other people to also be compelled with its imaginative document. My intent is for people to read it and enjoy it for what it is, and then go back to their lives in responsible, safe, Decent ways. We don't have to toss what we have; We could just focus on better things than we do, and carry on well.

Or I'm saying that because it doesn't matter what I say here. Unless it does.

The Seed

The original idea was when I idly asked myself what I would do with $1 Trillian, and relating that to the realization that human values and rights are not real because they are not rights. They can be suspended, revoked, manipulated, etc. Rights stand, pending only the most serious of circumstances. I pondered, and arrived that the base motivation for all Human activity should be entirely self-serving. Human activity, in its entirety, is compelled to ensure the future of the Human species, with any other motivation put securely away until the crisis is resolved and lessons are captured. And what if it were realized by the People themselves, deciding that Decency should be the core ethic to directly and quickly recover their privilege of surviving and recast it in solid iron as an immutable statement of reality. It is clear that we can all thrive if we stop feeding the cartoonishly, obviously in-the-way idler looking down from the towers.

If I were given conditional access to, say, $1T, I would immediately secure it in my best immediate way, and then, when possible and safe, in the actual best way, in a way that would allow the People to track every single transaction against their money. This is to ensure flawless accountability of that sum, from deposit to it becoming irrelevant, lest it is reasonable to doubt it being abused. The full ledger down to the end-item will be always available to see how the funds are being spent. Anyone can question anything, and will be given a swift, truthful answer unless the truth is an actual matter of Human Flourishing. This is the People's confidence in the form of Value; to abuse this confidence (or to allow its abuse) is to prove our critics correct. This seed is beyond pivotal; it is our one fully empowering force and our success, or even survivability, hinges on rigorous conscientiousness and eerie transparency.

Then I would begin reaching out to various STEM, Arts, Finance, etc. experts and ask them to help us reshape a unified Humanity with a deliberately simple economy that punishes attempts to apply Greed effectively, but functions reliably and safely for The People. Public personalities (household, social media, etc) will not be eligible, but I suspect they will know people who would be a good fit for this project. This initial recruitment will require some unconventional methods, by effectively misleading unwitting candidates into exposing their Decency and Competence in their fields. The Volunteer List will be the first section of the Exclusion List. I am not interested in anyone who thinks so highly of themselves that they arrive at the conviction that they deserve one of these positions; I will deny power to those who actively seek it, with no recourse, for the remainder of their lives. We have enough rigorous experts to not miss the blowhards in the stack.

These will be the only things of consequence I do, other than check on progress and offer naive advice about high ideals and head-canon theory. I acknowledge that I am naive, lost, and insufficient in almost every aspect of this shift to Decency backed by genuine, immediate consequence. Almost everything is legal, and if a person or group cannot operate within those generous bounds, then they may not operate.

The Veil of Ignorance and the Dunning-Kruger Effect

The ideal of the Veil of Ignorance needs to saturate everything we do, and we will hold The Dunning-Kruger Effect fully in reverence as something that can tank this whole thing or propel it into orbit. A team of brilliant minds from the most needful fields of our time to, in turn, assemble the most well-resourced, most capable, most rigorous scientists, sociologists, political experts, and basically the very best of STEM, Arts, and ancillary fields. By best, I mean capable, eager to learn, rigorous, accepting of failures, and passionate about the work; I am not headhunting or cannibalizing. I am not accepting celebrities or those who get their work published based solely on the merit of their reputation. I don't need natural leaders with Senior Staff written all over them, and will reject all such applicants with my regrets. Personal ambition is poison, and I am not going to reward it. I am effectively hanging a car-lifter magnet over a mass of various sized pieces of iron, sized from atomic to the core of Earth. Some of the smaller stuff might not have enough to make the jump, but they could get together and help each other out in this. Then there are the bigger pieces, and getting up to planetary. My magnet waving over those will make no difference at all. It's just too big. That's why I don't want celebrity scientists, etc. Names I have seen before, anywhere except academia, will be contacted with my regrets. On the other hand, I make it financially impossible to ignore a call to join. Families will be welcomed to join their loved one in this life, and are actively encouraged to use this time to refocus, refresh, relax, and enjoy this good fortune. They will be our Progressives.

These Progressives will not be called away by anything other than their own lives and work as a Progressive. Progressives may know anything they need to know, regardless of source, current holder, sensitivity, or active use by sensitive parties, and will be provided with any asked-for information or resources that can be reasonably[1] provided.

---

[1] "Reasonable" in this case refers to the availability of things, like a set of old documents that have not been converted to PDF vs. a 7000-meter rocket that goes straight down and costs the annual GDP of the entirety of the Pacific Islands. That which can be provided, will be. There is no may here. They have ultimate access and ultimate permission to use information as needed without concern for sensitivity. Nations don't exist, so there are no State Secrets; we are one People and Only villains hold secrets.

I would want people who understand the mandate of the Veil of Ignorance and to appreciate what is at stake. I also think it would be helpful to be able to push each household that adopts DSH like $100/day until we get going. People can definitely be bought with a realistic plan for prosperity. Loyalty is for the desperate and stupid. I'm promising you immediate money. What we get in return is a scheduled renaissance in which we already have a head start and have been desperately chomping at the bit since the 60s to enact; innovation, progress, actual teamwork, and the human spirit meet no bounds other than our own will, creativity, and ingenuity. The day of wealth for wealth's sake is over. Globally. I'm catching a few eyes as I scan the room. I see you. So does everyone else.

Pandering and Dog Whistles

If your favorite politician is promising to treat the people you don't like in a way you wouldn't like being treated, then clear off because that politician is on the wrong side of history and is inviting you to be so, as well.

The Measure of Failure

Absolutely no one will involuntarily die due to lack of access to that which diminishes suffering and/or sustains flourishing, and that mandate will not be violated; a person dying due to genuine lack of access will not stand. Those who allowed this atrocity will plan and facilitate, with their own private wealth, a memorial full-hero event where that person's life is honored with public celebration and a lavish public monument, paid for, in full, with the entirety of their own private funds, by those who allowed this atrocity.

The gift of living in a functional People is that you do not have to contribute in any way, and you will be assured your livelihood is guaranteed by the very fabric of our People. That said, Labor is encouraged within the confines of Decency; Labor will be returned in kind in predictable, equitable, substantive ways. These ways will be clearly defined and delineated as part of the Civic Code, and will leave no room for misunderstanding, manipulation, compromise, corruption, coercion (get caught up in the alliteration if you like), or even a whiff of anything other than fully upright business practices will be rerouted in the form of the entire contaminated balance, especially the boss's personal wealth, to the immediate non-management staff, with no recourse for the owner or anyone else.

If this sounds like communism to you, then read the Manifesto of the Communist Party by Marx and Engles. If you refuse to read that document until you understand it, then let those who have studied that document, (along with many other controversial works, of this and many other sober disciplines), talk about Communism.

Labor Unions

Employers, left alone, quickly become slave masters; this is as much a description of reality as "people exploit other people for gains." As such, all laborers laboring below corporate officers and their direct staff, are to unionize. Unionization will be quick, straightforward, immediately effective, and enforceable with extreme prejudice. Our labor produces all the value that drives the entire economy, especially and crucially, the value that amasses in unfair places in unfair quantities and absolutely anywhere other than with the person who performed the labor.

Those few with an appetite beyond their Decency will have their excesses corrected automatically, instantly, untraceably, and permanently.

Calls to end this policy will be opportunities for the compilation of lists of those who called; they will answer for their Values, and will be treated with clinical Empathy as they do.

United States-Centric Thinking and Me

I try not to focus on the US because it doesn't deserve that much consideration. It has written a lot of checks, backed in full confidence by… itself. Using another metaphor, we are feral. We have been left to ourselves for most of our lives, viewed from afar with reverence for what we can do, and being welcomed into the house. But we pee and rip and bite and bark. We have openly mocked the training treats; what does the rolled-up magazine do, though? Make them panic, flail, and scramble for something to bite? Oh, that's just 9/11. And I'm back with the US. See? More magazine until treats are materially earned through Decent behavior.

Introduction

I called this a self-help book because I do genuinely understand that people who read it might become more able to help themselves out of their misery, their woe, their dependency, their guilt, their self-hate, all of these things. It's totally not because I thought it would stand out in the Self Help section.

Full disclosure, this is a box of my ideas, packed beautifully and firmly by a good-natured robot. More directly, I wrote this using ChatGPT; I fed the AI my original writing, and it produced the bulk of this book. This first edition represents the rigor of my effort and the best of my ability as I sit here typing in bed. The original writing I used is in the back of this book, along with the ChatGPT thread. I have taken special care to keep this document comprehensible to adults and reasonably-literate and informed teenagers. For those for whom it is inaccessible, please let us know, as we actively need to make this document clear, pithy, transparent, and accessible to all.

References to clearly hoped-for future aspirations will be written in the present tense, and it will be up to the reader to parse the aspirational passages from the rigorous ones.

For the sake of clarity, and to begin the process of striving for Decency, written renderings of official terms, e.g. “Decency” will be capitalized. Other such definitions are provided in the end notes.

Those insulted or offended by my words may note that I do not attack people,but rather stick to their rationale and opinion. If you want to assault me in some way, well, that’s why I wrote this.

Calls to release a “clean” or “family friendly” edition will be met with open, direct, crushing ridicule and mockery. We have seen what you cheer for. We have seen what you vote for.

The Places in Society

I don’t start talking about me, about how this seems dictator or fascist because what I am doing is handing the maximum liberty at the expense of no one but fascist brats!

Titles are not social status. They are only used to address one's area of work, and are never insisted upon.

This is not conveniently “politics." We are polite, articulate, and honest. We will speak our mind at all times and show Decency by example. We will also mock and curse and use weaponized wit, but we will smile and show our empathy the whole time.

Sure, yup, ChatGPT did this

Full disclosure, this is a box of my ideas, packed beautifully and firmly by a good-natured robot. More directly, I wrote this using ChatGPT; I fed the AI my original writing, and it produced the bulk of this book. This first edition represents the rigor of my effort and the best of my ability as I sit here typing in bed. The original writing I used is in the back of this book, along with the ChatGPT thread. I have taken special care to keep this document comprehensible to adults, and reasonably-literate and informed teenagers. For those for whom it is inaccessible, please let us know, as we actively need to make this document clear, pithy, transparent, and accessible to all.

References to clearly hoped-for future aspirations will be written in the present tense, and it will be up to the reader to parse the aspirational passages from the rigorous ones.

For the sake of clarity, and to begin the process of striving for Decency, written renderings of official terms, eg “Decency” will be capitalized. Other such definitions are provided in the end notes no

Calls to release a “family friendly” edition will be met with ridicule and mockery. We have seen what you cheer for. We have seen what you vote for.

Those insulted or offended by my words may note that I do not attack people, but rather stick to their rationale and opinion. If you want to assault me in some way, well, that’s why I wrote this.

Progress, tides, and ships

Rising tides will actually raise all ships because we no longer ignore small, floundering vessels full of terrified, drowning unfortunates, being actively scavenged as they struggle, panic, and die, by a number of pirate aircraft carriers that sink and raid anyone and anything they want to without accountability. Those carriers are on notice; you’re about to be on the other end of the torpedo.

The conclusion

The conclusion is that we think we ought to work together to survive as a species. Then there are those who do not; which are we?

"The only problem with fundamentalist religion is the fundamentals of religion." - Sam Harris, I think? Paraphrased to expand scope

"There's an ocean of wealth floating just above us. Let's pop it." - Don't worry about it

"I'm staying in the race!" - President Joe Biden, 82, July 5 2024, to the nerve-raw American People.

"We will win! We will win!" - Senator Chuck Schumer, 74, February 5 2025, to a crowd of addled, oblivious, aging supporters, weeks after the newly-elected president was sworn in and started upsetting everything in his reach. Schumer supplied us with the perfect anti-rallying cry for the rise of the People at the expense of dead, dry wood, and its penchant to ignite and burn everything we value to the ground, and then selfishly die, leaving us to watch helplessly as evil, stupid, selfish people run in and start grabbing whatever they can while the gettin's good.

Self Help and This Book

I called this a self-help book because I do genuinely understand that people who read it might become more able to help themselves out of their misery, their woe, their dependency, their guilt, their self-hate, all of these things. It’s totally not because I thought it would stand out in the Self Help section.

Ideology

Philosophy

The overarching concept

The major point of this is that if people uniformly have what they need and nothing threatens them, they can excel in their passions and benefit Humanity in ways that were scoffed at during the age of laissez faire capitalism. There will be no need to struggle, labor, or fret, as they will be supplied at least the bottom tier of Maslow's Hierarchy of Human Needs with flawless accessibility. They will be less likely to take from, abuse, manipulate, and assault each other because they will have what they need and will be able to thrive in a culture that values human life over all else. What has never been available before is the global decision to be decent.

"...Fear itself."

That which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

"Bravery is the conscious decision to set fear aside, and do what must be done in defiance of fear. Bravery can spring forth only from fear; if you are not afraid, then you cannot be courageous." - Nate

Philosophy

Ignorance leads to fear.

"Fear leads to anger. Anger leads to hate. Hate leads to suffering!" - Yoda, Star Wars Episode I, 1999

Ignorance

We all start in a state of total ignorance. Most of us develop, because 5 year olds that still kick and squall like an infant don't make it. Thing is that we almost universally do develop past that. We develop so well that we are able to build protective frameworks around the things that feel too challenging to parse, and walk away like those things don't have to matter as long as one does not acknowledge them and can intellectually walk away. That framework of skittish avoidance and dismissal is fear.

Fear

That internal process which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

Anger

Entitlement and expectations are usually how anger sparks. Enough anger metastasizes to the heart and prevents joy, peace, and especially, contentment.

Hate

Hatred and bigotry have defined all of Us, ever since we started splitting Ourselves into Tribes. Whole organizations and clubs revolve around a collective hatred for some "other." They get tattoos and espouse whatever historical paradigm suits them to emulate and idealize. At the core of hate is fear. To allow One's fear to dictate their worldview is to openly declare oneself an openly-declared coward. Openly hateful Persons will be Civically received as the cowards that they are. Concerted effort to tame one's hateful fear will be actively facilitated in any reasonable way available. No grudge will be held by any involved party, and the reformed Person will be reintegrated to normal Civic life.

Suffering

Well, that's why we are here. Children are actively terrified by those charged with their wellbeing and learning. Screaming, cursing, belittling, confinement, and physical violence convince children that fear is normal and necessary, and that the world is inherently dangerous and capricious. That fear becomes a standard feature for whole populations, to the point that it can be relied upon to easily manipulate all People to force unwilling action from the fearful person. Early fear manifests in both.

The Human Progress Stack

The Human Progress Stack; ordered priorities of Democratic Humanism, in the service of human flourishing and progress.

Human Flourishing; there is no greater cause than the Human Cause. Ever.

Decency; we are a social species. Be good, and be well.

Rationality; it is important that what we think and do make sense.

Progress; We deserve better and We will not wait for permission from parasites and conmen. “The only thing we have to fear is fear itself.”

Nate - “The only thing we do not tolerate is intolerance.” In both cases, the overwhelming force of social mandate for truth and safety will stamp out the poison and bile in our Cultures.

The Veil of Ignorance and the Dunning-Kruger Effect

In this work, I have, to my utmost ability and that of sympathetic others, remained true to the unachievable ideal of the Veil of Ignorance (John Rawls, A Theory of Justice, 1971). I am also doing my best to stay at a useful position on the Dunning-Kruger Curve (Dunning and Kruger, Unskilled and unaware of it, 1999). I will fail in both accounts, but I will try anyway. Given that, I reject with prejudice the idea that I am, should be, or ever will be, a Civic official or anything else other than a guy who wrote a book. I energetically reject power, position, titles, or any other social or political status for this work; I will accept awards reserved for academia, as fully earned and appropriate.

This vision, as it propagates, belongs to the People, and the People will proceed to build their Societies unmolested as long as the global rule of Decency is upheld by the immovable majority who demand livelihood, safety, and contentment.

The Onus

This is because we have yet, from our early days, to make a concerted People-wide attempt to conquer fear. Yes, I am suggesting that we as the Humanity of Planet Earth need to finally sack up, unite, and tame fear as a prevalent influence; those who attempt to leverage fear for their own gains are traitors and will be Guided through their journey to Decency. This is key to everything. We must grow up as a species. Right now we are petulant, deluded teenagers still carrying the animus, superstition, and bad advice of an infancy casting about for answers in the dark, while an opportunistic few manipulate truth and deception, and feed their poison to the pious, credulous, náive masses directly and through bought-off People of the Cloth and corrupt officials. The current system relies completely on the assumption that every single person is infected with a deep well of Fear that nature thrust upon them, amplified by the sizable mass of Fear thrust upon them by their parents. This Fear can be seized upon to great effect, so it is vital to this former system's viability that everyone is uniformly infected to at least a useful level of manipulable, reactionary, omnidirectional fear. The 1950s in America were a fine time for Fear, as governmental bodies were drunk on The Bomb, propaganda, suspicion, paranoia, and existential dread. This coincided with the largest generation in human history arriving to sop up all the fear and sugar cereal they could. They were raised to be selfish, oblivious, credulous, dim, and entitled as all fuck. They are now in their 70s. And the picture becomes clearer. Some pursue their fears rather than any other set of interests, and it bears out in their lives. They are deeply insecure cowards who believe a strong front will keep them safe from that which quietly terrifies them. They believe their safety comes with an unwavering offensive posture. This belief will be retired.

Historically Poor Choices

Historical and recent political and social outcomes have made it quite clear that the way we have been doing things since we became aware of ourselves has been inexorably flawed. This is to be expected of an infant species, but it is reasonable to expect that any self-aware species would eventually arrive at an inflection point where they collectively awaken to Decency and Unity, or promptly destroy themselves.

That said, this long sad legacy of hiring almost exclusively lawyers and economists to serve Us as they desire to do has born out in who We have decided to be. We should not keep doing it, as if that isn't a big part of why we're here now.

Future talk

There are not to be any bad, dirty, naughty, evil, or otherwise objectively or subjectively foul words. Language will not be a playground for the prudes and censors. Intensified self fanning, rosary rituals, self-flagellation, or lavish sacrificial ceremonies will likely have no divine effect, but I would be overjoyed to be proven wholly wrong on this; rhetoric is not proof, and neither is any sacrosanct document. Words are either appropriate for their context or they are not. It is fine to be kind while expressing that something felt inappropriate, and that the communicator might think better in the future. Assuming this is not a naked attempt at regressive speech policing, the communicator might nod acknowledgement, consider what all was said, and then carry on well because no ego or anything else was hurt. It's not "correction" (which ought to be benign anyway), but kind and good point-of-view sharing. E.g. "Dave, I think the situation didn't call for 'flibbertigibbet'. Think on that, cool?" And Dave is nonplussed either way; it would be odd for him to vocalize a response, even simply to thank Dave. He nodded that he understood, and that can be it.

Rude language and children

Children will be taught what is appropriate and how to effectively use colorful language. Children ought then to be free to develop this critical social skill themselves so they are ready. This continues into otherwise innocuous acts of brutishness, strumpethood, foppery, etc. The first inquiry of law is "Is there a material victim?" If the answer to that is either "no" or a set of contrivances and contortions which lead seemingly nowhere, then a crime has not been committed. Habeas Corpus!

I think it would be a good idea if legislation is being voted upon that makes an appreciable impact on a group of people‘s quality of life. I think it would be noble if a small group of those people sat quietly in the room as the measure was voted upon. Knowing that upon its adoption, the law will be in effect for those people now. It would’ve been very nice for those people to be able to look upon their oppressor, and for the oppressor to be seen by them as he does it.

Marriages should model business partnerships for the most part and will be just as easy to create and dissolve.

Any employment position should be, as it is possible, offered as work-from-home. Pointlessly demanding the physical presence of all your employees is slave-driverish. Positions that could clearly be done over tele-labor should be allowed. Any task-oriented workday expectations should be given a clear description of expectations for that day. Expectations will be fair and clearly doable, and employees are asked to report unfair tele-labor workday expectations.

In the event that stubborn power is all that is blocking the people from this freedom in liberty, then that power will be eliminated to open the way for those blocked.

I will then warn and then annihilate with nuclear weapons the capital cities that defy their people. They will all be warned and for what I understand we have very good stealth bombers. I wouldn't say more than about three iterations will instill the message that the People will be free to Flourish. Such applications of the People's Will should be necessary and this time they know just how badly that we can hurt them

Celestial Neighbors

Human beings are all the same species, but we are not dismissing the possibility that we might need to learn a whole new taxonomy from as-yet uncontacted celestial neighbors. Therefore, it is important that we erase false distinctions, and unify as one People.

If not for us, then as a good look if we meet our neighbors.

Religious faith

Why is it that the faithful only say "my deeply-held religious beliefs" when they feel it is necessary to defend their actions or expressed attitudes? Why are religious radicals never breathless philanthropists? Why have Religions of Love been at the head of all atrocity, while dragging an anchor on Our path through Progress? I propose that it's because those moral frameworks, and their conveying agents and media, are flimsy in every way they need to be strong, and absent upon calls for compassion and need.

There is expressly no official religion. They will all be treated with equal ambivalence, and groups that make an issue of themselves will seek Guidance. There is an explicit and forceful separation between the Affairs of Civics and religion; failure of the separating powers in this scope is tantamount to the suicide of Humanity.

Competition

A decent competitive spirit is healthy. Those who define themselves by their singular determination to win at all cost, focused by their fuming hatred for any resistance and the People resisting, will be Guided back to Decency and reunion with the People.

Needlessly abusive, degrading, or otherwise hurtful speech

We will cure the foul hearts of those who find the suffering of others amusing, full stop. This can begin with the pervasive meanness with which we address each other. "Ahh, I'm just bustin' his chops..." by persistently bringing up his limp and whatever else? No, bad funny. That's bullying, and you are adults. Be better. This also pervades media, eroding our sensitivity to the suffering of each other. I see some nuance here, in that if it is a piece of media that depicts madcap, slapstick behavior including the consequence being temporary to being meaningless, well, that might as well be a cartoon. The point is that our culture has become a roiling pot of animus towards each other and the rest of the world. Entitlement coupled with the inability to set aside entitlement is a huge problem, but I'll get to that.

Rationale

Up until now I have not given the rationale for anything I have stated here. Specifically, I have not explained my reasoning for being so very energetic about Children. We all start completely dependent, terrified, tearful, and unlearned. We all are asked to grow from that helpless mass to adults of grand industry and clever wit. The problem is that our parents had to grow up, as well, and without the benefit of rigid standards for how adults are to treat children. "We don't respect children very much in this country." My parents felt well in their rights to strike me with objects and to bark at me (this was common among my peers at church). In doing so, they infected me with fear. Most parents do this; infect their children with fear instead of teaching them to manage it and redirect it productively or at least harmlessly, and then raising their children to have an easier time controlling fear. Fear of pain from touching the stove is one thing; fear metastasized to the heart as a result of childhood existential fear is incurable, and is nearly always passed from a parent. See *Bob's Burger*s for examples of a functional family. Again, you are never entitled or even allowed to angrily shout at or touch a child. We are fully dependent on our children to carry on the work of Humanity, and they can't do that if they are living in unresolved dread, care of the people who were supposed to be protecting them from every kind of trauma. The less trauma a child carries into adulthood, the better. Children sometimes scream when they are upset. Parents, fix your hearts, or die.

Ignorance leads to fear. - Nate, to preface the Yoda Quote

“Fear leads to anger. Anger leads to hate. Hate leads to suffering!” - Yoda, Star Wars Episode I, 1999

Fear

That internal process which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

Anger

Entitlement and expectations are usually how anger sparks. Enough anger metastasizes to the heart and prevents joy, peace, and especially, contentment.

Hate

Hatred and bigotry have defined all of Us, ever since we started splitting Ourselves into categories. Whole organizations and clubs revolve around a collective hatred for some "other." They get tattoos and espouse whatever historical paradigm suits them to emulate and idealize. At the core of hate is fear. To allow One's fear to dictate their worldview is to openly declare oneself an openly-declared coward. Openly hateful Persons will be Civically received as the cowards that they are. Concerted effort to tame one's hateful fear will be actively facilitated in any reasonable way available. No grudge will be held by any involved party, and the reformed Person will be reintegrated to normal Civic life.

Suffering

Well, that's why we are here. Children are actively terrified by those charged with their wellbeing and learning. Screaming, cursing, belittling, confinement, and physical violence convince children that fear is normal and necessary, and that the world is inherently dangerous and capricious. That fear becomes a standard feature for whole populations, to the point that it can be relied upon to easily manipulate all People to force unwilling action from the fearful person. Early fear manifests in either social insecurity or bullying. From there, the process is in motion in the person's brain, and they will never be fully whole. This ends.

"...Fear itself."

That which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

"Bravery is the conscious decision to set fear aside, and do what must be done in defiance of fear. Bravery can spring forth only from fear; if you are not afraid, then you cannot be courageous." - Nate

"Some choose to open the window and look at the stars; some choose to bolt their doors, bar their windows, take up a shotgun, and stare at the front door, waiting." - Nate, I think

The Human Progress Stack

The Human Progress Stack; ordered priorities of Democratic Humanism, in the service of human flourishing and progress.

Human Flourishing; there is no greater cause than the Human Cause. Ever.

Decency; we are a social species. Be good, and be well.

Rationality; it is important that what we think and do make sense.

Progress; We deserve better and We will not wait for permission from parasites and conmen. “The only thing we have to fear is fear itself.”

Nate - The only thing we do not tolerate is intolerance. In both cases, the overwhelming force of social mandate for truth and safety will stamp out the poison and bile in our Cultures.

The Veil of Ignorance and the Dunning-Kruger Effect

In this work, I have, to my utmost ability and that of sympathetic others, remained true to the unachievable ideal of the Veil of Ignorance (John Rawls, A Theory of Justice, 1971). I am also doing my best to stay at a useful position on the Dunning-Kruger Curve (Dunning and Kruger, Unskilled and unaware of it, 1999). I will fail in both accounts, but I will try anyway. Given that, I reject with prejudice the idea that I am, should be, or ever will be, a Civic official or anything else other than a guy who wrote a book. I energetically reject power, position, titles, or any other social or political status for this work; I will accept awards reserved for academia.

This vision, as it propagates, belongs to the People, and the People will proceed to build their Societies unmolested as long as the global rule of Decency is upheld by the immovable majority who demand livelihood, safety, and contentment.

The overarching concept

The major point of this is that if people uniformly have what they need and nothing threatens them, they can excel in their passions and benefit Humanity in ways that were scoffed at during the age of laissez faire capitalism. There will be no need to struggle, labor, or fret, as they will be supplied at least the bottom tier of Maslow's Hierarchy of Human Needs with flawless accessibility. They will be less likely to take from, abuse, manipulate, and assault each other because they will have what they need and will be able to thrive in a culture that values human life over all else. What has never been available before is the global decision to be decent.

The Onus

- this is because we have yet, from our early days, to make a concerted People-wide attempt to conquer fear. Yes, I am suggesting that we as the Humanity of Planet Earth need to finally sack up, unite, and tame fear as a prevalent influence; those who attempt to leverage fear for their own gains are traitors and will be guided through their journey to Decency. This is key to everything. We must grow up as a species. Right now we are petulant, deluded teenagers still carrying the animus, superstition, and bad advice of an infancy casting about for answers in the dark, while an opportunistic few manipulate truth and deception, and feed their poison to the pious, credulous, náive masses directly and through bought-off People of the Cloth and corrupt officials. The current system relies completely on the assumption that every single person is infected with a deep well of fear that nature thrust upon them, amplified by the sizable mass of fear thrust upon them by their parents. This fear can be seized upon to great effect, so it is vital to this former system's viability that everyone is uniformly infected to at least a useful level of manipulable, reactionary, omnidirectional fear. The 1950s in America were a fine time for Fear, as governmental bodies were drunk on The Bomb, propaganda, suspicion, paranoia, and existential dread. This coincided with the largest generation in human history arriving to sop up all the fear and sugar cereal they could. They were raised to be selfish, oblivious, credulous, dim, and entitled as all fuck. They are now in their 70s. And the picture becomes clearer. Some pursue their fears rather than any other set of interests, and it bears out in their lives. They are deeply insecure cowards who believe a strong front will keep them safe from that which quietly terrifies them. They believe their safety comes with an unwavering offensive posture. This belief will be retired.

The Onus cont. -

Historical and recent political and social outcomes have made it quite clear that the way we have been doing things since we became aware of ourselves has been inexorably flawed. This is to be expected of an infant species, but it is reasonable to expect that any self-aware species would eventually arrive at an inflection point where they collectively awaken to Decency and unity, or promptly destroy themselves.

That said, this long sad legacy of hiring almost exclusively lawyers and economists to serve Us as they desire to do has born out in who We have decided to be.

We should not keep doing it as if that isn't a big part of why we're here now.

Parenting

Your child is not your subordinate, slave, pet, toy, status symbol, mannequin, proxy for your buried insecurities and failures, and they are not your property. From a sociopolitical perspective, Parents have no rights of any kind to raise their children the way they like, and will be acutely aware that breaches in Decency against a child, biologically theirs or not, will result in the child being immediately moved to a Family that cannot carry forth their own offspring and have been qualified to adopt a child of the age of the child being replanted.

It takes a village to raise a child, and a village they shall have. The adoption process will not last more than 48 hours, as a vetted, ready Family will be contacted to spend a couple days meeting the child.

Children do not need to be coddled or toughened; they need to be enabled and guided. "What my father did when I was your age" is practically illegal. Justifying your abuse with anecdotes of your abused past is the polar opposite behavior that will maintain the integrity of your family.

There will be no further penalty to those parents, and they will be free to continue having children for those who cannot have their own, or learn and do better.

Your child is a direct reflection on you; if you are an unreliable, dangerous, capricious threat that they can't get away from, and they can't please, much less feel loved and protected and respected from, it will be immediately clear in contrast to their peers. They will stick out among their well-homed peers.

This is a lot of change.

Yes, this is a lot of change, and a lot of the effort will be in defeating the innate resistance to change at all. I would like to think that acceptance of our Utopia will reach a tipping point once it shows itself functional. We will not need to engage in propaganda because fairly soon after it starts, it will be obvious that We are onto something. We will be well and content, enjoying the progress that is possible when the vast majority of the Society's wealth will be circulating, as opposed to being sequestered, accumulating, with no considered endpoint and no concern for anything other than "Big Number = Better. Only best good enough" We will prune those accumulations and reclaim the liberated Value to the People as soon as it is responsible to do so.

Flash Primer: “Private” refers to that which is not owned by The People.“Public” means anything that is owned, maintained, and used by The People. We will respond in Revolutionary ways to the suggestion that targeting ultra-wealthy corporations is in any way portentous of government threats to local businesses, chains, and locations. Pruned value will also be applied, in equitable measure, to infrastructure, homes, environmental projects, and most importantly, enabling Parents, Teachers, and everyone else to raise and educate our Children to be strong, Decent, and Liberated. I left out commerce as being there for pruned funds because Civic Funds do not support non-Civic businesses; they may sink or swim, but they do not deserve or have any right to live. The People are no longer subsidizing private business. Period.

The conclusion

The conclusion is that we think we ought to work together to survive as a species. Then there are those who do not; which are we?

Herecy

Heresy - (HAIR-uh-see)

Is my way better than YHWH?!

I will state for the record that it is my contention that Abrahamic Monotheism (A.M.) is the single worst influence to pervade modernity. It was developed by barbaric savages as a means to control their own, and justify ongoing atrocity. Something occurred in the intervening years between the Christian Old Testament and the New Testament; Roman Occupation. The Master Morality of the Old Testament demanded blood, spoil, and complete annihilation of anything in their way in a frantic pious ecstasy. This stands in sharp contrast to the Slave Morality of the New Testament which advocated for quiet piety, good will to People, salvation through faith as opposed to sacrifice, and grateful subservience. It produces and feeds on that host's misery, insecurity, and fear. Its narrative is internally and externally inconsistent, clearly written to boast and to control. Its tales are actively absurd, its message focuses on the reader's loyalty to its message and associated deity. How everyone else is either filthy and ignorant, or in league with Satan. It has, like the Hydra, grown three heads, and the only way to neutralize this threat is to kill the body, the core doctrine of all three factions. That said, I do not accept that killing people solves anything. The core doctrine will be the focus of our energies, and it will be relentless. A.M. cowers in the dark plotting against the skeptical and secular civic values. Compulsory Civic education will place a heavy emphasis on skepticism and reverence for truth and reality. The deity of the Israelites loves and demands ignorance; We, as one People, will be informed.

"I was born sick, but I love it. Command me to be well. Amen." - Hozier, Take me to church, 2013.

Rude language and the Law

This document is superior to Abrahamic texts in that it was composed in its entirety by one Person over the course of a month on modern computing devices. That by itself is enough to dismiss the Old Testament. The senselessly-difficult and near-total failure to retain its text and context, and then have the audacity to blame you for your own damnation because even if someone has never thought about the idea of a deity, the message of salvation through Jesus Christ is written on their hearts.

This is as opposed to any ancient form of capturing messages that are frankly a telling indication that their message was not important enough to their deity to provide them with durable materials and techniques for information capture and archival storage anything proposed in those volumes. Am I better at conveying a message than YHWH?! If this was trivial for me to concoct, YHWH completely fails in preserving that (word-for-word).

I think it was just waiting until the population reached a certain size to consider the goat population. It's cruel to the goats, too. We know that now.

Where are we now on the Human timeline? Even a trillionth of the way in? We don't have the fuckiest idea! But then when would be the time to catch it before it got unwieldy? I also love it when I see a person of faith begin a response with "Well, God can't…" It seems that deity cannot do anything Humans can, but we can do some things it can do, like kill people for touching its special box/apartment as it was about to fall off a cart while meandering the eastern Mediterranean desert. We could accept the assumption that the Israelites are the true People of God because it was just obvious that this time, that these people were it for the singular point from which all knowledge, power, and authority springs; much to the chagrin of anything within a 500 mile radius of their current position that might represent gains for their totally cool razing of the desert.

They could have kept the entire growing archive in plain view of all and singularly accessible and fully comprehensible, without clergy, to all interested parties, actively accessible to anyone. Instead, they jealously protected the bound papyrus scrolls with threat of violence and magic.

This is as opposed to modern writing conventions that have it that good inspirational writing should be pithy and efficient, convey its message as intended, contain as few assumptions as possible, to back up its claims, to be known in its entirety with no reason for additional, supplemental materials or qualifications, be rigidly rooted in the ever-challenging truth, actively and explicitly rejecting rigid adherence to itself, be updated freely as time progresses, easily read in its entirety in one session, and make no bold claims or fanciful tales of inexcusable righteous conquest is OmniOmni, then why didn't he even try? If the entirety of the rest of Human history and eternity rode on this message, then why did it conspicuously and magically make it a permanent, unaltered feature that can be gone to, seen, touched, and operated to get God's perfect comfort and guidance just for them?

Because the ancient Israelites wouldn't be able to even conceptually grasp this; not even close. Too bad for the last 5000 that He hasn't noticed how bad we have it screwed up and send a rock-solid modern revision of his Holy word. And tell me that God-issued, completely verifiable as genuine, modern Word wouldn't be immediately rejected by half of Christendom for not being the 1611 Authorized King James Bible.

It would have been trivial for YHWH if the description and bluster is to be believed, couldn't do that, but a few of them could remember stories until they could get written on papyrus, and they never considered for a second that God should be carrying things like Data-At-Rest until the people He was shoving it at was even the slightest bit capable of preserving to any degree, physically or academically.

If the Old Testament were found to be fully accurate in its entirety and detail, I would be forced to acknowledge God's existence, His works, the works of his People; He still would not receive my reverence and certainly not worship because of the inexcusable atrocities detailed in that document. Suppose I only believe the tales of bloodlust. Not even just human blood.

Your god sucks and you creep me the fuck out

The main point is that if YHWH is as they say He is, then why did He choose then, there, and them to receive, carry, and preserve his critical holy message to Humanity? It only makes sense if YHWH is a surrogate for the will of the rulers of the time. Also, fascinating that YHWH has yet to give the slightest measurable hint of existing, so He willfully went from an obvious and present force, to giving no indication of itself, in an active modern pursuit of a trace. Ubiquitous to completely absent; on a very convenient timeline and with considerable clawing tooth and nail at cobblestone streets by the Church before relenting to adopt finding these discoveries as truth, and dismantling standing superstition. And that seems to coincide with the advancement of science and how we educate our children, and that trend continues.

This has yet to touch on the content of the message. The message is that YHWH loves the Israelites, but they keep fuckin up. He gives them ways to clean their filthy spirits by ritual sacrifice, but this gets to be a lot. There was a grassroots effort led by an itinerant preacher with a dozen followers to ease the People from their lived experience of ancient misery with promises of paradise, victory, and bounty in the hereafter.

They have holy text and clergy to interpret and preach them. We have this document, and it is sufficient.

Tenets of Satanism vs. The Ten Commandments

Casual comparison between rulesets

The Ten Commandments

Exodus 20:1-17 KJV

1 And God spake all these words, saying,

2 I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3 Thou shalt have no other deities before me.

4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

8 Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

10 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

11 For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

12 Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 Thou shalt not kill.

14 Thou shalt not commit adultery.

15 Thou shalt not steal.

16 Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

17 Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

Tenets of Satanism

The Satanic Temple

THERE ARE SEVEN FUNDAMENTAL TENETS

I One should strive to act with compassion and empathy toward all creatures in accordance with reason.

II The struggle for justice is an ongoing and necessary pursuit that should prevail over laws and institutions.

III One’s body is inviolable, subject to one’s own will alone.

IV The freedoms of others should be respected, including the freedom to offend. To willfully and unjustly encroach upon the freedoms of another is to forgo one's own.

V Beliefs should conform to one's best scientific understanding of the world. One should take care never to distort scientific facts to fit one's beliefs.

VI People are fallible. If one makes a mistake, one should do one's best to rectify it and resolve any harm that might have been caused.

VII Every tenet is a guiding principle designed to inspire nobility in action and thought. The spirit of compassion, wisdom, and justice should always prevail over the written or spoken word.

I find I cannot honestly read both without feeling like the second one is more ethical, more relevant, and easier (and more direct) to follow for a good life.

"This is a Christian nation!" - deluded MAGA brat

"Yeah, clearly." - Nate

Even if you are confident you understand that whole thing, how many worthwhile commandments can you pull out of that tangle of text? Oh, BT-Dubs, The Fruit of the Spirit (the socially-good traits that are defined clearly in their primary source document) is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance. I learned it "Love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control" because of the Christian camp song (the fruit of the Spirit's not a cumquat. NO IT'S NOT!)

Galatians 5:22-23, King James Version

22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

Ok, that's a lot of old words. Can we dress it up into something we can use immediately?

Ephesians 4:32, King James Version

32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

(doo doo, da doodly do; Ephesians 4:32)

But I think that's the New Testament squishy God-Jesus father/son salvation tag team!

I did concede to use the King James Version in this document just to include those who are staunch that the 1611 King James Bible is the only useful or even acceptable translation.

Religion

If your god requires you to defend it, then it is not what you believe it is, and it is definitely not able to do what you believe it can. If your god (even tacitly) asks you (or any other faithful of similar belief in the same god with the same principles) to be unkind or hurtful to those who do not share your belief, then even if it is exactly what you think it is, it is not worthy of even respect, much less

List of actions YHWH is unable to perform as per the perfect holy word of Himself

Manage land to any useful degree

Manage multiple opposing populations without demanding serial genocide

He couldn't place His chosen people on a spot on Earth without having them slash a swath of ecstatic serial genocide across the same general area they started at; select a hospitable place for His chosen People, the Israelites, instead of having them walk 40 miles to the Mediterranean coast, and that still being a clearly shit location that any OmniOmni being wouldn't even consider. Almost as if God didn't know that The Americas existed. Or Europe, or most of Africa, or most of Asia, or Australia, or the oceans… I mean, this thing knows the entirety of all there is to know about reality, from when reality formed, with no problem influencing bosons and cosmic filaments with equal intuition and ease.

YHWY also cannot…

Make a garden sans some insane tree that infects Humanity with original sin forever

Build a box/apartment/palanquin

Not kill unanointed people who touched his box/apartment/palanquin in good faith

Not order the annihilation of any cultures that seemed inconvenient where they were

Resist punishing His People ruthlessly, needantly, repeatedly, and with no apparent sense of ethics

Build a temple

Keep His temple from being destroyed several times

Rebuild destroyed temples

Control His temper

Control His jealousy

Forgive the sins of the unrepentant

Tolerate sin in His presence (Heaven, not the rest of everything that should also be in His presence, but are somehow tolerable as long as His people don't find out, and then the whole system of sin-debt falls apart because He does tolerate sin in His presence, so if the sin-presence thing is really like that, then He is a rank hypocrite, liar, murderer, savage fascist who blaringly echos the savages who borrowed Him from the Canaanites and then paraded like they had something uniquely and specially theirs to attribute their genocidal brutality to).

Forgive people who talk shit about his buddy/colleague/Himself or something,The Holy Spirit

Forgive anyone for anything He didn't like, either by killing and burning a large mammal of some kind, or more recently by "accepting" His Son, Jesus Christ "into their hearts" and that being good enough to knock a bunch of sin loose, but it does require regular maintenance in the form of scraping and groveling for forgiveness. Jesus, as you know, is YHWH's sacrifice to Us for sin beginning with original sin. The Lamb was slaughtered for your iniquity, so all you have to do is live your entire life as though you are expecting any moment to hear the trumpets blast and will be immediately flung bodily out of Earth-reality and into Heaven-reality.

> I really tried to find a full but concise list of YHWH's inadequacies, failures, and personality flaws, but any search I conducted resulted in the same poisoned results of Evangelical apologetics and unsupported, childish results like "God cannot lie, God cannot mislead you, God cannot sin against Himself or you…" worthless bullshit. But that does show a serious tactic that needs to be addressed, in that I could not find the information I wanted through the seemingly deliberate poisoning of search results.

So if you find yourself jealousy defending deific things, then your deities are not real and you are a vector for bad ideas to spread. Helpless, vulnerable, weak, flimsy, fragile, temporary things require defending. Strength defends the vulnerable, and does everything in its power to do so. So, all of you packed into a room being fed the Word while presenting an obvious patina of piety and grace for yourself, which is it?

Aspirations for Utopia

The “Not his, Ours!” Utopia Party

Rude language and children

Children will be taught what is appropriate and how to effectively use colorful language. Children ought then to be free to develop this critical social skill themselves so they are ready. This continues into otherwise innocuous acts of brutishness, strumpethood, foppery, etc. The first inquiry of law is "Is there a material victim?" If the answer to that is either "no" or a set of contrivances and contortions which lead seemingly nowhere, then a crime has not been committed. Habeas Corpus!

I think it would be a good idea if legislation is being voted upon that makes an appreciable impact on a group of people‘s quality of life. I think it would be noble if a small group of those people sat quietly in the room as the measure was voted upon. Knowing that upon its adoption, the law will be in effect for those people now. It would’ve been very nice for those people to be able to look upon their oppressor, and for the oppressor to know they are watching them.

Marriage and Law

Marriages should model business partnerships for the most part and will be just as easy to create and dissolve

Work From Home

Any employment position should be, as it is possible, offered as work-from-home. Pointlessly demanding the physical presence of all your employees is slave-driverish. Positions that could clearly be done over Tele-Labor should be allowed. Any task-oriented workday expectations should be given a clear description of expectations for that day. Expectations will be fair, and employees are asked to report unfair Tele-Labor workday expectations.

Guns, Decency, and you

I like guns; I pity gun nuts and their families. Realistically, there is no way to meaningfully enact traditional gun reform that will result in anything close to what we would hope for. The fact is that North America is armed. My hope is to foster healing, and to reduce the volume of gun violence by eroding the reasons people have to shoot each other, so that it comes to seem ridiculous even to us just how many guns we have, and the reasons for their manufacture and distribution. Then maybe some real work could be done to reduce that number. We will have to be embarrassed, first.

The Mark of the Beast 🤳 😈 😏 🖕

Fuck the Holy Spirit! I blaspheme its name!! Ok, I am assured an eternity in Hell for my unforgivable sin, so let's chive on. I do this every so often just to make sure my file is up to date. A credulous few hold that a required identification device constitutes their projection of the mythical Mark of the Beast as briefly, uselessly described in their text. If I do get to Heaven, I will be massively confused since somehow the infallible dictum of the Almighty was intentionally ridiculed and flagrantly violated, and yet its perfect home, Heaven, somehow exists; for my unending shock. The ancient Israelites got it right?!

Anyway… Everyone will be endowed with some permanently-installed device which will prove their identity. And nothing else. It has two functions, and only two functions; stay in the body, and identify the person. It will be installed at birth, and will be designed to be virtually indestructible, unhackable, and to be impossible to remove. It will be readable only at contact-distance. If that is too “The End Is Nigh” for you, then you are not needed in this conversation. Your doomsday bunker full of dedicated produce, guns, salted meats, weapons, survival clothing, fossil fuels, and ammunition will not be an appreciable difference-maker, but it’s still cute you think the bunker and its contents will be your guarantee of security. How are you recirculating air? What’s the sewage sitch? Did you think about UV, seasonal affective disorder, and Vitamin D? Or Vitamin C? Did you do enough extended trial-runs to be sure nothing breaks under load? Starting with yourself? You are not nearly as tough as you think you are, so if you are relying on your own grit, then you need to train a lot harder; this is clear in how you allocate your resources when envisioning a hypothetical doomsday on the image of what you were lied to was real because you were getting annoying, or something felt you were old enough to infect you with fear of the ethereal, in an attempt to make you compliant and useful like them.

I personally envision a tiny device installed into and fully-encased in bone in a suitable place in the skeleton with a custom-tool screw and flanges which will prohibit the device from being unscrewed for removal. Permanent medical glue and a bone graft to fill the bone channel will finalize the installation. No component nor the whole should be susceptible to damage or detection by body scanning of any kind. Ionizing radiation will need to be taken into account, so that in the event that ionizing radiation presents itself to the People, those remains that we can recover can be effortlessly identified. Guidance Servants will be able to scan People's devices only at the failure by any other means to identify the Person, as verified by at least two disinterested others.

It is only to be used in situations where an unavoidable requirement exists, and will not be enabled for payment, vehicle and home keys, etc. Again, this is only to be used for conclusive identification in unavoidable situations such as the discovery of a recently-discovered set of remains. In cases where a change of identity is required, the device will allow for this by authorized Servants. A change of identity is a solemn affair, and will be executed anonymously, with empathy and due diligence.

For those credulous malcontents suddenly piqued in their pious terror about the end times, I say that this very well could be "The Mark of the Beast," which makes me the Antichrist.

Boo!

Sure, fine, whatever. Septuagenarians quaking and bleating in their ingrained fear and entitlement are not terribly high on the order of what matters, and should be given only as much audience as they deserve, wholesale bloviating about what they fear and hate.

It is absolutely vital that you do not use any of this to justify anything or victimize anyone. This is not the Law.

Borders

There are to be no enforced borders, as the idea of nations and states will be abolished. Isolationism, protectionism, barrier-building, and a clear Civic movement thereto will be quelled by the rest of Us as soon as it is detected. Exclusive tribalism will not stand.

In their long-ignored place will be a humanity of many cultures and one race. No one will be legally shut out from a full, content human experience, and those who compromise this high ideal will be treated with kindness and humanity, as they are Guided to rediscover what it is to be Human.

Labor, cont.

Employees may be hired and utilized as established, however, most labor will consist of temp work as most people will be disinclined to seek employment as they already enjoy full, content lives without the need for employment. There will be no minimum wage as each offer for work will include a legal, mutual understanding between the employer and the employee. One day of collating documents is worth $150 to Fictional LLC, and includes the following expectations, etc.

End of life decisions

Individuals,families, and communities will make end of life decisions as is Decent and Culturally appropriate; the Law is not a factor. Individuals may also seek professional assistance in facilitating end of life. This service will be restricted in no way other than to maintain the Decency and Cultural appropriateness.

Money

Money will still be in effect, but will be revamped for greater accountability and security. This will likely be a crypto backend and some sort of physical device for the user; no physical form of general currency will be minted by any means. Money will be traceable, accountable and global, though options can be made available for case-situations. It will only tell on itself if there's too much in one place, and then will automatically redirect itself, in its entirety, back to the Treasury; this transaction will be automatic and agnostic of whom or what it came from, and will be untraceable. Leeway will be made for newly wealthy People as they sort out how to resolve excess wealth. The person with the holdings will see it was recalled by the Treasury, but the losing party will not be known by the Treasury. This transaction will be completely irreversible and permanent; attempts to reverse the charge will be impossible if nothing else than the Treasury cannot deposit an amount that will equal over $1B. It is fully the responsibility of the wealthy person to ensure that they do not violate that limit; again, responses to excessive wealth will be instant and permanent. We have no pity for excessively wealthy people and their wealth. Currently excessively-wealthy people will be given a grace period to distribute enough wealth to make the limit; attempts to retain excess Value surreptitiously will be met with immediate forfeiture of all personal funds, and permanent loss of access or control of any other money other than their own personal account. The newly non-wealthy person may decide to start again or may retire to a comfortable content life as a member of Humanity. They will be given the opportunity to relocate anywhere they like by the Civic good. They simply will not regain the recalled wealth. The punishment will be losing the wealth, and that ought to be a private affair; it is violently no one else's business. Their crime is detected. They are punished. They return to society with less money. Budgeting and book-keeping classes will be freely available as will all education. The end.

Weapons

Personally operated weapons of whatever stripe besides rocket-propelled will be completely legal to all who would have them, but this time that is subject to change. Sales of ammunition will be strictly monitored by the round, and individual rounds will be traceable by indelible marks that will lead effortlessly to the purchaser. Stolen guns will be treated like any other theft. Stolen ammunition will warrant a more energetic response, and will leave a wide wake. Home-loaded ammunition will be authorized by license to those with a bona-fide need (out of manufacture specification, etc, or by demonstrated, informed interest and understanding that they will be on a short list for untraceable rounds (marked balls will be available for these uses, too). We speculate that a population of content, well people are going to be less inclined to use weapons on each other. I will truly hate to be proven wrong on this.

Decency

Decency will be enforced with the promise to guide waivering People back to Decency. It has to be this way, at least until we can get a few generations of People that have never known a different life. Responses to misbehavior and malcontents will be as forceful as they need to be to begin the Guidance, and then as compassionate as possible to do the Work of healing and returning to society.

The Basic Idea

The basic idea of Democratic Secular Humanism is to place Human Flourishing as the very top priority of the entire species, and to build social, infrastructural, and technical structures which are sustainable as we mature. This will be accomplished while also enjoying a healthy work/life ratio; no labor is compulsory or even required for contentment and thriving, and all labor is compensated fairly as defined by those who currently work for a satisfactory wage as they would have good insight on what is fair. Leaders will still be chosen by fair election to administer local affairs; there will be no such thing as “Federal”. Each culture will have an oversight organization. Oversight Organizations will serve some of the roles that federal governments would.

Each vote will count for exactly the same political weight as any other vote. Voting is mandatory for all eligible citizens. Completion of Civics or Advanced Civics (classroom and in-home portions) requirements. Passing Civics is required for graduation, and refusal will mark you as a possible malcontent. Declination of driving certification will be allowable, and the declinant may resume the work of licensure at any time, given they are otherwise qualified to drive. Voting will be held over a 4-day holiday in which only essential services will be asked to work (they will still vote, and enjoy a bonus for their duty to the People). For the time being, the mechanics of the Polling Places will change very little. You can see your ballot go into the box through the slot, but can’t watch a set of packets arrive at DC, so for the time being we will use paper ballots until we earn the Civic’s trust, but we will make it actually accurate and rapidly final. We hope to transition to mobile device voting, but that can be addressed once other things are in place. News media will make nothing of the election until a winner is named. A real-time tally will be available on the app, as well as other relevant and interesting information. The news media will remain nonchalant.

Healthcare Public healthcare will be available to all. Only vanity medical care will be allowed outside of the public medical system, and that is open to discussion between the client and the provider. No procedure that is done to improve the deficient function of an organ, appendage, etc. Any procedure intended to raise any bodily function to its typical level function will be provided speedily, and with world-class care and facilities. It will not be perfect immediately, and patients will regularly be referred to other facilities. These will all be transparent to the patient, who will just be told on the Society App which hospital to go to to be seen. Our society will place a huge priority on advancing Medicine and its associated Science. As these advancements more completely enable us to understand how to treat our bodies, new treatments will become available to all for whom it is indicated.

The Core of Law is Liberty

Starting out, no action will be illegal unless it leaves material victims, or is so negligent as to make costly mishaps significantly more likely than not, without a material warrant of high virtue.

Political Parties and associated organizations

Political parties will be allowed, but will be effectively useless under the Constitutional regulations we place on them. Party fervor will seem odd because these are matters of legislation, and that is not terribly exciting. Divisive campaign practices will force the dissolution of the party with the top officials of that party being tracked as domestic threats until cleared as no longer a viable threat.

News Media

There is a good argument to be made that the beginning of the 24-hour News Cycle was the first point of contact with the American People for the plan to bring the US to kneel before the Cross and salute the Flag, while accepting a slave's life with the illusion of upward mobility and personal shame for not achieving it. They worked their ass off. They saved their money. They bought a house on land and had a few children. The debt mounted despite their earnest, ongoing effort. And where were they getting the message that they simply have not worked hard enough and scrimped so their children were visibly deprived compared to other children their age. Just gotta grind, man. And who is instilling this losing, cruel attitude? The News Media of choice which agrees with and amplifies the feeling that this has to be someone's fault, and that personal action is a virtuous thing to do. Trust your President, your God, and your Guns. You are true patriots, and soldiers in a fight for the heart of America.

News is not journalism if it is engaging, exciting, unending, and easy to understand and relate to; such is Smut. Journalism will never encourage its audience toward any social way or another. Journalism is the product of a journalist (with all that that discipline entails), as massaged by a number of editors and such, and then presented in some medium. News is to be conversational, polite, honest, and willing to declare their mistakes with the same audience and tone in which the mistake was made, preferably before ending the broadcast.

Talking mouths framed by distracting unrelated symbols, numbers, headlines, telling you are justified and even virtuous for agreeing that some people are ok to hurt, and that it is obviously necessary to hurt them in order to save what we have for our children and the future… are not news, and its broadcast by any means will be curtailed to the best our IT people can do. Your cries of "The First Amendment!" will be met with the mostly-recovered, shredded original Constitution (this Constitution? The one you shredded?). This is because fully unrestricted, unaccountable expression becomes fatal quickly. No, you will be accountable for what you convey, and nothing is protecting you from prosecution for indecent speech, just like any other indecency. Those still crying; you did this, not me. 2025; We remember.

Maternity Leave

Once a Civic comes to be with child, they are to be excused by their current employer and will retain full pay, including raises and bonuses, for the period of four (4) years. Should this create difficulties for our guest Businesses, then such troubled Businesses can fuck off; You have no rights for your business to succeed or even survive, and it will be a lot of hard work to start and own one. If your business cannot survive under these rules, then it has no right to operate in Utopia. The regulations are just sooo oppressive!

Political Debate and Public Speech

Clear your mind. Envision two people in comfortable chairs half-facing each other, small refreshments and note-taking supplies at the ready, speaking in conversational tones with respect for each-other's Humanhood, if not their opinions and logic. They follow a standard structure, with shared rhetorical rules, and the desire to impact their opponent's argument in favor of their own. They shake hands, smile genuinely, and thank each other for a lovely time.

That is debate. Negative deviation from this model is Smut and will be disallowed in Civic forums.

Civil Motor Pool

For the first time in Human history, we can move ourselves and each other at once-unsafe speeds, and do it cleanly. Everyone who desires to participate in that advancement will be enabled.

Part of being a Civic of Utopia is that you have guaranteed, private, quality, safe transportation. The Civil Motor Pool will be a Society-wide Public service which will provide Automated Electric Vehicles at no cost to the rider. The AEVs will be fully automated and will go where guided when the ride is requested. These vehicles will be fully enclosed for privacy, interconnected, and confined to their own lanes.

Previously street-legal vehicles will remain so, but will be phased out as they expire. All vehicles will be equipped with a standard transponder, and its presence will be required in order to enter roadways without traffic control lights or stop signs. Automated transportation will be the overwhelming norm, and automated vehicles will need to be able to track each other. Only automated vehicles will be permitted onto the Freeways, so there will be a strong incentive to have vehicles retrofitted with the required modifications. Attempts to enter a freeway manually will be taken as Belligerence, and will be responded to appropriately.

Lands, borders, countries, and property

Those Peoples who join Utopia will include their territories as part of their integration into our way of life. Utopia will have no legally enforceable borders, and all control measures that remain installed along previously defended borders will be completely removed, graded or filled as appropriate, and the places where they were installed will be blended into their immediate surroundings with local soil and flora. For all intents and purposes, the only border in Utopia will be the perimeter border, and that will be open to the extent possible. Those of other Societies will be welcome to visit, travel within, engage in retail commerce, lodging, attractions, natural resources, and all else that Utopia offers its guests. Those arriving in Utopia for the first time will need to open a Civic Value account and Value card. They will be able to quickly and easily deposit currency and debit to their Civic Value account. Any remainder may be withdrawn in the value-carrier of their choice. Once an account is established, it will be that Person's permanent Utopia Civic Value account. Lost cards will be available instantly upon proof of identity.

For those who desire to relocate to Utopia, all are welcome, and you will be accepted as one of Us immediately and with open arms. You will receive the same services and resources that our native Civics enjoy. There will be a brief intake process asking just about your life experiences, aspirations, and expectations as a Civic. You will also receive routine medical care to ensure health. The only unpleasant part of this process will be to install a Beacon where appropriate in the skeleton.

Societies replace nations, and Cultures replace cities. Peoples will replace terms for cultural groups, social groups, societies (f.) etc, as a whole, and is not to be hyphenated with qualifiers. Those who cannot imagine a way to address someone whose genetic heritage was apparently more recently African other than "Black guy" or anything else like that, be more creative. Learn from your peers. You are not going to win this one, and you will face social recrimination and Guidance if you are annoyingly stubborn.

Common speech and language

The way we speak betrays who we are as a People. Interpersonal speech has gotten mean; we have come to accept and to issue idle insults and snippy little shitty-being. Insults, sarcasm, condescension, cynicism, and other thoughtless, unfunny, pointless jabs will become rude to a fault.

Cursing is fine (at all times), but it gets repetitive, so I would encourage people who are struggling to place the creativity they previously employed by being a prickly, insufferable brat, and apply it, instead, to creative cursing and other, better linguistic ventures.

Non-sequitur and ad hominem

This one is really just something I would like to see. Decent rhetorical and debate skills ought to be required for all Students, as they are so very powerful to wield with Decency. Attacks on the interlocutor themselves, or irrelevant outside matters are ubiquitous, lazy, and toxic. “Fuck you!” Is fine. “Dipshit!” Is not. “I don’t think you are correct in this matter, and I can provide several points to demonstrate my position.” is perfect. “Can you believe this fuckwit? Ha, what a goddamn loser! Look at him! Ha! Look. Loser. I’m right and you’re wrong. End of story. And I think we all remember what happened the last time we let your office handle even trivial work! It was a goatfuck, right guys?!” Well, that’s a counter-example.

I do not dictate policy from my bedroom, or at all. Hard Laws are what I envision to be the framework that holds up Humanity, and are therefore necessary. This document is to be updated regularly as we progress and our values shift.

Energy

We, the People of Planet Earth (soon to be Eutopia), will make every reasonable effort to retire fossil fuels and their extraction. Solar, wind, geothermal, and hydro dams will be leveraged as swiftly and aggressively as Decency and resources allow. Major resources will be devoted to develop technologies to extract Carbon Dioxide from the atmosphere en masse. Nuclear energy will continue as established, and additional facilities will be constructed as need is anticipated or discovered. Nuclear reactors will be retired when sustainable energy generation allows. The fuel from these reactors will be disposed of in the most complete fashion available until a more complete solution is found (All storage facilities will include a clean extraction method for later redisposal). Battery research and its researchers will be granted any reasonable request in support of these efforts. Occasional requests for moderately expensive items for personal use will be fulfilled because of the critical nature of their work.

The Person or group that develops the technology that successfully restores atmospheric greenhouse gases to pre-industrial levels and keeps them there will be lauded as saviors of Humanity and will be rewarded by a grateful People.

Prudity, feigned righteousness, and fictional hygiene and safety projections

Adults will be given the latitude to dress as they like, including not at all, unless it is clear, defined, and necessary for safety or as an agreed-upon uniform.

Outside of those necessary exceptions, adults are free to choose for themselves. Teenagers with visible, undeniable signs of adulthood will also be allowed to decide for themselves what to wear or not. Should someone become injured as the result of, say, planting a bare foot on an unseen glass shard while strutting down the sidewalk, the injury will be mended and the Person will be returned to their lives without further action. In cases where an injury occurs on Business or Private Property, and the state of dress of the injured clearly contributed to the injury, then the injured Person will not expect recourse other than to have the injury treated. People who choose freedom over safety will not be permitted to take any legal action against anyone with regard to the injury.

Prepubescent children will, at a minimum, have their torsos, crotches, and butts clothed in Civic, until they have reached a developmental state that can no longer be called prepubescent. This is sadly necessary, because identified pedophiles will be allowed to live as free people (with clear restrictions and sufficient monitoring). The Civic has no say over each other and their dress, as long as it does not present a material health or safety threat to others. Bare feet will be ubiquitous and fully normal outside of agreed-upon uniformed work settings such as restaurants and the police. Patrons may be in any state of dress. No state of dress or undress should be remarkable by anyone or to anyone. It shall be insignificant for half the people on the bus to be naked. Etiquette or hygiene may suggest the use of a towel or cover-up or whatever, and those decisions are entirely those of the individual. Prudity has been a constant companion like fear itself. It is one of a great number of social and psychological fossils to dig out, examine, and then toss for all the good they actually are. For now, overt Civic sexual behavior is highly uncouth but not banned. Don't prove me wrong on this.

Recreational drugs

All non-lethal drugs will be available to otherwise-well adults for purposes at local dispensaries. The LD50 for each drug will be displayed in the facility, along with a brief explanation of what to expect from the drug the first time they use it at a Dispensary. All except historically dangerous drugs (moderate to high history of accidental deaths) and heavy hallucinogens (as defined and listed by qualified People, once Our movement gains momentum) can be acquired at a dispensary and consumed in private or responsibly in Civic spaces. Consumers will be carefully monitored, and will be referred to treatment for those in potential trouble. Drugs generally should not be shared, but there is no solid rule about that. Just seems better to have your own name on the bottle somehow. Dispensaries ought to be located in such a way that they are within emergency distance of a purposeful medical facility.

Justice

Justice lives at the intersection between Human Rights and the rule of law. A just system indicates that everyone is equally Human, and will continue evermore to be Human. Justice is not revenge, and revenge is never just. Retribution, punishment, ostracization, poverty… These are not things that a just system results in, even if the Person commits a brazen act of Treason. Revenge is for crusades and morons; it is simply inexcusable now that we know better.

The model of punitive prison sentences conducted by vicious senior lawyers dressed in a black robes, sitting high, and looking down on the room. There will be no pleading, no testimony, no sentences, or even Judges. No plaintiffs or defendants, no jury, no courthouse, and no need for any of those things, because we are determined to get it right this time. Keep in mind that laws are made up by People, and cannot hurt Us if

We don't let them. They perform no action, and have no power over a movement targeting the Justice System directly. We saw that on and after January 6th, when hundreds of People froze the federal government by occupying a building and being defiant. It was horrific to watch, and ultimately a failure, but I understand the frustration and betrayal the Insurrectionists had been swallowing for decades. And honestly, from their perspective, it may have been just. We manufactured them to be stupid, used to poverty, illiterate, and otherwise naively ignorant, credulous, and believing in the virtue of hard work. Useful. We manufactured them to be useful.

Civic Law

Civic Law will support Human Flourishing as a priority above all else. They will receive resources, and in return, they will produce clear-eyed, jovial, bright, Decent people from their population. No obligation to do anything other than to support Human Flourishing in a positive way.

Civic Servants

They are local authorities and global powers. A Person in a position of special trust and confidence with

The People is, by title, a Civic Servant (Servant for brevity) of the People. All Servants will conduct themselves accordingly, and serve the Civic in their specific capacity. Betrayal of the Civic trust and confidence will lead to immediate loss of position, ineligibility to serve in any Civic trust position, and the sad confusion and betrayal in the eyes of the people that pass them shall be sufficient punishment for those who resorted to treachery in Low Office, or otherwise appointed to serve, protect, and foster The People. Civic life is to be purposefully uncomfortable, lest the Servant come to the conclusion that they are installed, ensconced, and safe as they are. Complacency leads to mistakes and treachery.

Self-healing Societies

I like the idea of a self-healing society. I like the idea of someone openly displaying antisocial ideology, and being punched mercilessly by every grown man around until he leaves to think about his Values. Antisocial ideology and behavior can be self-healed by a society that cares about the quality of their lives and future. Participation in "punch-a-nazi" persecution is not compulsory, but those who refrain without clear cause will be obvious to all others, and this is a community.

Persecute those who exploit our Decency. The word is "persecute". Persecute ungrateful malcontents and slithering revolutionaries. To those who engage in a good-faith persecution of a malcontent, no government action will be taken, including the identities of those involved. The persecutors involved may elect to have the malcontent left otherwise alone because he has “had enough for today.” Persecution may not lead to death or life-altering injury, and is to be rendered to the malcontent as they are upright of their own power, and is to consist strictly of empty, bare fists struck to non-lethal points on the body with good-faith non-lethal blows. It is the responsibility of the individual persecutor to moderate the strength and number of blows. Blows delivered with good faith to the end of excising a social infection will be protected as the product of this policy. Hands of participating persecutors will remain visible until it is finished and the malcontent departs the area. No weapons, including any hand covering, will be brought to such events. The malcontent is not to be appreciably injured, and giving chase is strictly forbidden. This is to be a correction, not a punishment. You may move towards him, but you may not continue to pursue if he is obviously and actively trying to bitch out like a little bitch coward bitch! We are not afraid, and this is why; because small problems get fixed when they are small, and we rely on each other to be there to solve the small problems. Punch a fucking Nazi; it's your patriotic duty.

We could also expand out the parameters of when they get it from the crowd, to any petty, exploitative brats that produce victims. Like beating Loretta? You will be dragged out of the house and pummeled until it is clear that no further correction will do any actual good.

To ignorance, I say…

To freely allow willful ignorance is to equip and embolden smirking evil, and to betray ourselves, our children, and the future for our species. Ignorant people are pliable because they are stupefied by everything around them; they are being told to look up at the pulpit and at the TV and the flag, and that's a lot easier than this biology homework, and that makes sense to them. And suddenly it is easier and cool to secure products that have an extremely high likelihood of forming a life-defining habit just as they are getting started. "Smart people are inaccessible and clearly think I'm trash, and I can't do this thing they say I have to do to be smart, so…"

Willful ignorance will be identified and corrected. We must not allow Persons to believe their childhood knowledge and thought process are sufficient. Belligerently willfully ignorant Persons will be given every opportunity for Guidance and Education, until, eventually, We will need to assert Ourselves energetically against this Civic liability.

Travel and transportation

Movement throughout the world will occur freely, and those protectionist few who oppose this as such will be softened to the idea. It is critical to a free, progressive Humanity that movement on the planet be transparent and expressly encouraged. Toxic social structures will be met as such. Should a population of malcontents arise we will accommodate them by sealing them off completely from all outside resources. To rise against this is to declare one's land and people to be completely and hubristically self-sufficient. If they decide they don't want to participate in humanity, then that is their decision. We will listen if they reach out.

Wealth will no longer be a social yardstick.

It is clear from the entirety of human history that wealth given power ruins. So wealth will be a matter of capacity to purchase things and compensate workers for their labor. Boasts of one's wealth will be received as grossly rude and quite odd. And that is all.

Intelligence will no longer be a social yardstick.

IQ is an ancient system of measurements, but hear this: IQ matters about as much to the character and rights of a person as their height does. Yes, it allows for greater access to some extraordinary things, but it is hardly the choice of anyone involved, and it is what this person has through no fault of their own. Human intelligence is a varied, chaotic, messy thing. All humans have brains that, at least in part, function to emerge a person. That person may not have a common capacity to understand or speak. Some people simply have more difficulty learning. Hear me now. Attacks to the intelligence or resulting character will be noticed with especially energetic fervor. Attacks on the capacity to learn, understand, analyze, know, remember, use, and/or convey ideas are especially insidious. The acuity of others is between them and those with whom they share it. All this is to say that the toxic use of epithets (dumbass, dipshit, etc (to imply a comically or irritatingly low capacity as though this is amusing, acceptable behavior). I seek to clean up the language we use on each other and that guides the zeitgeist of human culture.

Bad Actors

"Bad Actor" is defined as any ethically accountable Person who knowingly and willfully attempts to enrich, empower, amplify, or otherwise actively convey misinformation, take that which is not their own, molest anything or anyone that ought not be molested, etc. Those Bad Actors who surreptitiously attempt to victimize People, Society, Culture, etc, by any means will be tagged as Traitors and will receive Guidance to help them heal.

Guidance Centers

Each municipality will feature a local Guidance Center where wayward People will be guided into healing and contentment. These facilities are to be fully state-of-the-art, open, comfortable, safe, clean, etc. A location should be similar to a resort in its ample classrooms, private consultation and therapy rooms, medical facilities, group restaurant with compulsory group meals, recreational facilities (gym, pool, ball courts, game room, theater, etc), musical equipment, and wide and open outdoor spaces. There are, by sad necessity, a few drawbacks. Internet access will be heavily moderated and restricted; cellular signals will be actively jammed, and the only outside connectivity will be the moderated Guidance Center WiFi. Center staff will secure their own connective devices in the secure staff section of the Center; this is necessary for the security of the facility and its staff. There will be no unsupervised contact with outside People, sites that allow users to post messages, media, etc within the Center. Patients will be regularly allowed, under controlled conditions and remote supervision, to video conference with their families. This will be their only authorized contact with the rest of the world while Guidance is underway. Sessions may be instantly ended by the remote supervisor should need arise. Sessions that are aborted will be the last such session for the Patient in question. This is in lieu of obsolete prison models. Visual and audio recordings taken from within the Guidance Center grounds will immediately destroy themselves once the device leaves said grounds. Personal writings, Guidance Center materials, and other media specifically cleared by the Center staff may be retained, on a per-content basis. References to Guidance Centers in media metadata will be revised to reflect their own homes. As always, they are subject to deletion should something compromising be identified.

Anyone at any time for any reason may walk into a Guidance Center and get help for what can be helped. They may also tour the facility to ensure no one has reason to suspect anything other than empathetic, therapeutic Guidance is underway.

Guidance will also serve as supplemental area pharmacies where general Persons may consult a physician regarding refills, new symptoms, etc.

The Center's resident population will wear plain, comfortable, functional uniforms which will also serve as an oversized reflector vest that also glows in the dark. And the Civics have not forgotten that you are in Guidance, and they do not want that kind of shit in their Civic.

Utopia

Pie in the sky, indeed. This work is directly about doing that which has been ridiculed by corrupt officials and sycophants. Only cowards mock the idea that Humanity might unite and align their priorities. A lofty idea would be to rename our home planet "Utopia."

How to measure success

Our global policy is that the only thing we demand of the world is that it educates its children to modern secular standards, and be raised in loving, safe, bountiful homes where they see Decency as the overwhelming norm. Emerging, pre-industrial cultures will be exempt from this, pending their active gestures to be considered to join the Modern World; they will be in no way encroached upon, relocated, camped, proselytized at, or otherwise violated in their autonomy and sanctity. What we get in return is assured modern, comfortable, sustainable livelihood as the standard model going forward. We can allow no flexibility here, given what we have seen since 1492.

The Outset

The past is the worst but is also seemingly safe and even virtuous to revere and emulate; the past lies. And we are always riding the razor-thin blade on which we are forced to balance and be grateful that this is how we get to live the first and only chance we have at this. We learned the tendency to hold the past because we were raised by people significantly older than us who, by the time we were old enough to care, began bemoaning our own choices, relating to their own young experience that is now long irrelevant. We are told that the things we like are inferior to the things our parents liked when they were young. It's narcissistic, but it has not been challenged since things started from generation to generation. Reverence for the past is corrosive to our future, and will be retired. Nostalgia is perfectly fine and healthy; attempts to anchor Humanity to one temporal moment will be met with Education. Further attempts will require Guidance. The only value the past has to Us is for academic work, and as an omnibus catalog of our constant failures. To look at it with anything other than revulsion or suspicion is to deliberately stupify oneself for the overall worse. The past is what still happens until We unite and excise it from our People. It saturates Us with all the worst impulses of Humanity, which We irrationally clutch as though they are actually potent as a social cure for whatever malady they concoct and sell fear and indignation against.

Primary Education

All children and adult students will be taught in modern, learning-conducive campuses from modern, vetted, public (freely available), secular curricula with a diverse group of their peers. No consideration will be made for homeschooling, and it will be strictly forbidden. Petitions for individual exemptions from any select curriculum due to personal values, or any other extra-scholastic objection to a standardized, modern, secular education will be ignored completely, and escalated action will result in Guidance. Absolutely no mind will be paid to any religion, belief, faith, etc, other than as academic curiosity. All academic religious teaching will be done purely by what can be actually verified, and no truth assertions will be based on the strength of the unvetted religious writing or the faithful thereto except to examine the most accurate text we have and are able to interpret to a degree of scientific rigor commensurate to the work itself. Students may practice their faith at home and places of worship; you're free to play with it at home, but your freedom ends when you stick it in others' faces without their enthusiastic consent. Loud protestations and public flouting of the Law will lead to Guidance.

There will be no flags, prayer, pledges, or any other tribalistic, divisive, overbearing symbols or rituals in classrooms; calls for prayer, readings, study, etc. of religious items or practices will be denied with prejudice. There will be plenty of developing, backward, superstitious Bronze-Age Cultures for you to resettle in if you decide to forgo comfort, stability, and progress in favor of superstition, poverty, and Slave Morality. Alternatively, a site could be selected and developed into a Culture that matches the worldview of its new residents; they will be assessed for the time and place they would like to imagine they are in, and then built to suit. We cannot oppress away toxic piety and such, but we can oblige those few with every Earthly thing that matches that time and place, and answer the question of "when and where" with "now and away from our vulnerable." Parents found to be sheltering their children from "the world" by attempting stealth in infecting their childrens' fragile, naive, credulous, dependent minds with "alternative facts" will immediately, tracelessly, permanently lose their children, and will be Guided back into Decency with full compassion.

Your child is a Person who is in a short-but-precious state. A well-raised child is a Potential Bomb. A child absorbs their surroundings as they perceive them in their developing, naive, impressionable, vulnerable state, and then allows all of that to burst forth as readiness and potential. Core memories form from everything, and shape the adult who emerges to a degree that is impossible to simply excise when convenient. The most effective way to approach this is to help the affected Person take those past experiences, examine their properties, dimensions, and capabilities, and then work to systematically take its power away by challenging their effect with defiance and self-empowerment.

But that's a lot to deal with when people should be raised and developed healthy, confident, joyful, self-possessed, and clear on the bounds of reality. Sadly even that is going to take a lot of dedicated effort; and in the meantime, people are being hobbled by insecurity from every possible angle by those with the intention to exploit individuals and Society without regard for the future, our survivability, or the Value we have generated to raise our People to a standard of living we would be proud to show to others as a working model. This few would, with focused intent, demolish all of that to enrich themselves and rule over the ashes. Never again.

What Parents teach them about being a Person is what they will take with them into the rest of their lives. That includes memories, insecurities, phobias, misconceptions, self-worth, self-esteem, and their outlook on the World. That all starts with the Parent, and is often either neglected or outright denied.

Childhood is a brief formative period that cannot be recovered once it is complete. I'm using Childhood to describe a Person that has not reached full development.

Like with all things taught, it's better to teach the truth firstly, and then reinforce and build on what is known. This goes for things like teaching children about infectious diseases, especially that are spread by breathing or touching each other and things. Children need as clear of a picture as possible of what germs are and how to relate to them. What not to do is to react to our own superstition-laden ideas that our parents taught us because their parents taught them, because they were addled from a lifetime of poverty and ignorance. We don't have that excuse, and will never again accept such answers for ourselves or from others[2]

---

[2] Pending conclusive evidence, to the exclusion of any other reasonable explanation, I am an agnostic but hopeful atheist. I am a follower of whatever deity shows itself as such to my satisfaction and the satisfaction of those who also observed this phenomenon; none have shown up as of this writing. Personally, I would be confused but ecstatic if Jesus returned in Glory and brought with him the Sword of Truth and the Breastplate of the Holy Spirit to begin a 1000-year Reich, as foretold. I would be ecstatic because reality seems so cold and unforgiving, so being proven wrong by an unmistakable flash of deific brilliance and action. If YHWH shows up with no room for misinterpretation, I would be elated that there at least was some oversight. Accounts indicate that He is still a cantankerous, murderous, self-absorbed bully who deserves no respect, let alone praise or worship.

Future talk

There are no naughty or offensive words, just inappropriate ones. Language will not be a playground for prudes and censors. Those offended by words will go ignored; attempts to correct another's language from a position of moral authority will be ridiculed until it erodes. Words are either appropriate for their context or they are not. It is fine to be kind while expressing that something from another felt inappropriate, and that the speaker might think better of context in the future. Assuming this is not a naked attempt at regressive speech policing, the speaker might nod acknowledgement, consider what all was said, and then carry on well because no ego or anything else was hurt. It's not "correction" (which ought to be benign anyway), but kind and good point-of-view sharing. Ex. "Dave, I think the situation didn't call for 'flibbertigibbet'. Think about that, cool?" And Dave is nonplussed either way; it would be odd for him to vocalize a response, even simply to thank Dave. He nodded that he understood, and that could be it.

Military

It will be sadly necessary for Utopia to maintain a capable modern military. When a cloud of war is approaching, the High Servants will meet and collaborate on the appropriate course of action. It is with our severest regrets that it will have to come to this, and Our People grieve for what is lost this time, as they have grieved before. We will apply all energy, material, and time this effort requires and not an iota more. We are Utopia, and it is on us to resolve escalating tensions quickly and without calls for violence to the best of our talents and energies.

My vision will be to make a truce, shake hands, face about, and stroll out to a relieved World. It should be off-putting like being covered in dumpster juice to everyone in Utopia, most notably the High Servants.

Under no circumstances will Utopia retaliate for Continental Neighbor's shows of desperation and dim sense of what is right. They need help, and we are in a position to help quite a bit." We will listen. Just call off your troops and let's talk; please!" This is concern for their wellbeing that they cannot see but we can because it almost wiped us out; it is not begging. The "please" of a mother trying to coax her toddler not to jump off the roof, not of someone with a gun to their head. The Gun is ours now, and we only use it to fuck up violations of Maslow's Hierarchy where we find it. Their People will always want our help; it's usually only a small group causing all the ruckus. And those little weirdos will have a long road ahead of them for Guidance into Decency. The standards are the same.

Free writing and catharsis

This is me writing privately without connecting anything I expressed until now.

Healthy business competition

I propose per-location, per-item online stock-keeping usable to the Civic. Civics seeking individual items can make a query for the item of their need, and that item's location will be displayed on a GPS map along with current price; patrons will be able to legally prove the price for the item at the time it was viewed.

Cool, right? Check this out…

Civics can sort the results in a number of useful and informative ways, including price-low-to-high. So they can ask for a gallon of milk within two miles, then sort so the lowest price is at the top. Finally, they will use their own judgement for the best of the least-expensive options.

This creates immediate, direct, incorruptible competition between like businesses. Real, actual, threatening, margin-shredding competition. The competition they have been defending since the 1980s.

A solution we will not use; it just somehow felt right to let the Utopia know that I can think like this, and choose not to, especially while angry:

Anecdotes

In the spring of 2007, I was serving in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom at Camp Victory, Baghdad, and had been doing so since the previous autumn. Two significant things occurred to my sense of self and my perception of things around me; the troop surge occurred as did the local response to that surge, and Year Zero by Nine Inch Nails. I had experienced something similar as a young Private in Ali Al-Salem, Air Base, Kuwait, when I watched Three Kings inside of my equipment shelter. I occasionally opened the door, and the hot bright air would breathe on me and remind me of where I was. DOWNLOADING YZ,

A solution we will not use; it just somehow felt right to let the Utopia know that I can think like this:

The Cube

This is pure fiction, and is, by definition, untenable in any civil Culture.

A poured, reinforced concrete cubic room with supporting infrastructure managed on the external roof. An uncovered drain in the floor will carry away anything water-soluble hIch will play relevant material, along.

Sufficient water sprayers mounted in the ceiling will carry various temperatures of water with enough volume and velocity to serve their purpose uniformly. The cube will be fitted with projectors which, along with a sound system with the power to be heard will deliver media to encourage desired behavior.

It might be especially effective to hold them in a cell with a picture window of bulletproof glass, and give them an unimpeded view of The Cube's construction. Setting rebar, pouring concrete, installing electrical, plumbing, and media. Once construction is complete and the time comes for The Cube to receive its guests, the final details will be kept out of view as the guests are also prepared.

When The Cube is ready to receive its guests, the group will be chemically and mechanically relieved of all keratin. They will be fully nude and relieved of anything at all that isn't part of their working body. To maintain some dignity, all in the cube will have their GI tracts fully flushed prior to entry. A hatch at the top of the cube will open down into the cube. A ladder will be afforded for this, alone; it will be retracted and locked in the top. The group knows that this is it. This is the last environment they will know. These are the last people. If you were a jet plane, you would not be able to scream your way out. The projector shows victims, court footage, news clips and whatever volume is right for the moment. The subject can always be changed, and speaking water of whatever temperature you like. These will absolutely burn through skin if need be. They can also be delivered just a bit frosty. Or switch between the two quickly for maximum effect.

The sound system will be calibrated to blow geriatric eardrums in a short but just-too-long burst for all to react as they might, and likely be relieved of the sound system as a means of applying pain to them due to blown ear meat. I have been told that people who cannot hear most things once this occurs can still hear their own screaming due to bone conduction. There is work to follow if they can also perceive exceptionally loud external sounds, as well. Pending that, it is advised that this limitation be considered when applying acoustic stimulation, lest its utility be lost and the system go underutilized.

Lights, well, they are lights. They will be bright enough to shine directly through eyelids, instantly fully on and off, multi-colored, and resilient enough to withstand hours and days of punishment. Consider finishing the inside surfaces in brilliant cool white.

I have forgotten to mention the main feature! Ok, so, as they descended into the cube, they were met with the image of their most revered leader. They are face-up, still, naked, grey, and given a sticky grin. This is not to horrify them, except for the grin. This is their last menu. If they figure out what to do before the offerings turn, well, they can wait for the next one, or they can get proactive.

Ideally, the cube would be an automated device and would alert its operator when decomp is basically done. It could react to speech or movement, tone, etc, and apply an appropriate response.

Administrators may also insert items for the guests to use as they will; a pistol with 1 round in the chamber, a starving cat, a rusty safety razor blade,

Essays

Historically marginalized groups

The past was the worst; (make now when it began to improve according to future textbooks). It has brought us here fractured. The in-group/out-group instinct is a strong one, but it does not need to continue. We resolve that each functioning human brain, either developing towards, or currently engaged, in some way that it can object to abuse, is of equal value to any other such brain, and will enjoy equal protections and liberty to every other such brain. Greatness comes with contribution, not lineage or disposition. With this, we can retire the idea that certain words and actions are insensitive unless rendered in a duly-insensitive way. I bet I'm way more liberal than you weirdos screaming sophomoric chants, enforcing arbitrary non-standards, and abusing strangers. I'm also way, way more inclusive.

Word-victims are suspect, and pronoun virtue-signaling is stupid.

Polite and decent behavior

Asking someone bluntly if they are, say, slow, ought to be perfectly acceptable, as long as the asker simply does not know the answer. "Are you slow?" to an unfamiliar child, cool; "Are you slow" to a coworker you have known for 5 years and has an adequate work history, not cool. "That idiot!" "Dumbass!" and other such rebukes are to be phased out. Someone cuts you off in traffic, display the Finger of Retribution, but does not question their cognitive capacity or any other factors they cannot control. Certainly don't bring in outside factors such as age or apparent ethnicity. Focus on the behavior, not the person. The point is that we need to come to the middle; being violently upset by singular words simply on the basis that they were used is untenable and usually derivative of piety. Using words on others to inflict enough hurt so as to then extract what is desired from them is untenable. No one should ever be made to feel stupid, even if their actions would seemingly suggest it. The actions, not the person.

Examples:

"Look at this cake! Would you want this on your wedding day? Please call the client to inform them of the delay and then do it right. I'm out here in the front if you need help."

vs

"See this?! Do you see this?! You did this! How could you be so absent?! Listen you stupid, lazy brat! Stop! Stop what you're doing! Call the client right now and tell them how hard you fucked them and that the adults are fixing it now. This is coming out of your paycheck!"

Culturally, problems shall be addressed as they manifest; flimsily-speculated, loudly-asserted warnings of imminent calamity ought to be faced with a forceful bout of informed rationality.

Vulnerable people need not be led astray. Those who violate or attempt to violate this will be designated as terroristic Enemies of the People, and firmly but empathetically Guided to Decency. It is sadly true that terrorists exploited the extraordinary gift given to the People by the founding fathers in the form of the First Amendment. To those who ask if these current changes run afoul of the intent of the founding fathers, I say that the founding fathers, in the same situation, would rescind that amendment altogether pending a way to fix human nature to corrupt and destroy. They had no frame of reference for the first half of the 21st Century, and their contemporary words reflected a world that could not be rocked to its core just with speech.

Ethics and Morality

Morality comes from external, self-appointed forces threatening calamity and carnage if not obeyed. Morality stands flimsy in place of ethics.

Ethics comes from the active personal decision to examine and incorporate those points which support the overall structure of Decency, and to apply those realizations as is appropriate. It relies on no law, moré, book, tradition, superstition, duty, official, family, company, creed, or even clear thinking. In ethics, doing the right thing becomes reflexive as opposed to the hand-wringing, corruption, and intellectual cowardice which have been the standing features of systems of morality since they were concocted by ancient savages.

The Ick Reflex

Obeying your ick reflex is a direct path to Treason, because our worst behavior comes as an expression of disgust for something or someone we have no right to be disgusted by. Our most primal fears are of weather, the dark, heights, fire, snakes, and perceived outsiders, because those were the primary concerns for our tree-dwelling ancestors, and we have yet to challenge that in a meaningful way. Fear of "the other" or "the outsider" came a bit later, and is still entrenched in our collective psyche.

Smarter != better

Those with perceived greater cognitive capacity shall never subject those with perceived lower capacity to being viewed or treated as anything other than capable of profound thought or extraordinary actions. Nor shall anyone else. What not to do is to use anything that is an inextricable feature of the Person against them, or for personal or group amusement or gain.

Law

The most numerous and rigid laws should be applied to those who can hurt people and human flourishing the most; nearly no laws should be in place to govern the behavior of those with very little power to inflict. The more influence you have, the harsher the laws to govern your actions and keep you honest and decent; there might be a bit of built-in restitution to the People for centuries of abuse at the hands of the wealthy. They can and will buy back the Civic's trust directly, and without their consent or knowledge if needed. Citizen law ought to be intentionally vague and feel more like concepts than laser-etched doctrine. Laws will be as rigid as they need to be, and no more rigid. The default, again, is that anything outside some unavoidable crimes against People is legal. This legal strategy is formed specifically to ensure maximal liberty tinged with a slight color of necessary law. Freedom, in the form that it took, is to be retired as corrupted, evil, and patently dangerous.

“Where were you on January 6th?”

- Assess the subject's distance and direction relative to January 6, physically and cognitively. September 11 2001 was a day of cowards who did not know us except how to make us afraid, and I hold no higher expectation for the pathetic savages involved. January 6 was a day of cowards, showing up just as we grew them, waving flags, carrying weapons, and entitled to whatever they wanted, by force, here in the United States of America. I relent to continue to give desert savages the distinction of supplying us with our worst day. No, we owe that to home-grown savages with absolutely no excuse for any of their behavior since Watergate. The truth is that some people appeal to the base impulse of bigotry and greed, and the willfully-ignorant see no reason to scrutinize what they are hearing because at least someone is legitimizing their patriotism and desire to see a clean, safe society for themselves and their children. And wherever there is ignorance, there will be exploitation and all the products thereof. They appealed to the fear of ignorant white people, stating they were welcome and will be supported in the party, and that it shared their upright American values.

Power

- “Anyone who seeks out power for its own sake must be denied it at all cost.” - Nate, or whoever said this, and I just forgot.

”Kings need not broadcast their title, for it is known.”

Or

”If you have to tell others that you are a king, then you are not a king.” - Nate again

No one should want to be in power, and Servants will be turned over frequently to ensure fresh people, fresh ideas, and fresh policy. e.g.,

“I want to be a Triad!”

“Why?! And this had better be a good answer that focuses primarily on your ideas to enhance Human Flourishing.” - contrived possible future exchange.

Power is to be a wholly thankless status, and no one with a selfish streak should be interested. This is the way this has to be. If something has a likelihood of compromising our values, cohesion, or species, it must be detected and repaired; if that something is a Person, then it should be obvious to others that this Person is a liability to Human Flourishing and needs empathetic

Guidance to build the healthy mental skills that They did not receive in young life due to past priorities and failures. For what it is worth, if all of this works, I want to be left anonymous and completely out of power of any kind. I will advise Servants as to my position on a given topic, but no policy beyond this manuscript will be mine to willfully examine for its Decency, utility, etc. Power of position will end no later than the Servant's 65th birthday. In cases where some Guidance is required for the outgoing Servant, their successor will be already spun up and ready to assume their position.

Frightened by fiction

It will be laughable to a fault to express "oh! This is just like 1984!" Or "I read this in Brave New World!" People who see fiction as a warning from which to take grave lessons to apply to real life, I mean, seriously. They are stories! And you are jerking the covers over your eyes at the scary parts. Seriously, scared by a story? Are you 5?

How to get fired by the People

Those businesses which belligerently attempt to flout our regulations, their top officers down to those who supervise their implementation will be replaced with Decent business people that We can trust will work toward Human Flourishing first. This will be a physical hostile takeover. Those officers in place will be removed, and vetted business people will be installed in their place. Resistance will be empathetically led away. The employed body of the business will not be affected except to benefit from Decency in leadership.

Protecting Indecent Traditions Like Slavery

To those who would say “Our traditions are important to us! You don't know better than us about our lives!” Well, letting you do it your way has left you ignorant, poor, hungry. addicted, abusive, awful, and morbidly defensive of all these attributes. This is because you were systematically sucked dry of your value and then set to the side to languish in desperation until you do something that puts you in prison for an insane length of time. Then you get to be put to work as a slave, because that’s the one constitutional loophole for possessing and using slaves. I’m not gonna do that to you. That’s not me.

Where social dichotomies are ensconced and can be drawn into gradient, so will it be, for the sake of Decency.

God-given rights..! - Nope, you wore that out. Socially-extended privilege, if that.

Prickly Liberals

This is not conveniently politics as settled. We are polite, articulate, and honest. We will speak our mind at all times and show Decency by example. We will also mock and swear and use weaponized wit, but we will smile and show our empathy the whole time.

The footage of the end days of the United States will be on hand for those who need help recalling the outright condescension and disrespect issued from the White House. It will not convey any empathy, wit, unity, or even common courtesy between professionals. There are years of this footage.

Don’t be an asshole, and don’t be such a crybaby.

When Greed Blocks Liberty

In the event that only the local power blocks the yearning people from this freedom in liberty, then that power will be eliminated. Officials who defy their people will be bodily extracted from their positions and to Guidance. I truly Such applications of the people's will should be necessary, and this time they know just how badly that we can hurt them.

Celestial Neighbors

- Human beings are all the same species, but we are not dismissing the possibility that we might need to learn a whole new taxonomy from as-yet uncontacted celestial neighbors. Therefore, it is important that we erase false distinctions, and unify as one People.

If not for us, then as a good look if we meet our neighbors.

Heresy - (HAIR-uh-see)

Is my way better than YHWH?!

I will state for the record that it is my contention that Abrahamic Monotheism (A.M.) is the single worst influence to pervade modernity. It was developed by barbaric savages as a means to control their own, and justify ongoing atrocity. Something occurred in the intervening years between the Christian Old Testament and the New Testament; Roman Occupation. The Master Morality of the Old Testament demanded blood, spoil, and complete annihilation of anything in their way in a frantic religious ecstasy. This stands in sharp contrast to the Slave Morality of the New Testament which advocated for quiet piety, good will to People, salvation through faith as opposed to sacrifice, and grateful subservience. It produces and feeds on that host's misery, insecurity, and fear. Its narrative is internally and externally inconsistent, clearly written to boast and to control. Its tales are actively absurd, its message assumes the reader's loyalty to its message and associated deity. how everyone else is either filthy and ignorant, or in league with Satan. It has, like the Hydra, grown three heads, and the only way to neutralize this threat is to kill the body, the core doctrine of all three factions. That said, I do not accept that killing people solves anything. The core doctrine will be the focus of our energies, and it will be relentless. A.M. cowers in the dark plotting against the skeptical and secular civic values. Compulsory Civic education will place a heavy emphasis on skepticism and reverence for truth and reality. The deity of the Israelites loves and demands ignorance; We, as one People, will be informed.

The Human Timeline

Where are we now on the Human timeline? Even a trillionth of the way in? We don't have the fuckiest idea! But then when would be the time to catch it before it got unwieldy? I also love it when I see a person of faith begin a response with “Well, God can’t…” It seems that deity cannot do anything Humans can, but we can do some things it can do, like kill people for touching its special box/apartment as it was about to fall off a cart while meandering the eastern Mediterranean desert. We could accept the assumption that the Israelites are the true People of God because it was just obvious that this time, that these people were it for the singular point from which all knowledge, power, and authority springs; much to the chagrin of anything within a 500 mile radius of their current position that might represent gains for their totally cool razing of the desert.

If the Old Testament were found to be fully accurate in its entirety and detail, I would be forced to acknowledge God’s existence, His works, the works of his People; He still would not receive my reverence and certainly not worship because of the inexcusable atrocities detailed in that document.

The main point is that if YHWH is as they say He is, then why did He choose then, there, and then to receive, carry, and preserve his critical holy message to Humanity? It only makes sense if YHWY is a surrogate for the will of the rulers of the time. Also, fascinating that YHWH has yet to give the slightest measurable hint of existing, so He willfully went from an obvious and present force, to giving no indication of itself, in an active modern pursuit of a trace. Ubiquitous to completely absent; on a very convenient timeline and with considerable clawing tooth and nail at cobblestone streets by the Church before relenting to adopt finding these discoveries as truth, and dismantling superstition. And that seems to coincide with the advancement of science and how we educate our children, and that trend continues.

This has yet to touch on the content of the message. The message is that YHWH loves the Israelites, but they keep fuckin up. He gives them ways to clean their filthy spirits by ritual sacrifice, but this gets to be a lot, There was a grassroots effort led by an itinerant preacher with a dozen followers to ease the People from their lived experience of ancient misery with promises of paradise, victory, and bounty in the hereafter.

They have holy text and clergy to interpret and preach them. We have this document, and it is sufficient.

Tenets of Satanism vs. The Ten Commandments

Casual comparison between rulesets

”This is a Christian nation!” “Yeah, clearly.” - Nate

The Ten Commandments

(Exodus 20:1-17 KJV)

Exodus Chapter 20

1 And God spake all these words, saying,

2 I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3 Thou shalt have no other deities before me.

4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

8 Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

10 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

11 For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

12 Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 Thou shalt not kill.

14 Thou shalt not commit adultery.

15 Thou shalt not steal.

16 Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

17 Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

Tenets of Satanism

(The Satanic Temple)

THERE ARE SEVEN FUNDAMENTAL TENETS

I One should strive to act with compassion and empathy toward all creatures in accordance with reason.

II The struggle for justice is an ongoing and necessary pursuit that should prevail over laws and institutions.

III One’s body is inviolable, subject to one’s own will alone.

IV The freedoms of others should be respected, including the freedom to offend. To willfully and unjustly encroach upon the freedoms of another is to forgo one's own.

V Beliefs should conform to one's best scientific understanding of the world. One should take care never to distort scientific facts to fit one's beliefs.

VI People are fallible. If one makes a mistake, one should do one's best to rectify it and resolve any harm that might have been caused.

VII Every tenet is a guiding principle designed to inspire nobility in action and thought. The spirit of compassion, wisdom, and justice should always prevail over the written or spoken word.

I find I cannot honestly read both without feeling like the second one is more ethical, more relevant, and easier (and more direct) to follow for a good life.

Even if you are confident you understand that whole thing, how many worthwhile, applicable commandments can you pull out of that tangle of text? For me, if an important text wants to be taken as such, it should be clear to the modern reader, not jealousy held in on archaic place for eons by those who believe themselves to be the keeper of the meaning, and then insisted upon by generations of doe-eyed faithful who cannot answer what is best about this one other than a piously-tinged "it's what I grew up with."

Oh, BT-Dubs, The Fruit of the Spirit (the socially-good traits that are defined clearly in their primary source document) is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance. I learned it “Love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, gentleness, and self-control” because of the Christian camp song (the fruit of the Spirit’s not a cumquat. NO IT’S NOT!). I ask you to pull one "fruit" from these that is universally displayed by or assumed of an unprompted christian; tell me one that christians can be relied upon for? It's your book and your song, guys.

Galatians 5:22-23, King James Version
22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith,
23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

Ok, that's a lot of old words. Can we dress it up into something we can use immediately?

Ephesians 4:32, King James Version
32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.
(doo doo, da doodly do; Ephesians 4:32)
But I think that's the New Testament squishy God-Jesus father/son salvation tag team!
I did concede to use the King James Version in this document just to include those who are stanch that the 1611 King James Bible is the only useful or even acceptable translation of the Christian bible, having exhausted all other translations and the mandate to learn Hebrew and Greek, which is interestingly a step too far for those who will so energetically declare that they know their faith and we should, too.

I think it was just waiting until the population reached a certain size that the goat population had to be considered. Holy sacrifice is cruel to the goats, too. We know that now.

Of the new, post old

What's the point? To give a vision of a near future where we finally decide to live Civilly, and to encourage others to consider its message.

Civic Law

- Civic Law will support Human Flourishing as a priority above all else. They will receive resources, and in return, they will produce clear-eyed, jovial, bright, Decent people from their population. No obligation to do anything other than to support Human Flourishing in a positive way.

Civic Servants

- They are local authorities and global powers. A Person in a position of special trust and confidence with The People is, by title, a Civic Servant (Servant for brevity) of the People. All Servants will conduct themselves accordingly, and serve the Civic in their specific capacity. Betrayal of the Civic trust and confidence will lead to immediate loss of position, ineligibility to serve in any Civic trust position, and the sad confusion and betrayal in the eyes of the people that pass them shall be sufficient punishment for those who resorted to treachery in Low Office or otherwise appointed to serve, protect, and foster The People. servant life is to be purposefully uncomfortable, lest the Servant come to the conclusion that they are installed, ensconced, and safe as they are. Complacency leads to mistakes and treachery.

Self-healing Societies

- I like the idea of a self-healing society. I like the idea of someone openly displaying antisocial ideology, and being punched mercilessly by every grown man around until he leaves to think about his values. Antisocial ideology and behavior can be self-healed by a society that cares about the quality of their lives and future. Participation in "punch-a-nazi" persecution is not compulsory, but those who refrain without clear cause will be obvious to all others, and this is a community. Persecute those who exploit our Decency. The word is "persecute". Persecute ungrateful malcontents and slithering revolutionaries. To those who engage in a good-faith persecution of a malcontent, no government action will be taken, including the identities of those involved. The persecutors involved may elect to have the malcontent left otherwise alone because he has “had enough for today.” Persecution may not lead to death or life-altering injury, and is to be rendered to the malcontent as they are upright of their own power, and is to consist strictly of empty, bare fists struck to non-lethal points on the body with good-faith non-lethal blows. It is the responsibility of the individual persecutor to moderate the strength and number of blows. Blows delivered with good faith to the end of excising a social infection will be protected as the product of this policy. Hands of participating persecutors will remain visible until it is finished and the malcontent departs the area. No weapons, including any hand covering, will be brought to such events. The malcontent is not to be appreciably injured, and giving chase is strictly forbidden. This is to be a correction, not a punishment. You may move towards him, but you may not continue to pursue if he is obviously and actively trying to bitch out like a little bitch coward bitch! We are not afraid, and this is why; because small problems get fixed when they are small, and we rely on each other to be there to solve the small problems. Punch a fucking nazi; it's your patriotic duty.

We could also expand out the parameters of when they get it from the crowd, to any petty, exploitative brats that produce victims. Like beating Loretta? You will be dragged out of the house and pummeled until it is clear that no further correction will do any actual good.

Competition

A decent competitive spirit is healthy. Those who define themselves by their singular determination to win at all cost, focused by their fuming hatred for any resistance and the People resisting, will be Guided back to Decency and reunion with the People.

To ignorance, I say…

To freely allow willful ignorance is to equip and embolden smirking evil, and to betray ourselves, our children, and the future for our species. Ignorant people are pliable because they are stupefied by everything around them; they are being told to look up at the pulpit and at the TV and the flag, and that's a lot easier than this biology homework, and that makes sense to them. And suddenly it is easier and cool to secure products that have an extremely high likelihood of forming a life-defining habit just as they are getting started. Smart people are inaccessible and clearly think I'm trash, and I can't do this thing they say I have to do to be smart, so…

Willful ignorance will be identified and corrected. We must not allow Persons to believe their childhood knowledge and thought process are sufficient. Belligerently willfully ignorant Persons will be given every opportunity for Guidance and Education, until, eventually, We will need to assert Ourselves energetically against this Civic liability.

Industry

In classical Marxist reductionism, the People will seize the means of production and direct the derived value back to themselves and the People. The owner class will join the Civic class like everyone else, and will adopt the common values of Decency. Ownership vs value quibbles aside, I would like to think that most industry and commerce will pick up with Decency quickly in place of those who need to catch up. Minimal downtime for our economy.

Flag

A banner of violet, crossed vertically with stripes of crimson. A trio of olive-drab pistol silhouettes, met front sight post to rear sight, are the main feature. This feature shelters a symbol of Uzzah.

Legalese

In the process of clearing the dead brush from our legal framework, remaining laws will include a faithful plain-English summary of the bill. The summary will be comprehensive enough to make informed voting decisions for anyone in a position to vote or or decide on a measure.

Remembrance Chamber

have to think about this - for brazen, purposeful displays of antisocial behavior, there will be a Civic facility where one can be reminded of why growth was necessary and how jealously we will protect the future.

The beaten, shredded Constitution and its worth now

Up front, it is time to drop “The Constitution” as the deciding factor in anything other than “American History and its Many Follies.” It should be considered uncouth to discuss the Constitution casually. Take it that if you think you are being infringed upon, gauge the reactions of those around. If your constitutional protestations are not bent with support, then you might not know something they do.

Guns, Decency, and you

- I like guns; I pity gun nuts and their families. Realistically, there is no way to meaningfully enact traditional gun reform that will result in anything close to what we would hope for. The fact is that North America is armed. My hope is to foster healing, and to reduce the volume of gun violence by eroding the reasons people have to shoot each other, so that it comes to seem ridiculous even to us just how many guns we have, and the reasons for their manufacture and distribution. Then maybe some real work could be done to reduce that number. We will have to be embarrassed, first.

Historically ungodly words and actions

I will haughty ridicule any attempts toward making life less vulgar. I will certainly not foster the attitudes that righteous discomfort in any measure equates to the most feeble mandate. Children will express themselves any way that is appropriate for the situation, and will not be corrected for the content of their messages. Children will be free to say anything they like as long as it is otherwise legal by our General Legal Guidelines.

Titles

Titles are not social status. They are only used to address one's area of work, and are never insisted upon.

Financial Scavengers and The Bad Time They About To Have

Market manipulating practices, get rich quick schemes, and other activity that are clearly similar to the practices which decimated the economy in the first quarter of the 21st Century, designed to enable and accelerate the stockpiling of the People’s means by a few Bad Actors will be crushed as soon as they are detected, and those involved will be released from their employment and their ill-gotten fortunes. Business accounts that grow so rapidly or so large that it triggers inquiry will be investigated and resolved for the good of the People. As there is a single global Treasury, offshore accounts and foreign currencies are a non-issue.

Energy

We, the People of Planet Earth (soon to be Eutopia), will make every reasonable effort to retire fossil fuels and their extraction. Solar, wind, geothermal, and hydro dams will be leveraged as swiftly and aggressively as Decency and resources allow. Nuclear energy will continue as established, and additional facilities will be constructed as need is anticipated or discovered. Nuclear reactors will be retired when sustainable energy generation is allowed. The fuel from these reactors will be disposed of in the most complete fashion available until a more complete solution is found (All storage facilities will include a clean extraction method for later redisposal). Battery research and its researchers will be granted any reasonable request in support of these efforts. Occasional requests for moderately expensive items for personal use will be fulfilled because of the critical nature of their work.

Faith, Turned Outward

Religious faith: Why is it that the faithful only say “my deeply-held religious beliefs” when they feel it is necessary to defend their actions or expressed attitudes? Why are religious radicals never breathless philanthropists? Why have Religions of Love been at the head of all atrocity, while dragging an anchor on Our path through progress? I propose that it's because those moral frameworks, and their conveying agents and media, are flimsy in every way they need to be strong.

Official Religion

There is expressly no official religion, and attempts to install one will be met with the same immediacy of action that any other attempted threat to our way of life. They will all be treated with equal ambivalence, and groups that make an issue of themselves will seek Guidance. There is an explicit and forceful separation between the Affairs of Civics and religion; failure of the separating powers in this scope is tantamount to the suicide of Humanity, as we have seen.

Prudity, feigned righteousness, and fictional hygiene and safety projections

Adults will be given the latitude to dress as they like, including not at all, unless it is clear, defined, and necessary for safety or as an agreed-upon uniform. Outside of those necessary exceptions, adults are free to choose for themselves. Teenagers with visible, undeniable signs of adulthood will also be allowed to decide for themselves what to wear or not. Should someone become injured as the result of, say, planting a bare foot on an unseen glass shard while strutting down the sidewalk, the injury will be mended and the Person will be returned to their lives without further action. People who choose freedom over safety will not be permitted to take any legal action against anyone with regard to the injury.

Prepubescent children will, at a minimum, have their torsos, crotches, and butts clothed in Civic, until they have reached a developmental state that can no longer be called prepubescent. This is sadly necessary, because identified pedophiles will be allowed to live as free people (with clear restrictions and sufficient monitoring). The Civic has no say over each other and their dress, as long as it does not present a material health or safety threat to others. Bare feet will be ubiquitous and fully normal outside of agreed-upon uniformed work settings such as restaurants and the Civic Servants; they will be deemed largely unnecessary for normal Civic life. Patrons may be in any state of dress. No state of dress or undress should be remarkable by anyone or to anyone. It shall be insignificant for half the people on the bus to be naked. Etiquette or hygiene may suggest the use of a towel or cover-up or whatever, and those decisions are entirely those of the individual.

Prudity has been a constant companion like fear itself. It is one of a great number of social and psychological fossils to dig out, examine, and then toss for all the good they actually are. For now, overt Civic sexual behavior is highly uncouth but not banned. Don’t prove me wrong on this.

Recreational drugs

All non-lethal drugs will be available to otherwise-well adults for purposes at local dispensaries. The LD50 for each drug will be displayed in the facility, along with a brief explanation of what to expect from the drug the first time they use it at a Dispensary. All except historically dangerous drugs (moderate to high history of accidental deaths) and heavy hallucinogens (as defined and listed by qualified People, once Our movement gains momentum) can be acquired at a dispensary and consumed in private or responsibly in Civic spaces. Consumers will be carefully monitored, and will be referred to treatment for those in potential trouble. Drugs generally should not be shared, but there is no solid rule about that. Just seems better to have your own name on the bottle somehow. Dispensaries ought to be located in such a way that they are within emergency distance of a purposeful medical facility.

Justice

Justice lives at the intersection between Human rights and the rule of law. A just system indicates that everyone is equally Human, and will continue evermore to be Human. Justice is not revenge, and revenge is never just. Retribution, punishment, ostracization, poverty… These are not things that a just system results in, even if the Person commits a brazen act of Treason. Revenge is for crusades and morons; it is simply inexcusable now that we know better.

Punitive Law

The model of punitive prison sentences conducted by vicious lawyers dressed in black, sitting high and looking down on the room. There will be no pleading, no testimony, no sentences, or even Judges. No plaintiffs or defendants, no jury, no courthouse, and no need for any of those things, because we are determined to get it right this time. Keep in mind that laws are made up by People, and cannot hurt Us if we don't let them. They perform no action, and have no power over a movement targeting the Justice System directly. We saw that on and after January 6th, when hundreds of People froze the federal government by occupying a building and being defiant. It was horrific to watch, and ultimately a failure, but I understand the frustration and betrayal the Insurrectionists had been swallowing for decades. And honestly, from their perspective, it may have been just. We manufactured them to be stupid, used to poverty, illiterate, and otherwise naively ignorant, credulous, and believing in the virtue of hard work.

Trials

…are barbaric and we can do better. Jury trials are embarrassingly archaic, like dead reckoning down the Swedish coastline. When there is a question of guilt, the matter will be investigated to the satisfaction of investigators and the prosecutor, the matter will be deliberated on by both sides of the argument, and a trio of arbitrators. Both sides will take turns in a debate-style exchange. Trio may challenge any assertion at any time for any reason with the challenge "show me!" and ought to as often as unsupported claims are issued.

A small group of family and friends may be in attendance, but their presence is a fragile privilege; supporters may choose to remain in the support room, where camera feeds of the proceeding will be displayed in comfortable accommodations with no limit to noise making and throwing things around. We get it. It's ok. Let it out.

Travel and transportation

Movement throughout the world will occur freely, and those protectionist few who oppose this as such will be softened to the idea. It is critical to a free, progressive Humanity that movement on the planet be transparent and expressly encouraged. Toxic social structures will be met as such. Should a population of malcontents arise we will accommodate them by sealing them off completely from all outside resources. To rise against this is to declare one's land and people to be completely and arrogantly self-sufficient. If they decide they don't want to participate in humanity, then that is their decision. We will listen if they reach out.

Wealth will no longer be a social yardstick.

It is clear from the entirety of human history that wealth given power ruins. So wealth will be a matter of capacity to purchase things and compensate workers for their labor. Boasts of one's wealth will be received as grossly rude and quite odd. And that is all.

Intelligence will no longer be a social yardstick.

IQ is an ancient system of measurements, but hear this: IQ matters about as much to the character and rights of a person as their height does. Yes, it allows for greater access to some extraordinary things, but it is hardly the choice of anyone involved, and it is what this person has through no fault of their own. Human intelligence is a varied, chaotic, messy thing. All humans have brains that, at least in part, function to emerge a mind. That person may not have a common capacity to understand or speak. Some people simply have more difficulty learning. Hear me now. Attacks to the intelligence or resulting character will be noticed with especially energetic fervor. Attacks on the capacity to learn, understand, analyze, know, remember, use, and/or convey ideas are especially insidious. The acuity of others is between them and those with whom they share it. All this is to say that the toxic use of epithets (dumbass, dipshit, etc (to imply a comically or irritatingly low capacity as though this is amusing, acceptable behavior. I seek to clean up the language we use on each other and that guides the zeitgeist of human culture.

Needlessly abusive, degrading, or otherwise hurtful speech

We will cure the foul hearts of those who find the suffering of others amusing, full stop. This can begin with the pervasive meanness with which we address each other. "Ahh, I'm just bustin' his chops..." by persistently bringing up his limp and whatever else? No, bad funny. That's bullying, and you are adults. Be better. This also pervades media, eroding our sensitivity to the suffering of others. I see some nuance here, in that if it is a piece of media that depicts madcap, slapstick behavior including the consequence being temporary to being meaningless, well, that might as well be a cartoon. The point is that our culture has become a roiling pot of animus towards each other and the rest of the world. Entitlement coupled with the inability to set aside entitlement is a huge problem, but I'll get to that.

Bad Actors

“Bad Actor” is defined as any ethically accountable Person who knowingly and willfully attempts to enrich, empower, amplify, or otherwise actively convey misinformation, take that which is not their own, molest anything or anyone that ought not be molested, etc. Those Bad Actors who surreptitiously attempt to victimize People, Society, Culture, etc, by any means will be tagged as Traitors and will receive Guidance to help them heal.

Guidance Centers

Each municipality will feature a local Guidance Center where wayward People will be guided into healing and contentment. These facilities are to be fully state-of-the-art, open, comfortable, safe, clean, etc. A location should be similar to a resort in its ample classrooms, private consultation and therapy rooms, medical facilities, group restaurant with compulsory group meals, recreational facilities (gym, pool, ball courts, game room, theater, etc), musical equipment, and wide and open outdoor spaces. There are, by sad necessity, a few drawbacks. Internet access will be heavily moderated and restricted; cellular signals will be actively jammed, and the only outside connectivity will be the moderated Guidance Center WiFi. Center staff will secure their own connective devices in the secure staff section of the Center; this is necessary for the security of the facility and its staff. There will be no unsupervised contact with outside People, or sites that allow users to post messages, media, etc within the Center. Patients will be regularly allowed, under controlled conditions and remote supervision, to video conference with their families. This will be their only authorized contact with the rest of the world while Guidance is underway. Sessions may be instantly ended by the remote supervisor should need arise. Sessions that are aborted will be the last such session for the Patient in question. This is in lieu of obsolete prison models. Visual and audio recordings taken from within the Guidance Center grounds will immediately destroy themselves once the device leaves said grounds. Personal writings, Guidance Center materials, and other media specifically cleared by the Center staff may be retained, on a per-content basis. References to Guidance Centers in media metadata will be revised to reflect their own homes. As always, they are subject to deletion should something compromising be identified.

Anyone at any time for any reason may walk into a Guidance Center and get help for what can be helped. They may also tour the facility to ensure no one has reason to suspect anything other than empathetic Guidance is underway.

Guidance Centers will also serve as supplemental area pharmacies where general Persons may consult a physician regarding refills, new symptoms, etc.

The Center's resident population will wear plain, comfortable, functional uniforms which will also serve as an oversized reflector vest that also glows in the dark. And the Civics have not forgotten that you are in Guidance, and they do not want that kind of shit in their Civic.

Utopia

Pie in the sky, indeed. This work is directly about doing that which has been ridiculed by corrupt officials and sycophants. Only cowards mock the idea that Humanity might unite and align their priorities. A lofty idea would be to rename our home planet "Utopia."

How to measure success

Our global policy is that the only thing we demand of the world is that it educates its children to modern secular standards, and it raises them in loving, safe, bountiful homes where they see Decency as the overwhelming norm. Emerging, pre-industrial cultures will be exempt from this, pending their active gestures to be considered to join the Modern World; they will be in no way encroached upon, relocated, camped, proselytized at, or otherwise violated in their autonomy and sanctity. What we get in return is assured modern, comfortable, sustainable livelihood as the standard model going forward. We can allow no flexibility here given what we have seen since 1492.

The Outset

The past is the worst but is also seemingly safe and even virtuous to revere and emulate; the past lies. And we are always riding the razor-thin blade on which we are forced to balance and be grateful that this is how we get to live the first and only chance we have at this. We learned the tendency to hold the past because we were raised by people significantly older than us who, by the time we were old enough to care, began bemoaning our own choices, relating to their own young experience that is now long irrelevant. We are told that the things we like are inferior to the things our parents liked when they were young. It's narcissistic, but it has not been challenged since things started from generation to generation. Reverence for the past is corrosive to our future, and will be retired. Nostalgia is perfectly fine and healthy; attempts to anchor Humanity to one temporal moment will be met with Education. Further attempts will require Guidance. The only value the past has to Us is for academic work, and as an omnibus catalog of our constant failures. To look at it with anything other than revulsion or suspicion is to deliberately stupify oneself for the overall worse. The past is what still happens until We unite and excise it from our People. It saturates Us with all the worst impulses of Humanity, which We irrationally clutch as though they are actually potent as a social cure for whatever malady they concoct and sell fear and indignation against.

The conclusion

The conclusion is that we think we ought to work together to survive as a species. Then there are those who do not; which are we?

Rationale

Up until now I have not given the rationale for anything I have stated here. Specifically, I have not explained my reasoning for being so very energetic about children. We all start completely dependent, terrified, tearful, and unlearned. We all are asked to grow from that helpless mass to adults of grand industry and clever wit. The problem is that our parents had to grow up, as well, and without the benefit of rigid standards for how adults are to treat children. "We don't respect children very much in this country." My parents felt well in their rights to strike me with objects and to bark at me (this was common among my peers at church). In doing so, they infected me with fear. Most parents do this; infect their children with fear instead of learning to manage it and redirect it productively or at least harmlessly, and then raising their children to have an easier time of controlling fear. Fear of pain from touching the stove is one thing; fear metastasized to the heart as a result of childhood existential fear is incurable, and is nearly always passed from a parent. See Bob's Burgers for examples of a functional family. Again, you are never entitled or even allowed to angrily shout at or touch a child. We are fully dependent on our children to carry on the work of Humanity, and they can't do that if they are living in unresolved dreadful care of the people who were supposed to be protecting them from every kind of trauma. The less trauma a child carries into adulthood, the better. Children sometimes scream when they are upset. Parents, fix your hearts, or die.

Non-sequitur and ad hominem

This one is really just something I would like to see. Decent rhetorical and debate skills ought to be required for all Students, as they are so very powerful to wield with Decency. Attacks on the interlocutor themselves, or irrelevant outside matters are ubiquitous, lazy, and toxic. “Fuck you!” Is fine. “Dipshit!” Is not. “I don’t think you are correct in this matter, and I can provide several points to demonstrate my position.” is perfect. “Can you believe this fuckwit? Ha, what a goddamn loser! Look at him! Ha! Look. Loser. I’m right and you’re wrong. End of story. And I think we all remember what happened the last time we let your office handle even trivial work! It was a goatfuck, right guys?!” Well, that’s a counter-example.

Essays

Historically marginalized groups

The past was the worst; (make now when it began to improve according to future textbooks). It has brought us here fractured. The in-group/out-group instinct is a strong one, but it does not need to continue. We resolve that each functioning human brain, either developing towards, or currently engaged, in some way that it can object to abuse, is of equal value to any other such brain, and will enjoy equal protections and liberty to every other such brain. Greatness comes with contribution, not lineage or disposition. With this, we can retire the idea that certain words and actions are insensitive unless rendered in a duly-insensitive way. I bet I'm way more liberal than you weirdos screaming sophomoric chants, enforcing arbitrary non-standards, and abusing strangers. I'm also way, way more inclusive.

Word-victims are suspect, and pronoun virtue-signaling is stupid.

Polite and decent behavior

Asking someone bluntly if they are, say, slow, ought to be perfectly acceptable, as long as the asker simply does not know the answer. "Are you slow?" to an unfamiliar child, cool; "Are you slow" to a coworker you have known for 5 years and has an adequate work history, not cool. "That idiot!" "Dumbass!" and other such rebukes are to be phased out. Someone cuts you off in traffic, display the Finger of Retribution, but do not question their cognitive capacity or any other factors they cannot control. Certainly don't bring in outside factors such as age or apparent ethnicity. Focus on the behavior, not the person. The point is that we need to come to the middle; being violently upset by singular words simply on the basis that they were used is untenable and usually derivative of piety. Using words on others to inflict enough hurt so as to then extract what is desired from them is untenable. No one should ever be made to feel stupid, even if their actions would seemingly suggest it. The actions, not the person.

Examples:

"Look at this cake! Would you want this on your wedding day? Please call the client to inform them of the delay and then do it right. I'm out here in the front if you need help."

vs

"See this?! Do you see this?! You did this! How could you be so absent?! Listen you stupid, lazy brat! Stop! Stop what you're doing! Call the client right now and tell them how hard you fucked them and that the adults are fixing it now. This is coming out of your paycheck!""

Culturally, problems shall be addressed as they manifest; flimsily-speculated, loudly-asserted warnings of imminent calamity ought to be faced with a forceful bout of informed rationality.

Vulnerable people need not be led astray. Those who violate or attempt to violate this will be designated as terroristic Enemies of the People, and firmly but empathetically guided to Decency. It is sadly true that terrorists exploited the extraordinary gift given to the People by the founding fathers in the form of the First Amendment. To those who ask if these current changes run afoul of the intent of the founding fathers, I say that the founding fathers, in the same situation, would rescind that amendment altogether pending a way to fix human nature, to corrupt and destroy. They had no frame of reference for the first half of the 21st Century, and their contemporary words reflected a world that could not be rocked to its core just with speech.

Ethics and Morality

Morality comes from external, self-appointed forces threatening calamity and carnage if not obeyed. Morality stands flimsy in place of ethics.

Ethics comes from the active personal decision to examine and incorporate those points which support the overall structure of Decency, and to apply those realizations as is appropriate. It relies on no law, moré, book, tradition, superstition, duty, official, family, company, creed, or even clear thinking. In ethics, doing the right thing becomes reflexive as opposed to the hand-wringing, corruption, and intellectual cowardice which have been the standing features of systems of morality since they were concocted by ancient savages.

The Ick Reflex

Obeying your ick reflex is a direct path to Treason, because our worst behavior comes as an expression of disgust for something or someone we have no right to be disgusted by. Our most primal fears are of weather, the dark, heights, fire, snakes, and perceived outsiders because those were the primary concerns for our tree-dwelling ancestors, and we have yet to challenge that in a meaningful way. Fear of "the other" or "the outsider" came a bit later, and is still entrenched in our collective psyche.

Smarter != better

Those with perceived greater cognitive capacity shall never subject those with perceived lower capacity to being viewed or treated as anything other than capable of profound thought or extraordinary actions. Nor shall anyone else. What not to do is to use anything that is an inextricable feature of the Person against them, or for personal or group amusement or gain.

Law

The most numerous and rigid laws should be applied to those who can hurt people and human flourishing the most; nearly no laws should be in place to govern the behavior of those with very little power to inflict. The more influence you have, the harsher the laws to govern your actions and keep you honest and decent; there might be a bit of built-in restitution to the People for centuries of abuse at the hands of the wealthy. They can and will buy back the Civic's trust directly, and without their consent or knowledge if needed. Citizen law ought to be intentionally vague and feel more like concepts than laser-etched doctrine. Laws will be as rigid as they need to be, and no more rigid. The default, again, is that anything outside some unavoidable crimes against People is legal. This legal strategy is formed specifically to ensure maximal liberty tinged with a slight color of necessary law. Freedom, in the form that it took, is to be retired as corrupted, evil, and patently dangerous.

"Where were you on January 6th?"

Assess the subject's distance and direction relative to January 6, physically and cognitively. September 11 2001 was a day of cowards who did not know us except how to make us afraid, and I hold no higher expectation for the pathetic savages involved. January 6 was a day of cowards, showing up just as we grew them, waving flags, carrying weapons, and entitled to whatever they wanted, by force, here in the United States of America. I relent to continue to give desert savages the distinction of supplying us with our worst day. No, we owe that to home-grown savages with absolutely no excuse for any of their behavior since Watergate. The truth is that some people appeal to the base impulse of bigotry and greed, and the willfully-ignorant see no reason to scrutinize what they are hearing because at least someone is legitimizing their patriotism and desire to see a clean, safe society for themselves and their children. And wherever there is ignorance, there will be exploitation and all the products thereof. They appealed to the fear of ignorant white people, stating they were welcome and will be supported in the party, and that it shared their upright American values.

Power - “Anyone who seeks out power for its own sake must be denied it at all cost.” - Nate, or whoever said this, and I just forgot.

”Kings need not broadcast their title, for it is known.”

Or

”If you have to tell others that you are a king, then you are not a king.” - Nate again

No one should want to be in power, and Servants will be turned over frequently to ensure fresh people, fresh ideas, and fresh policy. e.g.,

"I want to be a Triad!"

"Why?! And this had better be a good answer that focuses primarily on your ideas to enhance Human Flourishing." - contrived possible future exchange.

Power is to be a wholly thankless status, and no one with a selfish streak should be interested. This is the way this has to be. If something has a likelihood of compromising our values, cohesion, or species, it must be detected and repaired; if that something is a Person, then it should be obvious to others that this Person is a liability to Human Thriving and needs empathetic Guidance to build the healthy mental skills that They did not receive in young life due to past priorities and failures. For what it is worth, if all of this works, I want to be left anonymous and completely out of power of any kind. I will advise Servants as to my position on a given topic, but no policy beyond this manuscript will be mine to willfully examine for its Decency, utility, etc. Power of position will end no later than the Servant's 65th birthday. In cases where some Guidance is required for the outgoing Servant, their successor will be already spun up and ready to assume their position.

Anecdotes

In the spring of 2007, I was serving in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom at Camp Victory, Baghdad, and had been doing so since the previous autumn. Two significant things occurred to my sense of self and my perception of things around me; the troop surge occurred as did the response to that surge, and Year Zero by Nine Inch Nails. I had experienced something similar as a young private in Ali A Salem, Kuwait, when I watched Three Kinds inside of my equipment shelter. I occasionally opened the door, and the hot bright air would breathe on me and remind me of where I was.

Fiction

A solution we will not use; it just somehow felt right to let the Utopia know that I can think like this:

The Cube

A poured concrete cubic room with supporting infrastructure managed on the external roof. An uncovered drain in the floor will carry away anything water-soluble hIch will play relevant material, along. Sufficient water sprayers mounted in the ceiling will carry various temperatures of water with enough volume and velocity to serve their purpose uniformly. The cube will be fitted with projectors with projectors which, along with a sound system with the power to be heard will deliver media to encourage desired behavior.

When the cube is to be populated, the group will be relieved of all hair and nails. They will be fully nude and absent of anything at all that isn't part of their working body will be removed. To maintain some dignity, all in the cube will have their GI tracts fully flushed. A hatch at the top of the cube will open down into the cube. A ladder will be afforded for this alone; it will be retracted and locked in the top. The group knows that this is it. This is the last environment they will know. These are the last people. If you were a jet plane, you would not be able to scream your way out. The projector shows victims, court footage, news clips and whatever volume is right for the moment. The subject can always be changed, and speaking water of whatever temperature you like. These will absolutely burn through skin if need be. They can also be delivered just a bit frosty. Or switch between the two.

I have forgotten to mention the main feature! Ok, so, as they descended into the cube, they were met with the image of their most revered leader. They are face-up, grey, and given a sticky grin. This is not to horrify them. This is their last menu.

Ideally, the cube would be an automated device and would alert its operator when decomp is basically done. It could react to speech or movement, tone, etc, and apply an appropriate response.

Group Punishment

A poured concrete cubic room with supporting infrastructure managed on the external roof. An uncovered drain in the floor will carry away anything water-soluble. Sufficient water sprayers mounted in the ceiling will carry various temperatures of water with enough volume and velocity to serve their purpose uniformly. Interleaved, discrete dual paths will allow for two different temperatures to be swapped back and forth instantly, for contrast of sensation. The cube will be fitted with projectors with projectors which, along with a sound system with the power to be heard will deliver media to encourage desired behavior.

When the cube is to be populated, the group will be relieved of all hair and nails. They will be fully nude and absent from anything at all that isn't part of their working body will be removed. To maintain some dignity, all slated for a visit to the cube will have their GI tracts fully flushed with suitable diuretics. A hatch at the top of the cube will open down into the cube. A ladder will be afforded for this alone; it will be retracted and locked in the top. The group knows that this is it. This is the last environment they will know. These are the last people. If you were a jet plane, you would not be able to scream your way out. The projector shows victims, court footage, news clips played at whatever volume is right for the moment for as many times as is right, for as long as is right. The subject can always be changed, and speaking water of whatever temperature you like. These will absolutely burn through skin if need be. They can also be delivered just a bit frosty. Or switch between the two.

I have forgotten to mention the main feature! Ok, so, as they descended into the cube, they were met with the image of their most revered leader. They are face-up, grey, and given a sticky grin. This is not to horrify them. This is their last menu, or will be if they figure it out soon enough. The next opportunity will be given, care of a peer.

Ideally, the cube would be an automated device unless taken over by a technician. It could be set to play a program of pre-selected events at the cube. It could also make up scenes on its own, with parameters to suit. Eventually the last signs of life will fade, and then the remnants of these Guests. The cube should alert its operator when decomposition is basically done. It could react to speech or movement, tone, etc, and apply an appropriate response.

It is to be kept in mind what these people did to us, and what they would have happily continued to do if we did not sack up and end their evil power. This is what we do to Nazis and Owners. This is what we do to the people who would gladly siphon away all of the wealth we produce to establish a new order of the Owner and the Slave. This is what we do with those who manipulate financial instruments so as to drain an unsatisfiable machine for a few wealthy crooks. We make them eat each other instead of us.

Crumbs

hIch will play relevant material, along.

Rude language and the Law

This document is superior to Abrahamic texts in that it was composed in its entirety by one Person over the course of a month on modern computing devices. That by itself is enough to dismiss the Old Testament. The senselessly-difficult and near-total failure to retain its text and context, and then have the audacity to blame you for your own damnation because even if someone has never thought about the idea of a deity, the message of salvation through Jesus Christ is written on their hearts.

This is as opposed to any ancient form of capturing messages that are frankly a telling indication that this message was not important enough to their deity to provide them with durable materials and techniques for information capture and archival storage anything proposed in those volumes. Am I better at conveying a message than YHWH?! If this was trivial for me to concoct, and YHWHnd completely fail in preserving that (word-for

DOWNLOADING YZ,

They could have kept the entire growing archive in plain view of all and singularly accessible and fully comprehensible without clergy, to all interested parties, actively accessible to anyone. Instead, they jealously protected the bound papyrus scrolls with threat of violence and magic.

This is as opposed to modern writing conventions that have it that good inspirational writing should be pithy and efficient, convey its message as intended, contain as few assumptions as possible, to back up its claims, to be known in its entirety with no reason for additional, supplemental materials or qualifications, be rigidly rooted in the ever-challenging truth, actively and explicitly rejecting rigid adherence to itself, be updated freely as time progresses, easily read in its entirety in one session, and make no bold claims or fanciful tales of inexcusable righteous conquest is OmniOmni, then why didn't he even try? If the entirety of the rest of Human history and eternity rode on this message, then why did it conspicuously a.

Ignorant people are credulous.

Credulous people are loyal to things they think they understand, or that feel safe from their childhood.

The loyalty of ignorant, credulous people is easy to manipulate, especially into violence.

Credulous people are easy to manipulate to violence

Ignorance is eroded at school; credulity is required at church.

Churches advocate for dismantling public education because they are rewarded for the percentage of voting Republicans they have with bigger congregations full of the ever-burgeoning credulous.

The Republican Party has, for decades, systematically rewarded churches having a high ratio of Republican-voting congregations.

The Republican Party willfully, and conspicuously enforces credulity by asking families to homeschool, isolating whole groups of young minds to salute the flag and bow to the cross. God with us. Blood and soil. Hail Victory.

Enlightened people are incredulous.

Enlightened people are loyal to nothing, but pay greater homage to that which can convince them by attempting to refute them, and that then can be demonstrated incontrovertibly.

Incredulous people are harder to manipulate, and are generally unwilling to go outside their values set, especially to hurt others.

Ignorant people vote in blocs with whatever they are loyal to, or what they are told to do by accepted authorities (boss, god, activist, pastor).

Enlightened people vote as chaotic groups of individuals.

The Constitution

The Constitution of the United States of America was a dead document at Watergate. Every subsequent utterance of any language remotely alluding to the Constitution by an elected official addressing the Public has been a sneering spit in the face of the whole American history of Constitutional Law. Since Watergate, the Republican Party has relished in its constant erosion in favor of a return to compelled labor with only enough consideration to humanity to stabilize the labor force. Labor is contrition, contrition saves, Jesus demands contrition, and we will ensure that you are born to your celestial body swiftly. “The Constitution?! The Constitution was written by a stodgy group of foppish men in powdered wigs, and no idea what they were sitting on. We know, now! And we can rip this land apart for its resources and be the unquestioned, dominant force on this planet! If we can ramp up scale, organize the labor pool into something a bit more efficient, and go for pure profit, it will be an American dynasty for the next 500 years! 1000 years! 1000 years of American supremacy and God in control! God With Us! Blood and Soil!"

Yes, it can happen here, and it very clearly is happening here.

Rage against the Machine: things are so good that things like race and money feel daring to criticize, eh? There have not been any equivalent bands lately because race and wealth topics just seem silly to engage at the moment. We live steamy political rhetoric naturally; we don't really need the artificially embittered entries, too. An organized, equipped, percussive flash of social activity can quickly overturn all of this incompetence and grinning evil, as long as it is done well and only few participants blow it. This is about ethics on display in defiance of morality and its greasy tendrils. Looks matter.

If suddenly every free adult threw up a finger and went home, ignored any but armed assailants, and then proceeded to resist, move, and reclaim, for sure, there would be a lot of lost profit, and that is worth becoming violent for by those with no business even fully aware that firearms exist or what they do.

And, for fucksake…!

Learn to blow off people who are being mean and loud to you; that's all the fuck they got, so sack up! If they get violent, then force law enforcement into the situation (this is given the immediate choice to call the Civil Service; we prefer this to being forced to draw, acquire, and squeeze).

There is a photo from early 2019 of a young man smiling mockingly in the face of an older man who is performing a tribal song; that's the look; the look of "Is this guy serious? Hey! Are you serious? I am fully confident that you aren't willing to hurt me, so what the fuck are you and what the fuck do you think you might or could do to me. So, what are you doing? Other than wasting effort shouting at me, that is…"

As long as they are just yelling, that's the look. The one resistant Smiler may/should receive support from bystanders, in the form of stopping where they are, turning, and continuing to smile in their place. Should the yeller get a bit too violence-y, well, sucks to have to do a "them," but it was their choice to conduct all of this while you stood there triumphantly smiling. Only the original Smiler should fire, lest a Supporter be hit. Those who do not get involved will be ignored completely with nothing else said of them regarding this incident. A follow-on approach might be to, with enough support, make it impossible to fend us off. If they offer you violence, then do not hold out on reciprocity as their guest. And invite all your friends to the party. As long as violence is offered, return the offering in kind. Once it has subsided through whatever Decent means that was used, that is it. You go on your way, and they either learned their lesson and may go on to think about it all, or they will have demanded death, and it will have been delivered without passion or malice.

The real shock happens when they realize we have guns, too, and they are not for show or ego. That we have only the weapons that we use for daily protection. That there is no more than 1 firearm per household adult (including teenagers that pass a trivial safety test), plus 1 gun for the house, and that's all the hardware that this family and home need. Because they are not afraid. They are ready. And they are not compelled to advertise their fear and insecurity on a sign next to the gate on their chain link fence; their security is each other, and their combined understanding, ability, and willingness to fight for and alongside each other against an actual, present enemy.

[3]Rounds will be harder to get, but not impossible or even all that difficult if you have a guy that knows a

---

[3] There are Traitors lurking just out of view who just snorted at the idea that Liberals in general can own, maintain, learn, or use a gun, especially in a fight. I'm a post-career retired, 100% Service-Connected disabled US Army Soldier (25S. Why what was yours when you went to war?). I also wrote this book. You don't scare me, but I know how to scare you. And I give free classes to Decent people on how to scare you into any stupid thing we can. To legally enrage you until you react like you predictably do.

All you can do is validate or invalidate my positions; prove me justified in a position or not. I have practiced taming and controlling my Fear. As an active-duty Soldier in perpetual wartime (thanks to the droves of Traitors believing themselves to be Patriots), I marveled at how someone could wear something clearly advocating for the wars, shaking my hand and thanking me for my service, while demanding the multiple wars I fought in, like I am not standing right there, my hand in theirs, as someone they are sending to die in war. I have also practiced other things. I'm smarter than you, and I can manipulate you. Rigidity makes things fragile. Flimsiness is enough of a counter-descriptor without decoration. You flip capriciously between begging for flimsy delusions of safety, and effortlessly snap to rigidly enforcing your preferences as things you are absolutely entitled to not only remember and enjoy, but will never change as long as you are alive. Run it by me again what happened that made you vote for Reagan. Why was soul-killing conservatism the Boomer solution to a Boomer problem? Almost like nothing matters as long as you are unchallenged in having what you want.

Most of you do. You. You Cowards… come at us, you weakling! We are not you, and 9/11 made us think, not panic. Think, and then actually fight in the misdirected, clearly corrupt, fully honorless wars you needed in order to prop up your worldview. Nothing like multiple unjustified, fantasy guy; we can learn how to reload rounds, too. That there is no skill or discipline with a personal firearm that is the exclusive domain of Traitors, other than the fetishization of them, and current lack of the discipline that makes one a potent, virtuous fighter. Meal Team Six just assumes possession=expertise, and it's more about what you have and how you look to their like-minded buddies than about how to effectively defend a position, or what to consider when performing Battle Drills like move to target and clear. Same with our trucks. Same with our clothes. We take marksmanship lessons from our current- and ex-Service Members. We learn Combatives. We do cardio. A fuckton of cardio. We know how to use what we have, including making stupid people so mad at our mockery that they are compelled to end themselves wars in the Middle East in order to jump-start Holy War, the one thing you really, really need, or you might actually have to face death as opposed to glorious Rapture into the presence of The Almighty. Kinda, you know, tricking The Old Man. You already displayed your piss-colored bellies while the towers were still smoking.

---

Do it, you contradiction of geriatric and spoiled brat. Make me right. Make me famous. React, loser.

Or fix your hearts and be well with us.
Earnest requests for help will be encouraged and rewarded.

by proxy; suicide by Patriot[4] is so, so real. We can each do what we can to solidify the wall of Resolve against what has now become pointless to entertain: Fear. We do not police each other; this is important. Nothing anyone does other than brazen acts of physical aggression against understanding and progress will constitute any of anyone else's business.

Keep making them underestimate the "crying liberals," while quietly neutralizing them as we find them. Yeah, it's scary. Yeah, you very well could die. But then 5 more people won't have to worry about that guy, and he can become an example of what happens when you actually sack up against numb, lockstep treason.

Fix the machine, and don't think for a second that raging against it is useful. Yeah, we know the problem; they lead us around by the Fear. Just stop letting them; let them pull out their Industrial Revolution-era control tools to try and use them against you. They will have less and less power as we take more and more control from them and make their entire network of assumptions collapse into impotent; the true measure of success. If those tools work on you, then you're gonna need to sack up.

---

[4] We are taking this word back and applying it accurately as one who places the welfare of their People above their own, and is willing to levy open criticism of perceived flaws in their Society. Dangerous, psychotic weirdos need not apply, and you are actively excluded from the title "Patriot." You are Traitors, not Patriots. Try doing something for someone else, without the expectation of return. Can't? There, you're a Traitor. None of this is yours. Fuck off and fix your heart.

Some focus on nothing other than seizing more than is their share. And we allow them to do this without consequence because they seem stronger than we are, have the resources we need, offer a way to get it, and keep from us the fact that we are selling the one life we have to them in exchange for the illusion of prosperity, self-determination, and health. Our strength is enough to obliterate all of them and reclaim the stolen prosperity for us all, if we leverage it.

They emulate abusive parents in that we tend to yearn for their steady hand, and then betray that trust in whatever way is most lucrative at the moment, without even the impulse to consider any other factors. We look to them for security and livelihood, and they predictably yank their hand away if they sense wealth, in any amount or type, flowing down.

"Wait until your father gets home" is wildly abusive, bordering on terroristic. If the Father's return represents anything other than a delightful event of reunion after the day, especially if it actually represents a threat however subtle, regardless of what may come with the Father's return, then it is Terroristic Threats on a child, and will require Guidance and near-certainly the removal of all people in any dependant position under the Terrorist. This is Fear Installation in progress. No, sir. This is what gets us out of our chairs. This is the very core of everything we are doing; remove illicit power by short-circuiting Fear.

To parents who terrorize their vulnerable minds out of frustration, I say to you that, if recalling why you became a parent makes you mad or sad or angry or ashamed or bitter or used or detached or anything other than joy and a renewal of devotion to your chosen life, it will be quick and simple to relieve you of these burdens. There is no such thing as "parents' rights," but there are quite a few Children's Rights which will be trivial to enforce at a moment's notice without recourse, and without further option to raise children, especially by making more. This includes any adults who resided with the child/ren and had a reasonable chance to step in. Children will not suffer the unsuitability of any adult figure, especially their own parents, for long. Parents of the past were purposefully kept from this lesson, and as result produced ever-damaged, impatient, self-absorbed, naively ignorant, useful idiots for children; they were not expected to be any better than a series of socially-neutral points of purchase/consumption. Children are our future, and we will protect our future.

Try me.

During WWII, a shrewd group of capitalists realized there was a huge baby boom coming to the entire developed world, at the very last. That would be a socially overwhelming number of impressionable people. With some maneuvering, it could be lucrative to, say, 13 digits. Just gotta plan it out according to the biggest part of that boom's life trajectory. Impossible war spanning decades, put in when they are in their teens and 20. Kennedy, Vietnam (draft to boot), Watergate. Popov, Copeland, Osteen, and Graham (700 Club, don't forget). The open, embraced declaration of the virtue of Greed.

The dizzying rate of technological and social advancement leaves them totally mystified. They are evermore furious that the world is not about them anymore. They did this to themselves by habitually, hostilly dismissing/rejecting those innovations which are unfamiliar and therefore seemingly of no consequence, right up until they can't do it their way any more. Then they will be so incensed that they have been told "no" and "learn the new way" that they will wear themselves out trying to force it back into their own righteous way, thus deepening their victimhood and bitterness with modernity and nudging them back to Pastor Touchington and his congregation of especially useful idiots.

Ubiquitous, innumerable, inaccessible social influences and tools in the form of devices, expectations, and language will gall them to no end, especially since those innovations are the result of things that they have long labeled as the enemy. Ironically, those things are base for full membership as a Westerner. Instead of being exuberantly lobbed all power, influence, and wealth, they have to face the jarring fact that the world is no longer for them, and that their insistence that it is will generate ever-more jeering response from the rest of us. They are no longer even considered the product of greatness, with greatness in their marrow. That these innovations and movements were not made with them even in mind, much less the target demographic, and that they are now standing stubbornly in the way of the rest of us realizing our potential and ensuring next generations are equipped to realize their own greatness. They opted for doe-eyed complicity and ignored innovation. Then it was too late for them to catch up. That’s a shame.

These insecurities and their associated paralysis were reinforced, in every aspect of their lives; to submit to authority over reason, to be swayed by loudness over rigor, and to react to attacks on their own tiny dome of safety (safe space, if you like) with reactive, blindly energetic contortions as everyone (especially the target of these contortions), stand back baffled and ever-more worried. Their betters will order them to hate anything outside of their dome, and compel them to use their own resources (giving is sssocializzum, you know) to make a show of hating whatever they were ordered to hate.

It is a seamless process; the authority they are loyal to tells them to hate something, and they gleefully comply. Let’s say it’s something stupid but loosely Americana-ish: picket fences. First, they will rip out their own fences as fast as possible to throw off suspicions that they were ever even tolerant of picket fences. They will have t-shirts and posters printed lambasting picket fences and associated things. They will focus on making, embracing, and displaying rude mockeries of picket fences and all associated things, just to be seen hating picket fences. It's not enough to suddenly hate picket fences; like all things, this is a scrape-and-claw for the one winning position. They don't care about picket fences; they care about being recognized as a member of an exclusive and ever-tightening group. They care about being recognized for their effort and loyalty. They care about being the biggest, most, and being it forever. That is the end of the list.

In this instance, "we" refers to those born to the generation that returned from World War II and were raised in a post-WWII world. Boomers. We're talking about Baby Boomers/The Me Generation. This is clearly self-serving, but it does draw a useful line between those born before or during WWII, and those who came next after nuclear energy made the entire world twitchy. Yeah, that's "boomers bad[5]." The fact that you think

---

[5] Anyone who rejects the notion that the Baby Boomer/Me Generation is a monolith, as such, may now place this book down and let it wait for someone less useful. We are unuseful by necessity, and we will defeat you by doing things you can't fight because they are legal, but they always make your blood boil 😳; you have been asleep for 50 years believing you were appointed by God, and now you're lost. This book, like practically all other things, isn't for or about you. And you have the whole thing laid out to you here in intentionally-comprensible modern American English, with unlimited copies, translations, and distribution, but you are impotent to fight it. This is how we defeat you; we feed your carcinogenic Fear and Entitlement until those words is because the Me Generation believe that Reductio Ad Absurdum is a useful, respected rhetorical device, especially in mockery of their interlocuteurs and their position as the Boomer perceives it. That said, the truth is simple, and the facts support the theory that the Me Generation is by far the most destructive, selfish, forcefully ignorant generation we have ever had. It is also still alive and making non-Boomer votes effectively they grow to consume you and your stupid fucking ideas. I honestly don't understand how you survived this long within Nature.

---

Boomer, Sycophant, you're done now. Be better, then try again.

You are already in a severe deficit, and we know you were warned because

We warned you.

Your in-built defiance looped back to us, and here we are. Way to fuck, Flower Child.

I don't have to belabor the length of time you have left to embrace and practice Decency.

Fix your hearts, or die (sooner and worse).

We will work on that with you, either way.

worthless. It is willfully ignorant, fast to espouse enduring hatred, chaotic in all things except their entitlement (of which they are uniformly assured (because no one has meaningfully challenged it), and cartoonishly easy to lead by the Fear, Entitlement, Piousness, and contempt for everything except those local peers who agree with them in the big pieces and the minutia (selected fellow parishioners, e.g.). Otherwise, those of us born a couple decades after WWII, to them, are all menacing enemies who need to be destroyed, and they will defend what's theirs, by the sheer quantity of reliably stunted, stubborn, entitled, selfish, ugly, geriatric, unteachable brats at their disposal. A huge portion of the activist MAGA types are disaffected young white men. Almost all the rest are Boomers. Their man, backed by their reliably-hateful peers. 1945-present, we have allowed this, and even encouraged it. It would be quick and relatively easy to upset that concept before those addled geriatrics are allowed to believe that they have 1980s entitlement in their ever-mounting sundown years. It is already clear that they cannot be trusted with any political involvement, because they are bent on burning it down before they check out, disregarding anything that may still litter the landscape they hated into oblivion. You don't get your extra-biblical Rapture that was promised to you because of a happenstance that they found themselves the generation which was born right about the time that the League of Nations redesignated Palestine as Israel, thus signifying that Israel was back in its home, and therefore their generation would not pass away before the return of Christ, indicated by that Rapture[6]. Yeah, we will still be [6] I would have way more sympathy for the Imminent Rapture types if they did not turn around, have all the children (us) they could, and force those new people(us) to be alive by waiting until it's too late to do anything about it, while they were actively dismantling any social or economic comfort we might have enjoyed, especially anything they may have taken for granted when we were the ones striving under their system in their brazenly rigged game. Anything that was not directly and exclusively theirs was a threat or a burden, either to be crushed and expelled as un-American.

---

You boomer hypocrite Evangelicals believe so fervently that the calamity of Apocalypse was imminent (cuz, you know, Israelites back in Jerusalem and Revelation and all that) that you felt it was within your scope to disregard the future beyond your lifetime.

To you believing lot, no you don't.

You do not believe that.

You never did.

At least not a year or so before I was born, you didn't actually believe that. Know why?

You. Had. Children.

Not just a few; you bred as a burning ambition, almost as if you believed that Humanity's current level of here to live through their scorched-earth plan that we did not agree to after their meat gets over-packaged and dropped in a hole with all of their no-longer-entitled peers.

Ok, let's get this out; for my entire life, the standing and evermore dismissive answer to my desire for a content life has been "well, time to pound that pavement. Gotta want it. Gotta dig. Gotta grind. You'll find something, and then make a great impression on your new boss.

---

deific non-interference were assured for at least one more generation; Generation X, as it is fadingly labeled.

Either that or you didn't give a fuck about anything other than yourselves and what you wanted;

Gestate them all and let God sort them out!

All other arguments in favor of your position are insultingly dead. You believed the end times, with all that horror, was happening any minute with the Trumpets of the Herald Angels announcing the return of the Messiah in full glory, and an anti-gravity trip past the atmosphere and into Bliss while the non-chosen and unrepentant strays suffer below for their wretched sin. Or you were just saying that, and it's all a popularity contest of Conservatism-ordered compliance to Pius demands for the Janus of the State and the Church supporting each other just enough to erode all except the which benefits both, directly or in turn. Republicans stay Christian, and Christians stay Republican. And they can be relied upon to be guilt- and greed-ridden to perpetuate a firstly-alarming, finally-pathetic state of servile sacrifice and entitled hubris.

To those who assume this advice is timeless and just as effective as it was in the early 60s, you try it. Go assume you are in real need of income, and attempt to land even a minimum-wage job. You won't find one. I bet you. I dare you. Prove your 40 years of abusive, increasingly worthless advice. Prove the veracity of your assumptions. Show me how you did it while following that 4-decade-worthless advice. Otherwise, you no longer have input on the matter other than guilt and shame with the severity that leaves bleeding, itchy sores on your arms from the incessant nervous scratching.

Let's also say this; if you believe that a modern entry-level position can be had by asking for and writing on a paper application and talking to management, well, there you go. That's what I'm talking about, and it is the core of your ineptitude on this topic. You are too old to understand, and therefore your advice is worthless at best. Enjoy not having to incessantly defend being the bestest little boys and girls that deserve everything and have already earned it.

By the way, as I type this in March of 2025, the federal minimum wage is $7.25/hour. Someone "in charge" says "Hey, random stranger who wants to survive, I'll give you the net of $7.25 if you spend an hour cleaning the bathrooms and the grease traps. After that hour, there's another net of $7.25 in it for you to organize the walk-in for an hour. And you better focus on nothing other than what you are doing for me. EarPods make me think you don't care about this work or respect me, and you will respect me the way I I learned to identify respect; unquestionable loyalty, grateful suppliance, fawning admiration, and above all, fear." Not compelled? You and your kind did that; intentionally. To us.

You intentionally lobbied and voted to stagnate the minimum wage in perpetuity because you didn't need it, so it wasn't about you, so it was not worth thinking about or allocating resources toward (while placidly fulfilling the one use you have: rewarding corporate greed with ever-deepening power, who then in turn buy elected officials by the 6-pack). Besides, those brats need to learn how to grind. It's good to suffer some. Hell, I didn't even get a minimum wage. This stupid commie New Deal shit… and America can't afford to just let them make a living wage like that. They have to earn it. They have to grind. Otherwise it's all a complete waste that takes from what I deserve. Youth is wasted on the young; Earning is hard, Buttercup. Otherwise it's just Socialism!"

Nuts and Bolts

Policy, Law, and Structure

Political Election Campaigns

It didn't have to be this way. We could have enjoyed the 80s and 90s, grieve the Towers but choose to make it unite us. Iraq, Afghanistan, Covid, Trump. All of this is fueled by wealthy backers who are still sore about the 13th Amendment, because they are bleeding money on employees, so need a more dedicated solution. Otherwise they're just rich…

Political Election Campaigns will remain calm, jovial, and peaceful. A whipped-up crowd is a stupid crowd. And stupid crowds composed of reasonable people are still stupid. And doubly stupid crowds forget there are consequences for uncivil behavior. And then the reasonable people have to answer for the things the stupid crowd did. Nah, better plan; don't whip them up.

Just as breathlessly frantic as the rally crowds are, there is a class of Person that seems to me like they simply have sold their humanity for money and influence. These are not journalists. These are not anchors. These are not Des Moines' best Traffic and Weather, With News on the 10s. The tone makes it immediately clear that this is targeted directly at people with even the slightest susceptibility to radicalization and control. These practices, divorced from even the idea of journalist anything, are simply consent factories, tribalism onramps, hate-rewarding vilany, and fuse-sparking frenzy.

To be sure, the 1st and 2nd Amendments… Constitutional mandate that we may all, all of us, free use with steel-encased constitutionally-prohibited oversight or control of the two most prolific things we use to hurt each other, Speech and weapons. And here we are.

The Law itself

The law is a largely agreed-upon set of rules, backed by threat of consequence, and frequently revisited for needed changes, that we have for our Civic and Private lives. These laws scale with the overall scope of a suspected illegal event.

Anything which conveys a legal message to be decoded and read by a reader will be written in no-more-elaborate-than 5th Grade American English. Panels of 5th Graders will receive rewards for finding errors and inappropriately-lofty language (subject to verification).

The Triad

The Triad[7] will be a group of three members, and will stand in place of the universally-failed offices of the President, Prime Minister, Sultan, King, etc, as the final say on Global matters. The Triad will settle matters of Society on the Global scale; there will be one Triad Team for the People of Planet Utopia. Triad candidates will be sought out globally, identified by their merit, experience, skill set, loyalty to the Human Cause, and compatibility with other candidates, and asked for their service upon nomination. Candidates will be given a standard battery of tests in their native language, and will answer questions regarding Decency, Ethics, the value of Human Life, and Human Flourishing. Triad Teams will be assembled as distinct groups of compatible People with complimentary but distinct skill sets. Should a Triad member be permanently incapacitated, the whole team will be thanked for their service and the standby team will be assembled and endowed with this solemn responsibility. The next Triad Team will be assembled as soon as possible after a Triad is thanked for their service, and will stand ready to occupy the office at any time. The absence of a Triad will be a constitutional emergency, so it must not happen. The identity, composition, and history of The Triad will be private; Triad members will be anonymous and completely out of the Civic eye. They will not be allowed to seek out outside employment, as that would very likely compromise the strict anonymity required for these positions. More on the Triad later.

---

[7] I am perfectly aware of the criminal organization of the same name. I am not concerned about any confusion or sour grapes.

As stated, The Triad will consist of a team of three anonymous officers. Each of these officers will carry a pistol in a holster at their side. Each pistol will be loaded with a single round in the chamber. Sadly, the function of these pistols is to allow for a silent vote by the other two, and then the immediate execution of the third should any member display undeniable evidence of High Treason. All three members will live their lives completely together, and will maintain positive possession of their loaded pistols at all times. The image of three olive-drab pistols arranged front sight to rear sight in a triangle with some rendering of “Pale Blue Dot" at its center. This shall stand as the emblem of The Triad. It will stand for assurance The Triad gives against corruption in High Office, especially their own. Situations requiring a Removal will be made by a vote between the members, the procedure and scope of which will be determined.

Treason and the Law

For these purposes, the word “Treason” will be used to label any willful action taken by any Person that has been previously identified as being deleterious to the civic good order and peaceful living that most of us have worked so hard to realize, and subsequently recognized and codified as being treasonous; if someone invents a new way to be antisocial, then it will be studied for its candidacy and defined as Treason upon necessity.

High Office and High Treason

“High Treason” is designated as betrayal of the People’s confidence by elected Servants of High Office (cultural representatives and above). This is the only situation in which execution is permissible, and even this is deeply regrettable. Executions will be immediate, unannounced, swift, and as quiet as possible while still fulfilling the sad duty at hand.

Officers of High Office will be referred to as Servants, and the cache thereto will be the expectation for their behavior in all ways. Titles are to be kept humble and tidy; the days of lofty titles and lavish courtesies stroking ever-needy egos are over. Servants of High Office will be subject to the laws concerning High Treason. Should a Servant of the People and these solemn chambers be duly found to have committed High Treason according to the law, to the exclusion of any other reasonable explanation, that Traitor (former Servant) will be immediately apprehended with little commotion. The Traitor will then be escorted or bodily removed from their current location, will make way swiftly to the main entrance of the building under their own power or not, exit the edifice of Decency they betrayed, turn to face that which and whom they betrayed, kneel on both knees at the top of the steps, head down, symbolizing contrition to the high office and the People they betrayed. Without fanfare, they will then be shot in the back of the head. A standard sidearm will be used by the youngest member of the extraction team, because the condemned betrayed our youngest the most by threatening their lengthy, prosperous future. This symbolizes our combined resolve, young and old, wealthy and content, to honor the promises we have made to our young people to protect their future. The round is to be fired at a steep angle so as to ensure it leaves an indelible feature in the pavement. The resulting empty shell casing will be secured for available presentation to the Traitor's family at the memorial gathering. Any other remaining material will be power washed away forthwith. The Traitor will retain no honors or titles, and their legacy will fade to time. In each location, as situation dictates and reality allows, these features should be clustered but distinct so as to give a compact, striking living history of our resolve to protect Human Flourishing, and the People's confidence that we will act when required. The remains will be cremated, and the family may take possession of the ashes, the respectfully-mounted empty bullet casing, and a folded flag of their culture, and be solemnly addressed by a sorrowful people. They may request or decline any, all, or none of these items. Items not received by the family will be disposed of respectfully, privately, and anonymously. The family is to be supported and protected by the People and the Servants in honor of their loss. The family or anyone else not directly involved in the High Treason are to be, in no way, held culpable for the actions of their dearly departed, or mistreated for the same or any other reason. Servants are energetically banned from speaking of their treasonous former colleague, their actions, or their end. By upholding this law, we accept the enormous responsibility to their families. They may be relocated at no cost upon request, and will be treated with the same compassion and dignity regardless of where they decide to settle for the remainder of their lives. We took their loved one because we had to; we will not ruin their lives, too. I sincerely hope this simply doesn't come up.

The bullet holes in the pavement will remain as monuments to our resolve as a people to do good.

Any compensation, monetary or otherwise, lump sum or recurring payment, including salary, that the Traitor earned prior to their treachery will be granted, as such, to the Family actively, swiftly, and without malice.

High Office and the minimum wage - The Congress shall set the minimum labor wage. Here's the rub: Congress is compensated at the minimum wage, but may adjust the minimum wage for the good of the People. Any additional income or special favors accepted by Servants of High Office, other than their compensation as a Servant, will constitute High Treason, along with all that comes with such a conviction.

Cultures, People, and species

"Societies" will replace any reference to the obsolete "nation." Societies are to be amorphous, and rise or fall, grow and recede, of their own rhythm.

Cultures will replace cities. Societies and Cultures will be officially recognized and served as such. Attempts at forceful annexation of any land for any reason will be met with a persuasive response to be determined.

Neither Society nor Culture nor any other designation of properties will establish, maintain, or enforce any borders, may not raise a formal or informal traditional military or police force, and will conform to Human Law. This is in response to the unending indecency and hubris displayed by traditional military and police officers and organizations. Upon genuine, unified mandate by the People, this matter will be reconsidered

Reproduction

We will advance reproductive science to the point that we can keep implantation from occurring if either potential parent is not in a state of calm, joyful anticipation. Otherwise, conception will not occur. This allows much greater sexual freedom for everyone, but comes with the understanding that parents are to be held rigorously accountable. The sad inevitable few who demonstrate themselves to be unable to care for a child according to our standards will have that child placed with a different home where they will be loved and protected. There will be no trial. There will be no legal work. The fact that this child is here in this house with these people should be caring, providing the child with a solid foundation. If rehoming that child is enough, then it is enough. The parents losing their children will be treated with the utmost compassion and understanding, but the child will be permanently placed, preferably with an infertile couple. This also means that abortion should be all but done away with except for medical necessity. Changes of heart will be considered with the utmost compassion and professional rigor and will be allowed within the greater structure of Decency. My initial thoughts on this topic are that a fetus that is unable to survive by any reasonable means without its mother is a candidate to be terminated, pending a standard review of all factors. Understand that this is a closing window as our medical capability improves. Abortion, while a viable medical means, ought to be our last resort. Again, this should be vanishingly rare but will not be regulated as such as we trust our medical professionals and their judgment.

Child-Rearing

We will overhaul our entire model for child-rearing. For now, the highest priorities for child-rearing are: The assumption of love, safety, security, and inclusion; confidence, self-esteem, healthy self-reliance, and good nature; education, curiosity, skepticism,

The expectation is that a child is an equal member of a family, and is actively involved in their own and their Family's well being. A child is not a nuisance or unworthy. We will be careful to ensure all children are safe and well-cared for. The liberty to raise children ends at children suffering from early emotionally-crippling and confidence-shattering experiences that will rob them of a full, well life later. This can include the biological parents or not, and it will be a trivial matter to rehome children whose parents do not uphold the Civic standard. The charge of a parent is to ensure the child enjoys a better life than the parent experienced when they were young. This is entirely about love, affection, respect, and then expectations. Those who snort at this will be asked to exit the conversation and leave whatever children they have at the door. One radical shift we will implement will be a point in a child's life where they become an equal member of the family or group. I see this happening before the age of seven to ensure early childhood is out of the way, but before any real damage that will carry forward can be inflicted. At this age, children and familiar adults will be socially the same and enjoy the same protections under the law. Children and familiar adults will be on a first-name basis, signifying that equality. The charge of every adult around that child is to guard and foster them as though the future depends on them. Do not coddle; guide. Do not roar; make your calm voice convey the emotions behind the anger, like fear, dread, hurt. Let the child see that you are an emotionally-vulnerable person just like them that can be frightened and hurt. Empathy, then Habit Building. Unempathetic societies (mean, crass, rude, paranoid, sociopathic) crumble because that acid dissolves the well-intentioned structure.

Freedom of Speech

Speech will be free except for hate speech and toxic rhetoric. Lies are not protected speech; one can be held legally liable for what they say if it is provably false and also materially damaging or misleading. Fear- or bigotry-mongering is not protected speech. Slander and libel are not protected speech. Threats are not protected speech, and the magnitude of the resulting fix-actions are directly proportional to the scope of the issued threat. That all said, people will be accountable to the People for what they convey, and as much communication as is technology possible will be traceable from creation to the current possessor. No one will poison minds without the immediate consequence that results the moment they attempt to test the system. Wide latitude will be given for expression, excluding actions which directly violate this policy; there we can not be anything but rigorous and unflinching, because it has to be for now.

Child-exploitation media

Child porn shall be freely and anonymously available to those who need it, with one critical caveat: All approved material depicting the sexualization or abuse of children will be solely AI generated by a highly regulated, government-owned and operated central system. All existing law enforcement agencies will surrender their entire libraries of this material (having not produced any duplicates of any kind) and submit them to the agency tasked with its ingest and disposition. Citizens will surrender their physical material to any Civil Servant facility or firehouse, without further action. The result will be a system that can produce high-quality media with endless customization, in various formats, to suit whatever need may arise. Media quality will constantly be improved to ensure those interested parties continue to see this system as the most attractive option. Material may be shared among those interested, but is strictly forbidden to be perceived by any child in any way, by any means of perceiving something, until they are no longer children. Material depicting actual children in sexual context found after the grace period date will be met with serious consideration to be determined.

Digital media accountability

As alluded to, this is an approach with three primary goals; Creator accountability, Creator control over their work, and trivial, legally-valid, conclusive check for authenticity or manipulation. All Content taken with any electronic recording devices that are so capable will include a UTC date-time stamp, GPS grid, and self-checking hash/check that will break the media if used inappropriately. They will also be encrypted with the appropriate accessibility defined by the user. Creators will have the ability to register devices with their contact information and biometrics. Material recorded with an unregistered device will be unsigned, but retain the other required features. They will not be useful as anything other than photographs. They will be legally and socially equivalent to a photograph with a broken signature, in that it will be assumed to be inauthentic. A biometric system is useful to protect the device and to make air-tight alibis when needed “I can prove I was elsewhere taking photos with my registered camera.” Registered electronic recording devices will automatically lock when the camera detects it is not currently in its Creator’s possession and will be unlockable only when the Creator takes possession of it again. Memory cards which are used in recording devices will be encrypted and signed only to the Creator’s devices and those external devices the Creator explicitly authorizes in-person. That may be groups, the Civic, no one other than the Creator, or a specific Person the Creator trusts with their work.

The photographer can choose what happens if the hash is broken, from nothing to rendering the file worthless. The photographer can also restrict its use to themselves and whomever they actively share it with, or the Civic. Photographers can also choose to restrict further sharing beyond explicit shares. One could mark photos to destroy themselves across all the internet if found to a high enough degree of certainty on TinEye or Google Photos; send a kill command on that photo and various services facilitate their destruction. Original files will be marked as such and are the photographer's to do with as they will. The point here is that photographs are about to get a lot smarter, especially if something goes wrong. A photograph will become indisputable as to its authenticity, and much easier to control from spread. It is paramount that we get this right. Photos from cameras that predate this initiative will be retrofitted or updated as possible, or be considered considerably less-reliable for legal use.

Antisocial behavior and Guidance

The response to severely-antisocial behavior needs to be one of empathy, building respect, figuring out what went wrong (to the core if possible), learning a better way, reenforcing positive behavior while sensitizing to antisocial impulses, offering continued learning (university courses taught on-site), and reintegration into society. These people will not be allowed to leave campus prior to certification of readiness for reintegration into Humanity, but will enjoy world-class facilities, staff, and dining. To be clear, they will enjoy access to the same things at home, so this is not an up; it is simply humane. Not the top of world-class, but still world-class. Why, what do your prisons look like?

The word “labor” is to be used in place of “work” in the context of employed effort. There will be no onus to labor for livelihood; for those who do decide to work for a more opulent lifestyle, their livelihood is still assured and it will be protected from predatory practices and services regardless of your employment status. Those who elect to labor for a company as an on-the-books employee are guaranteed compensation no less than equal to the regional mean income. This compensation will be distinct from and added to the usual dispensation. Temp workers will receive similar compensation, though employers may appeal to the Labor Department in cases of abject employee sloth or ineptitude. All labor opportunities will be safe, inclusive, clearly defined, and compensated. Again, the minimum wage is the regional mean income. For all labor. This does mean that laboring will at least double the laborer's income for the period labored. That is by design, and it will not be molested. Cultures

Former nations and states will be dissolved, borders will be dismissed, and the people of these former nations will become "Cultures." Cultures will govern themselves, and there will be no overarching global authority other than The Triad, and they do not trifle in war unless it is an existential threat to Human Flourishing. Human rights in support of flourishing will be global, and cultures will police themselves. If a culture needs help defending itself against the aggressions of other cultures, such help will be extended by all cultures with the ability to provide meaningful help. We will not suffer bullies, especially political and social bullies. Effective force is to be minimal force.

Families

Families may be composed in any way that fosters health, safety, education, and Decency. Abortion shall be accessible to anyone who seeks one, as long as the fetus has no chance, at its current development, at survival without its host. The fact that all pregnancies will be mutually agreed upon will not be considered in the process leading up to the procedure. People may decide what they like for their own bodies and lives, provided it does not produce victims, or is flat-out prohibited for cause.

Infectious diseases

Vector animals that carry agents which produce curable or epidemic diseases will be systematically wiped out and rendered extinct. Anywhere that herd immunity is needed, it will be produced. Animals which do nothing other than wreak havoc and then die without contributing to the environment in any discernible way will be eradicated. Locusts, ticks, fleas, and especially mosquitoes.

Other infections for which we have prevention will be prevented, and prevention will be maintained throughout life.

Protestations will be met with infection by a preventable, highly uncomfortable illness. Once symptoms peak, the person will be invited to The Basics of Infections and Prevention where they will be asked to take detailed notes to be done by the Facilitator. Inadequate notes will extend the learning, and they will still be uncomfortably ill. Patients exiting this learning upon successful Learning will be promptly treated and vaccinated. They will experience for themselves the validity of modern medicine.

Media

All devices capable of some form of digital photography, scanning, or audio recording will include hardware signature tools which will show without ambiguity if it has been tampered with, and encryption to ensure content is only useful to authorized people. Content from artificial intelligence will mark itself as such, and will be signed as well. A broken signature will indicate that the content has been altered, and will be trivial to view the signature status. Content will be digitally signed and default to being usable only to the user. Media with broken signatures will still be usable, but the authenticity of the original is lost and it will be obvious that it has been altered. Original content will also include the identity of the original creator, where and when it was taken, and how it may be used. The content creator may mark content as for general use, for specific people, for denial of use to certain people, or completely private, etc. The content creator will have sole discretion as to the availability of their material, to include effortless rescinding and granting of access privileges, the commands therefrom will affect every accessible unaltered copy of the content in question. Media that is held away from internet access will become unusable after a defined, long-enough period of time until resynced to the Signature Authority with any changes to accessibility put into effect. Groups and companies which create and edit their own content will continue to be able to do as such without any noticeable change. When a piece of edited media is ready for Civication, it will be signed by the publishing entity. Similarly, users may edit media they own without issue. When working with editing other people's content, users will have the option to leave the signature broken or sign it themselves. The metadata will contain information on the source of the original, including a way to effortlessly examine the original. Parts or whole content that are taken for use in other work will reflect in the recipient work by name of original content creator and a link to the original, as well as the editor-in-question's signature. Pictures will no longer lie effectively.

Free speech

Understand that the "freedom of speech" no longer means what it did, and it simply cannot be an expectation. We found flaws in the idea that everyone may say whatever they like without any accountability. It was fine in the 18th Century, but they could not have predicted the rise in communication on such a vast scale, exacerbated by large-scale malicious misinformation campaigns which threaten the very fabric of Human unity. This is all new, and the old is no longer applicable.

Decency and indecency

Everyone is responsible for maintaining Decency, especially their own. Everyone is accountable for everything they do, especially what they convey. It has been made clear that unbridled free speech does not work. Bad actors will exploit that freedom for wealth and power. Principly, the spread of willful, malicious misinformation will not stand. Finally, it is vital that everyone be healthily skeptical of what they see, hear, and especially read. The signature is a pact between you and the rest of the world that the media you are consuming is just as it was when it was published, and has not been altered by a bad actor, government, foreign interlopers, etc. No suspicion, no fear, just "oh, this is fake." One who publishes the work of an AI will be able to publish it as their own, but it will also be tagged as being AI-generated. It is vital to the security and livelihood of our people that people may not be allowed to deceive each other for gains.

News media

"None of your business" should be the default attitude for all news media. The Civic must not be misinformed or manipulated, and certainly do not need to know about every ugly little thing that happens. They also do not need to be frightened, glad-handed, and coddled into believing fantasies such as "crisis actors," "Pizzagate," "truthers," or any other such malignant nonsense. The truth, as we are able to capture and broadcast it, and as it is not deleterious to the health, safety, good order, or thriving, will be released as soon as it is duly verified as factual to the best collective rigor and suitable for the Civic. Private audiences will receive just more than they reasonably ought to know, and will as well. Stories will be updated as information is captured. Programming that emotionally addresses the audience with faux urgency to action, in-group language, and dog whistles for bigotry and hate will be terminated from their positions, all involved with be blocked from broadcast or social media interaction for a length of time to be determined. Media that presents fiction as truth will not stand. Programming that paints some "other" as the enemy or boogie man will be met with a forfeiture of the privilege to publish, especially on social media. Hate sites and such will be responded to in the most effective available means, and that response will stand.

To this, social media will experience a renaissance, and only verified users and companies will post. Accounts not tied to a verified person or registered, decent group will be culled. No new accounts may be opened outside of these parameters. Services found to violate this mandate will be retired, either remotely or by on-ground technicians.

Any service that offers or provides large-scale interaction between human posters is defined as a social media service, and is subject to this restriction.

I do not dictate policy from my bedroom, or at all. These "Hard Laws" are in place to apply the lessons we have learned as People, and should have known all along. They are inflexible by necessity, as we have discovered through lived experience. This document is to be updated regularly as we progress and our values shift.

Reproduction

We will advance reproductive science to the point that we can keep implantation from occurring if either potential parent is not in a state of calm, joyful anticipation. Otherwise, conception will not occur. This allows much greater sexual freedom for everyone, but comes with the understanding that parents are to be held rigorously accountable. The sad inevitable few who demonstrate themselves to be unable to care for a child according to our standards will have that child placed with a different home where they will be loved and protected. There will be no trial. There will be no legal work. The fact that this child is here in this house with these people should be caring, providing the child with a solid foundation. If rehoming that child is enough, then it is enough. The parents losing their children will be treated with the utmost compassion and understanding, but the child will be permanently placed, preferably with an infertile couple. This also means that abortion should be all but done away with except for medical necessity. Changes of heart will be considered with the utmost compassion and professional rigor and will be allowed within the greater structure of Decency. My initial thoughts on this topic are that a fetus that is unable to survive by any reasonable means without its mother is a candidate to be terminated, pending a standard review of all factors. Understand that this is a closing window as our medical capability improves. Abortion, while a viable medical means, ought to be our last resort. Again, this should be vanishingly rare but will not be regulated as such as we trust our medical professionals and their judgment.

Child-Rearing

We will overhaul our entire model for child-rearing. For now, the highest priorities for child-rearing are: The assumption of love, safety, security, and inclusion; confidence, self-esteem, healthy self-reliance, and good nature; education, curiosity, skepticism,

The expectation is that a child is an equal member of a family, and is actively involved in their own and their Family's well being. A child is not a nuisance or unworthy. We will be careful to ensure all children are safe and well-cared for. This can include the biological parents or not, and it will be a trivial matter to rehome children whose parents do not uphold the Civic standard. The charge of a parent is to ensure the child enjoys a better life than the parent experienced when they were young. This is entirely about love, affection, respect, and then expectations. Those who snort at this will be asked to exit the conversation and leave whatever children they have at the door. One radical shift we will implement will be a point in a child's life where they become an equal member of the family or group. I see this happening before the age of seven to ensure early childhood is out of the way, but before any real damage that will carry forward can be inflicted. At this age, children and familiar adults will be socially the same and enjoy the same protections under the law. Children and familiar adults will be on a first-name basis, signifying that equality. The charge of every adult around that child is to guard and foster them as though the future depends on them. Do not coddle; guide. Do not roar; make your calm voice convey the emotions behind the anger, like fear, dread, hurt. Let the child see that you are an emotionally-vulnerable person just like them that can be frightened and hurt. Empathy, then Habit Building. Unempathetic societies (mean, crass, rude, paranoid, sociopathic) crumble because that acid dissolves the well-intentioned structure.

Freedom of Speech

Speech will be free except for hate speech and toxic rhetoric. Lies are not protected speech; one can be held legally liable for what they say if it is provably false and also materially damaging or misleading. Fear- or bigotry-mongering is not protected speech. Slander and libel are not protected speech. Threats are not protected speech, and the magnitude of the resulting fix-actions are directly proportional to the scope of the issued threat.

Child-exploitation media

Child porn shall be freely and anonymously available to those who need it, with one critical caveat: All approved material depicting the sexualization or abuse of children will be solely AI generated by a highly regulated, government-owned and operated central system. All existing law enforcement agencies will surrender their entire libraries of this material (having not produced any duplicates of any kind) and submit them to the agency tasked with its ingest and disposition. Citizens will surrender their physical material to any police precinct or firehouse, without further action. The result will be a system that can produce high-quality media with endless customization, in various formats, to suit whatever need may arise. Media quality will constantly be improved to ensure those interested parties continue to see this system as the most attractive option. Material may be shared among those interested, but is strictly forbidden to be experienced by any child in any way, by any means of experiencing something, until they are no longer children. Any genuine recorded material found after the grace period date will be met with serious consideration to be determined.

Digital media accountability

This is an approach with three primary goals; Creator accountability, Creator control over their work, And trivial, conclusive check for authenticity or manipulation. All Content taken with any electronic recording devices that are so capable will include a UTC date-time stamp, GPS grid, and self-checking hash/check that will break the media if used inappropriately. They will also be encrypted with the appropriate accessibility defined by the user. Creators will have the ability to register devices with their contact information and biometrics. Material recorded with an unregistered device will be unsigned, but retain the other required features. They will not be useful as anything other than photographs. They will be legally and socially equivalent to a photograph with a broken signature, in that it will be assumed to be inauthentic. A biometric system is useful to protect the device and to make air-tight alibis when needed "I can prove I was elsewhere taking photos with my registered camera." Registered electronic recording devices will automatically lock when the camera detects it is not currently in its Creator's possession and will be unlockable only when the Creator takes possession of it again. Memory cards which are used in recording devices will be encrypted and signed only to the Creator's devices and those external devices the Creator explicitly authorizes in-person. That may be groups, the Civic, no one other than the Creator, or a specific Person the Creator trusts with their work.

The Creator can choose what happens if the hash is broken, from nothing to rendering the file worthless.

The photographer can also restrict its use to themselves and whomever they actively share it with, or the Civic. Photographers can also choose to restrict further sharing beyond explicit shares. One could mark photos to destroy themselves across all the internet if found to a high enough degree of certainty on TinEye or Google Photos; send a kill command on that photo and various services facilitate their destruction. Original files will be marked as such and are the photographer's to do with as they will. The point here is that photographs are about to get a lot smarter, especially if something goes wrong. A photograph will become indisputable as to its authenticity, and much easier to control from spread. It is paramount that we get this right. Photos from cameras that predate this initiative will be retrofitted or updated as possible, or be considered considerably less-reliable for legal use.

Antisocial behavior and Guidance

The response to severely-antisocial behavior needs to be one of empathy, building respect, figuring out what went wrong (to the core if possible), learning a better way, reenforcing positive behavior while sensitizing to antisocial impulses, offering continued learning (university courses taught on-site), and reintegration into society. These people will not be allowed to leave campus prior to certification of readiness for reintegration into Humanity, but will enjoy world-class facilities, staff, and dining. To be clear, they will enjoy access to the same things at home, so this is not an up; it is simply humane. Not the top of world-class, but still world-class. Why, what do your prisons look like?

Labor

The word “Labor” is to be used in place of “work” in the context of employed effort; "Labor" will maintain the correct attitude towards the idea of an earned living. It should be an empowering title for Laborers, and an uncomfortable moniker for those for whom "Labor" might have legacy as an uncomfortable word. There will be no onus to labor for livelihood; for those who do decide to work for a more opulent lifestyle, their livelihood is still assured and it will be protected from predatory practices and services regardless of your employment status. Those who elect to labor for a company as an on-the-books employee are guaranteed compensation no less than equal to the regional mean income. This compensation will be distinct from and added to the usual dispensation. Temp workers will receive similar compensation, though employers may appeal to the Labor Department in cases of abject employee sloth or ineptitude. All labor opportunities will be safe, inclusive, clearly defined, and compensated. Again, the minimum wage is the regional mean income. For all labor. This does mean that laboring will at least double the laborer's income for the period labored. That is by design, and it will not be molested. Cultures

States, cultures, and unrest

Former nations and states will be dissolved, borders will be dismissed, and the people of these former nations will become "Cultures." Cultures will govern themselves, and there will be no overarching global authority other than The Triad, and they do not trifle in war unless it is an existential threat to Human Flourishing. Human rights in support of flourishing will be global, and cultures will police themselves. If a culture needs help defending itself against the aggressions of other cultures, such help will be extended by all cultures with the ability to provide meaningful help. We will not suffer bullies, especially political and social bullies. Effective force is to be minimal force.

Families

Families may be composed in any way that fosters health, safety, education, and Decency. Abortion shall be accessible to anyone who seeks one, as long as the fetus has no chance, at its current development, at survival without its host. The fact that all pregnancies will be mutually agreed upon will not be considered in the process leading up to the procedure. People may decide what they like for their own bodies and lives, provided it does not produce victims, or is flat-out prohibited for cause.

Infectious diseases

Vector animals that carry agents which produce curable or epidemic diseases will be systematically wiped out and rendered extinct. Anywhere that herd immunity is needed, it will be produced. Animals which do nothing other than wreak havoc and then die without contributing to the environment in any discernible way will be eradicated. Locusts, ticks, fleas, and especially mosquitoes.

Other infections for which we have prevention will be prevented, and prevention will be maintained throughout life.

Protestations will be met with infection by a preventable, highly uncomfortable illness. Once symptoms peak, the person will be invited to The Basics of Infections and Prevention where they will be asked to take detailed notes to be d by the Facilitator. Inadequate notes will extend the learning, and they will still be uncomfortably ill. Patients exiting this learning upon successful Learning will be promptly treated and vaccinated. They will experience for themselves the validity of modern medicine.

Media

All devices capable of some form of digital photography, scanning, or audio recording will include hardware signature tool which will show without ambiguity if it has been tampered with, and encryption to ensure content is only useful to authorized people. Content from artificial intelligence will mark itself as such, and will be signed as well. A broken signature will indicate that the content has been altered, and will be trivial to view the signature status. Content will be digitally signed and default to being usable only to the user. Media with broken signatures will still be usable, but the authenticity of the original is lost and it will be obvious that it has been altered. Original content will also include the identity of the original creator, where and when it was taken, and how it may be used. The content creator may mark content as for general use, for specific people, for denial of use to certain people, or completely private, etc. The content creator will have sole discretion as to the availability of their material, to include effortless rescinding and granting of access privileges, the commands therefrom will affect every accessible unaltered copy of the content in question. Media that is held away from internet access will become unusable after a defined, long-enough period of time until resynced to the Signature Authority with any changes to accessibility put into effect. Groups and companies which create and edit their own content will continue to be able to do as such without any noticeable change. When a piece of edited media is ready for Civication, it will be signed by the publishing entity. Similarly, users may edit media they own without issue. When working with editing other people's content, users will have the option to leave the signature broken or sign it themselves. The metadata will contain information on the source of the original, including a way to effortlessly examine the original. Parts or whole content that are taken for use in other work will reflect in the recipient work by name of original content creator and a link to the original, as well as the editor-in-question's signature. Pictures will no longer lie effectively.

Free speech

Understand that the "freedom of speech" no longer means what it did, and it simply cannot be an expectation. We found flaws in the idea that everyone may say whatever they like without any accountability. It was fine in the 18th Century, but they could not have predicted the rise in communication on such a vast scale, exacerbated by large-scale malicious misinformation campaigns which threaten the very fabric of Human unity. This is all new, and the old is no longer applicable.

Decency and indecency

Everyone is responsible for maintaining Decency, especially their own. Everyone is accountable for everything they do, especially what they convey. It has been made clear that unbridled free speech does not work. Bad actors will exploit that freedom for wealth and power. Principly, the spread of willful, malicious misinformation will not stand. Finally, it is vital that everyone be healthily skeptical of what they see, hear, and especially read. The signature is a pact between you and the rest of the world that the media you are consuming is just as it was when it was published, and has not been altered by a bad actor, government, foreign interlopers, etc. No suspicion, no fear, just "oh, this is fake." One who publishes the work of an AI will be able to publish it as their own, but it will also be tagged as being AI-generated. It is vital to the security and livelihood of our people that people may not be allowed to deceive each other for gains.

News media

"None of your business" should be the default attitude for all news media and potential news items. Nearly no one needs to know there was a big car crash two Cultures over, or that a renown Bad Actor was caught. The Civic must not be misinformed or manipulated, and certainly do not need to know about every ugly little thing that happens. They also do not need to be frightened, glad-handed, and coddled into believing fantasies such as "crisis actors," "Pizzagate," "truthers," or any other such malignant nonsense. The truth, as we are able to capture and broadcast it, and as it is not deleterious to the health, safety, good order, or thriving, will be released as soon as it is duly verified as factual to the best collective rigor and suitable for the Civic. Private audiences will receive just more than they reasonably ought to know, and will as well. Stories will be updated as information is captured. Programming that emotionally addresses the audience with faux urgency to action, in-group language, and dog whistles for bigotry and hate will be terminated from their positions, all involved with be blocked from broadcast or social media interaction for a length of time to be determined. Media that presents fiction as truth will not stand. Programming that paints some "other" as the enemy or boogie man will be met with a forfeiture of the privilege to publish, especially on social media. Hate sites and such will be responded to in the most effective available means, and that response will stand.

To this, social media will experience a renaissance, and only verified users and companies will post. Accounts not tied to a verified person or registered, decent group will be culled. No new accounts may be opened outside of these parameters. Services found to violate this mandate will be retired, either remotely or by on-ground technicians.

Any service that offers or provides large-scale interaction between human posters is defined as a social media service, and is subject to this restriction.

The Mark of the Beast 😈🤣😉👆

Fuck the Holy Spirit! I blaspheme its name!! Ok, I am assured an eternity in Hell for my unforgivable sin so let's chive on. I do this every so often just to make sure my file is up to date. A credulous few hold that a required identification device constitutes their projection of the mythical Mark of the Beast as briefly described. If I get to Heaven, I will be massively confused since somehow the infallible dictum of the Almighty was intentionally ridiculed and flagrantly violated, and yet Heaven somehow exists for my unending shock. The ancient Israelites got it right?!

Anyway…

The Mark of Uzzah

Everyone will be endowed with some permanently-installed device which will prove their identity and nothing else. It has two functions, and only two functions, stay in the body, and prove identity. It will be installed at birth, and will be designed to be virtually indestructible, unhackable, and to be impossible to remove. It will be readable only at contact-distance. I personally envision a tiny device installed into and fully-encased in bone in a suitable place in the skeleton with a custom-tool screw and flanges which will prohibit the device from being unscrewed for removal. Permanent medical glue and a bone graft to fill the bone channel will finalize the installation. No component nor the whole should be susceptible to damage or detection by body scanning of any kind. Ionizing radiation will need to be taken into account, so that in the event that ionizing radiation presents itself to the People, those remains that we can recover can be effortlessly identified. Guidance Servants will be able to scan People's devices only at the failure by any other means to identify the Person.

It is only to be used in situations where an unavoidable requirement exists, and will not be enabled for payment, vehicle and home keys, etc. Again, this is only to be used for conclusive identification in unavoidable situations such as the discovery of a recently-discovered set of remains. In cases where a change of identity is required, the device will allow for this by authorized Servants. A change of identity is a solemn affair, and will be executed anonymously, with empathy and due diligence.

For those credulous malcontents suddenly piqued in their pious terror about the end times, I say that this very well could be “The Mark of the Beast,” which makes me the Antichrist.

Boo!

Sure, fine, whatever. Septuagenarians quaking and bleating in their ingrained fear and entitlement are not terribly high on the order of what matters, and should be given only as much audience as they deserve, wholesale bloviating about what they fear and hate.

Retirement and its changes

No elected office, business, real estate, or bad driving
No elected office, business, real estate, or bad driving
No elected office, business, real estate, or bad driving
No elected office, business, real estate, or bad driving

I have no pity for entitled, out of touch, age-addled people demanding that they be allowed to be a road hazard or an existential liability to a People. 65 years will be the age of retirement. At that age, at least two significant changes will occur, and they will both be relinquishments.

The first is that the retired person will be fully excused (barred) from voting in elections for Civic office for their remaining life. They will also be barred from candidacy, election, or assumption of elected office. Those incumbents that have surpassed this age will serve out their current term, and will be thanked for their steadfast service.

The second is that retired Persons may not own or hold property or own or operate any business. The retiring Person may shift ownership to others (including relatives and business partners), and those others will carry on without further involvement from the Retired Person. Violations will result in the transfer of ownership/operation to one of the many groups eager to take a generous sum granted by the People (care of the recently wealthy), begin propping up their new business, or use land for good.

The third is that all authorized vehicle drivers over 65 years of age who drive any kind of vehicle that can travel at freeway speeds will take an annual driver's test. The first of these tests that they fail will be the last time they legally drive a vehicle. The first missed test will result in revocation of privileges, however make-up tests may be available on an individual basis at the sole discretion of the local Testing Facility. Drivers will be assigned to the most convenient Driver Testing Facility for them (at their choice), and may not be tested in any other Testing Facility, pending them relocating to a different area. This is a sad way to solve these problems, since it is clear that aged people lack the self-awareness and civic-mindedness required to be responsible and identify when it's time to hang it up; let go for those whose turn it is. We will not have a body of government or function of society held selfishly and irresponsibly by entitled, addled septuagenarians and their peer-voters. Last time, well, you know.

It is absolutely vital that you do not use any of this to justify anything or victimize anyone. This is not the Law.

Borders

There are to be no enforced borders, as the idea of nations and states will be abolished. Isolationism, protectionism, barrier-building, and a clear Civic movement thereto will be quelled by the rest of Us as soon as it is detected.

In their long-ignored place will be a humanity of many cultures and one race. No one will be legally shut out from a full, content human experience, and those who compromise this high ideal will be treated with kindness and humanity, as they are Guided to rediscover what it is to be Human.

Ambition, labor, and wealth

Everyone will be free to pursue their ambition to its fullest. They may labor, achieve, earn money, they may have employees, they may do private jet things, but they will not affect policy or Civic order. Their money will not equal power other than regulated purchase power. Their personal wealth will also not exceed $1 billion lest they lose it all in an instant. Parasitic, money-hoarding financial businesses and their officers will be Guided down a path of social reintegration after their funds are permanently returned to the treasury. Bank accounts, beyond one per person care of the Treasury, and an individual custom model for businesses, will be strictly banned, though exceptions for reasonable cases can be made. The total held will still equal less than $1 billion less they lose it all in an instant.

Money must not be able to be hidden.

An oversight organization's dual-pronged role is to ensure the social order, and the livelihoods, of their constituents, and to distribute Civic funds equitably.

Labor, cont.

Employees may be hired and utilized as established, however, most labor will consist of temp work as most people will be disinclined to seek employment as they already enjoy full, content lives without the need for employment. There will be no minimum wage as each offer for work will include a legal, mutual understanding between the employer and the employee. One day of collating documents is worth $150 to Fictional LLC, and includes the following expectations, etc.

End of life decisions

Individuals,families, and communities will make end of life decisions as is Decent and Culturally appropriate.

Individuals may also seek professional assistance in facilitating end of life. This service will be restricted in no way other than to maintain the

Money

Money will still be in effect, but will be revamped for greater accountability and security. This will likely be a crypto backend and some sort of physical device for the user; no physical form of general currency will be minted by any means. Money will be untraceable and global, though options can be made available for case-situations. It will only tell on itself if there's too much in one place, and then will automatically redirect itself, in its entirety, back to the Treasury; this transaction will be automatic and agnostic of whom or what it came from, and will be untraceable. Leeway will be made for newly wealthy People as they sort out how to resolve excess wealth. The person with the holdings will see it was recalled by the Treasury, but the losing party will not be known by the Treasury. This transaction will be completely irreversible and permanent; attempts to reverse the charge will be impossible if nothing else than the Treasury cannot deposit an amount that will equal over $1B. It is fully the responsibility of the wealthy person to ensure that they do not violate that limit; again, responses to excessive wealth will be instant and permanent. We have no pity for excessively wealthy people and their wealth. Currently excessively-wealthy people will be given a grace period to distribute enough wealth to make the limit; attempts to retain excess means surreptitiously will be met with immediate forfeiture of all personal funds, and permanent loss of access or control of any other money other than their own personal account. The newly non-wealthy person may decide to start again or may retire to a comfortable content life as a member of humanity. They will be given the opportunity to relocate anywhere they like by the Civic good. They simply will not regain the recalled wealth. The punishment will be losing the wealth, and that ought to be a private affair, and it is violently no one else's business. Their crime is detected. They are punished. They return to society with less money. Budgeting and book-keeping classes will be freely available as will all education. The end.

Weapons

Personally (individually)-operated weapons of whatever stripe besides rocket-propelled will be completely legal to all who would have them, but this time that is subject to change. Sales of ammunition will be strictly monitored by the round, and individual rounds will be traceable by indelible marks that will lead effortlessly to the purchaser. Stolen guns will be treated like any other theft. Stolen ammunition will warrant a more energetic response, and will leave a wide wake. Home-loaded ammunition will be authorized by license to those with a bona-fide need (out of manufacture specification, etc, or by demonstrated, informed interest and understanding that they will be on a short list for untraceable rounds (marked balls will be available for these uses, too). We speculate that a population of content, well people are going to be less inclined to use weapons on each other. I will truly hate to be proven wrong on this.

Decency

Decency will be enforced with the promise to guide waivering People back to Decency. It has to be this way, at least until we can get a few generations of people that have never known a different life. Responses to misbehavior and malcontents will be as forceful as they need to be to begin the Guidance, and then as compassionate as possible to do the Work of healing and returning to society,

The Basic Idea

The basic idea of Democratic Secular Humanism is to place Human Flourishing as the very top priority of the entire species, and to build social, infrastructural, and technical structures which are sustainable as we mature. This will be accomplished while also enjoying a healthy work/life ratio; no labor is compulsory or even required for contentment and thriving, and all labor is compensated fairly as defined by those who work for a satisfactory wage as they would have good insight on what is fair. Leaders will still be chosen by fair election to administer local affairs; there will be no such thing as “Federal”. Each culture will have an oversight organization. Oversight Organizations will serve some of the roles that federal governments would.

Voting

Each vote will count for exactly the same political weight as any other vote. Voting is mandatory for all eligible citizens. Completion of Civics or Advanced Civics (classroom and in-home portions) requirements. Passing Civics is required for graduation, and refusal will mark you as a possible malcontent. Declination of driving certification will be allowable, and the declinant may resume the work of licensure at any time, given they are otherwise qualified to drive. Voting will be held over a 4-day holiday in which only essential services will be asked to work (they will still vote, and enjoy a bonus for their duty to the People). For the time being, the mechanics of the Polling Places will change very little. You can see your ballot go in the slot, but can’t watch a set of packets arrive at DC, so for the time being we will use paper ballots until we earn the Civic's trust, but we will make it actually accurate and rapidly final. We hope to transition to mobile device voting, but that can be addressed once other things are in place. News media will make nothing of the election until a winner is named. A real-time tally will be available on the app, as well as other relevant and interesting information. The news media will remain nonchalant.

Healthcare

Public healthcare will be available to all. Only vanity medical care will be allowed outside of the public medical system, and that is open to discussion between the client and the provider. No procedure that is done to improve the deficient function of an organ, appendage, etc. Any procedure intended to raise any bodily function to its typical level function will be provided speedily, and with world-class care and facilities. It will not be perfect immediately, and patients will regularly be referred to other facilities. These will all be transparent to the patient, who will just be told on the Society App which hospital to go to to be seen. Our society will place a huge priority on advancing medicine and its associated Science. As these advancements more completely enable us to understand how to treat our bodies, new treatments will become available to all for whom it is indicated.

The Core of Law

Starting out, no action will be illegal unless it, by its very definition and design, leaves material victims, or is so negligent as to make costly mishaps significantly more likely than not, without a material warrant of high virtue.

The Triad

The Triad will be a group of three members, and will stand in place of the universally-failed offices of the President, Prime Minister, Sultan, King, etc, as the final say on Global matters. The Triad will settle matters of Society on the Global scale; there will be one Triad Team for the People of Planet Utopia. Triad candidates will be sought out globally, identified by their merit, experience, skill set, loyalty to the Human Cause, and compatibility with other candidates, and asked for their service upon nomination. Candidates will be given a standard battery of tests in their native language, and will answer questions regarding Decency, Ethics, the value of Human Life, and Human Flourishing. Triad Teams will be assembled as distinct groups of compatible People with complimentary but distinct skill sets. Should a Triad member be permanently incapacitated, the whole team will be thanked for their service and the standby team will be assembled and endowed with this solemn responsibility. The next Triad Team will be assembled as soon as possible after a Triad is thanked for their service, and will stand ready to occupy the office at any time. The absence of a Triad will be a constitutional emergency, so it must not happen. The identity, composition, and history of The Triad will be private; Triad members will be anonymous and completely out of the Civic eye. They will not be allowed to seek out outside employment, as that would very likely compromise the strict anonymity required for these positions. More on the Triad later.

As stated, The Triad will consist of a team of three anonymous officers. Each of these officers will carry a pistol in a holster at their side. Each pistol will be loaded with a single round in the chamber. Sadly, the function of these pistols is to allow for a silent vote by the other two, and then the immediate execution of the third should any member display undeniable evidence of High Treason. All three members will live their lives completely together, and will maintain positive possession of their loaded pistols at all times. The image of three olive-drab pistols arranged front sight to rear sight in a triangle with some rendering of "Pale Blue Dot at its center. This shall stand as the emblem of The Triad. It will stand for assurance The Triad gives against corruption in High Office, especially their own. Situations requiring a Removal will be made by a vote between the members, the procedure and scope of which will be determined.

*I am perfectly aware of the criminal organization of the same name. I am not concerned about any confusion or sour grapes.

Treason and the Law

For these purposes, the word "Treason" will be used to label any willful action taken by any Person that has been previously identified as being deleterious to the civic good order and peaceful living that most of us have worked so hard to realize, and subsequently recognized and codified as being treasonous; if someone invents a new way to be antisocial, then it will be studied for its candidacy and defined as Treason upon necessity.

High Office and High Treason

"High Treason" is designated as betrayal of the People's confidence by elected Servants of High Office

(cultural representatives and above). This is the only situation in which execution is permissible, and even this is deeply regrettable. Executions will be immediate, unannounced, swift, and as quiet as possible while still fulfilling the sad duty at hand.

Officers of High Office will be referred to as Servants, and the cache thereto will be the expectation for their behavior in all ways. Titles are to be kept humble and tidy; the days of lofty titles and lavish courtesies stroking ever-needy egos are over. Servants of High Office will be subject to the laws concerning High Treason. Should a Servant of the People and these solemn chambers be duly found to have committed High Treason according to the law, to the exclusion of any other reasonable explanation, that Traitor (former Servant) will be immediately apprehended with little commotion. The Traitor will then be escorted or bodily removed from their current location, will make way swiftly to the main entrance of the building under their own power or not, exit the edifice of Decency they betrayed, turn to face that which and whom they betrayed, kneel on both knees at the top of the steps, head down, symbolizing contrition to the high office and the People they betrayed. Without fanfare, they will then be shot in the back of the head. A standard sidearm will be used by the youngest member of the extraction team, because the condemned betrayed our youngest the most by threatening their lengthy, prosperous future. This symbolizes our combined resolve, young and old, wealthy and content, to honor the promises we have made to our young people to protect their future. The round is to be fired at a steep angle so as to ensure it leaves an indelible feature in the pavement. The resulting empty shell casing will be secured for available presentation to the Traitor's family at the memorial gathering. Any other remaining material will be power washed away forthwith. The Traitor will retain no honors or titles, and their legacy will fade to time. In each location, as situation dictates and reality allows, these features should be clustered but distinct so as to give a compact, striking living history of our resolve to protect Human Flourishing, and the People's confidence that we will act when required. The remains will be cremated, and the family may take possession of the ashes, the respectfully-mounted empty bullet casing, and a folded flag of their culture, and be solemnly addressed by a sorrowful people. They may request or decline any, all, or none of these items. Items not received by the family will be disposed of respectfully, privately, and anonymously. The family is to be supported and protected by the People and the Servants in honor of their loss. The family or anyone else not directly involved in the High Treason are to be, in no way, held culpable for the actions of their dearly departed, or mistreated for the same or any other reason. Servants are energetically banned from speaking of their treasonous former colleague, their actions, or their end. By upholding this law, we accept the enormous responsibility to their families. They may be relocated at no cost upon request, and will be treated with the same compassion and dignity regardless of where they decide to settle for the remainder of their lives. We took their loved one because we had to; we will not ruin their lives, too. I sincerely hope this simply doesn't come up.

The bullet holes in the pavement will remain as monuments to our resolve as a people to do good.

Any compensation, monetary or otherwise, lump sum or recurring payment, including salary, that the Traitor earned prior to their treachery will be granted, as such, to the Family actively, swiftly, and without malice.

High Office and the minimum wage

The Congress shall set the minimum labor wage. Here's the rub: Congress is compensated at the minimum wage, but may adjust the minimum wage for the good of the People. Any additional income or special favors accepted by Servants of High Office, other than their compensation as a Servant, will constitute High Treason, along with all that comes with such a conviction.

Cultures, People, and species

"Societies" will replace any reference to the obsolete "nation." Societies are to be amorphous, and rise or fall, grow and recede, of their own rhythm. Cultures will replace cities. Societies and Cultures will be officially recognized and served as such. Attempts at forceful annexation of any land for any reason will be met with a persuasive response to be determined.

Neither Society nor Culture nor any other designation of properties will establish, maintain, or enforce any borders, may not raise a formal or informal traditional military or police force, and will conform to Human Law. This is in response to the unending indecency and hubris displayed by traditional military and police officers and organizations. Upon genuine, unified mandate by the People, this matter will be reconsidered

Businesses and Civics who capitalize exclusively on Civics' misfortune or desperation (payday loans, installment payment outfits, extortionate insurance corporations, etc.), will be punished with extreme prejudice, and then obliterated; the chief proprietors of those business will find themself in debt for the amount that they elicited during their predatory free-for-all. That debt may be worked off through honest labor (credited in full to the debt), or can be held until the Wayward (f. debt holder) passes on, in which case the debt will be forgiven along with the deceased. The Wayward will be restricted to the ample Civic life, but will be barred from participating in the Market (any transaction in which Legal is exchanged for goods and services, to, from, or directed by the Wayward) until the debt is repaid to the People. This demonstrates how the People care for their friends and neighbors, the Wayward Civics that target them for exploitation. We work to heal the Wayward and the People with empathy and forgiveness.

Appraisers

On Day 0, all items whose value is artificially inflated will lose all value until appraised. Holders of these items who have neglected to have the value of their items transferred into their Personal Accounts will lose the inflated value, and will only be worth what an Appraisal Public values it at considering all relevant factors; previous inflated values will not be considered. Appraisal Publics will be available in locations similar to Post Offices.

Treasury

All monetary transactions involving Value will pass through the Treasury and be logged on the Blockchain or whatever public register will record transactions. Value will exist in one of three types of Treasury accounts, and no other type of value-holding device will be recognized once this is in place; your painting is not worth $2.5M, and it will not be, no matter how many times you get it appraised. Civics may sell and buy from each other, and those transactions will be logged.

Currency and other things that hold value are no longer valid, and a value assigned to art, cars, land, whatever, may be appraised and sold at fair market value by the owner of the device when the change occurs.

Accounts will be one of three types; Personal, Business, and Organizational.

Personal accounts will generally be one-per-person, and it will retain their entire personally-held value.

Business accounts will be those which hold the wealth held by businesses, and is distinct from Personal accounts, in that they are regulated into a single correct way to manage, and all other management attempts resulting in the catastrophic, instantaneous retraction of the Business funds back to the Treasury; no hard feelings, but you knew the rules and you chose against all advice to test them.

Organizational accounts will retain tithes, offerings, club dues, petty cash, etc, for non-profit clubs, churches, and similar clubs. These accounts convey automatically to Business accounts if/when the account is detected and verified as being used for business.

High Finance

This cannot surprise anyone, but I am against financial practices and instruments that do little other than expand private wealth for the already-wealthy at the expense of the Economy and the People. Stocks, Certificates, Bonds, Art, Property, Cars, Buildings, and other conveyable value representations will lose all value on Day 0, and their associated value will be credited to the holders' Treasury account by a Treasury Officer no later than Day 0, up to an individual balance of up to $1B, or the value will be irrevocably returned to the Treasury. In the event of Wall Street pushback or clever maneuvering, I will send missiles to buildings whose occupants have been warned of the pending kinetic demolition.

I may revisit the Stock Market, with one tweak; all transactions are hand-signed in pen, at the time of exchange, by both the buying party and the selling party, and will be filed at the end of the day. I am not sorry for anything that breaks.

Stubborn greed mongers will not be missed; they have caused, by far, the most suffering and damage of any entity, most notably "terror" groups. Wall Street's empty buildings, and their association with tyranny, oppression, domestic terrorism, and professional indecency, will be pounded with all things explosive and kinetic until those edifices of oppression and slavery are reduced to a crater on their former building site, and then the land will be returned to Civil Servants to create things that help Humanity flourish, as opposed to brazenly accumulating value, holding it outside of the circulating economy, and willfully creating ever-greater poverty and desperation through deprivation and inflation. Nope. The practice of professionally accumulating wealth for the already treasonously wealthy will end, because it will be pointless as the limit to personal wealth is $1 Billion, with instant, permanent, unlogged revocation of all funds, in full, to the Treasury, when that number turns over to $1,000,000,000.01. We won't even notice when a Revocation occurs, because the funds will silently notice their own excess, and return to the Treasury in full, in which a $1B fluctuation is simply unnoticeable. We define for ourselves what power consists of. The standing notion is that money is power. We can lose your entire fortune for you instantly, without even a keystroke, and without even a blip of recognition on our end; Power is power.

The Focus of Regulation

Most of these regulations will only apply to large companies and corporations. Businesses employing fewer than 100 regular employees and 5 or fewer locations and a historical net revenue below $250,000 per year will be exempt from most business and financial regulations. Companies that suddenly split into several smaller companies will be assessed for their regulatory and financial burden.

Retirement and its changes

I have no pity for entitled, out of touch, age-addled people demanding that they be allowed to be a road hazard or an existential liability to a People. 65 years will be the age of retirement. At that age, at least three significant changes will occur, and they will both be relinquishments.

The first is that the birthday person will be fully excused (barred) from voting or running in elections for Civic office for their remaining life. Those who are incumbent and will turn 65 before the end of their term, are granted reprieve to the natural end of their term. Those who turn 65 during the term that is being run for will be barred from running in that election.

The second is that all authorized vehicle drivers over 65 years of age who drive any kind of vehicle that can travel at freeway speeds will take an annual driver's test. The first of these tests that they fail will be the last time they legally drive a vehicle. The first missed test will result in revocation of privileges, however make-up tests may be available on an individual basis at the sole discretion of the local Testing Facility. Drivers will be assigned to the most convenient Driver Testing Facility for them (at their choice), and may not be tested in any other Testing Facility, pending them relocating to a different area. This is a sad way to solve these problems, since it is clear that aged people lack the self-awareness and civic-mindedness required to be responsible and identify when it's time to hang it up; let go for those whose turn it is. We will not have a body of government or function of society held selfishly and irresponsibly by entitled, addled septuagenarians and their peer-voters. Last time, well, you know.

The third is that Real property, businesses, etc will not be owned, in part or in whole, by anyone over the age of 65. Those approaching this age will be advised as to how to equitably hand over their property to their benefactors. Businesses may be handed over in stages so as not to shock them.

Ambition, labor, and wealth

Everyone will be free to pursue their ambition to its fullest. They may labor, achieve, earn money, they may have employees, they may do private jet things, but they will not affect policy or Civic order. Their money will not equal power other than regulated purchase power. Their personal wealth will also not exceed $1 billion lest they lose it all in an instant. Parasitic, money-hoarding financial businesses and their officers will be Guided down a path of social reintegration after their funds are permanently returned to the treasury. Bank accounts, beyond one per person care of the Treasury, and an individual custom model for businesses, will be strictly banned, though exceptions for reasonable cases can be made. The total held will still equal less than $1 billion less they lose it all in an instant.

Money must not be able to be hidden.

An oversight organization's dual-pronged role is to ensure the social order, and the livelihoods, of their constituents, and to distribute Civic funds equitably.

Political Lobbying

In peaceful terms, I will state that those individuals and organizations that attempt to influence High Civil Servants, their constituents, the Media, or any other potentially effective means of shifting public opinion or policy, to the direct benefit of anything other than Human Flourishing, will be espoused of any flight of fancy regarding their legal immunity, social standing, resourcefulness, or any reason to continue this activity.

Political Action Committees

No. Just no. I have no burning passion for this topic; I don't need passion to destroy sickening trash. Destroy on sight. Unannounced ordinance delivery. This is directly counter to Human Flourishing and will be not only faux pas, but violently reviled by the People and the Servants. No one will attempt to influence People to enrich themselves or influence policy by pulling on the deluded loyalties and unfashionable personal opinions of our most vulnerable credulous Civics.

Economy

Business

Economy

So, what sneering wealthy People like is, a. having the most money of anyone; and b. enjoying the suffering their greed causes the most in-need among us. Under their assumed power, we have arrived here. Even if this is not a crossroads in Human history, what we have slowly boiled into, up to this moment, has been fueled by a long stream of small compromises to keep the wealthy sated and we can believe that treating them with deference, that they will survey the scape and decide to suddenly become obsessively interested in the idea of Human Flourishing, and return all that value to the People from which it was leveraged.

Wealth hates unity because People are stronger and more decisive together. The laughably direct example of this is Unionized Labor and how it has been ubiquitously threatened, corrupted, abused, and proven with perfect efficiency to be an insulting, quivering, worthless idea which takes more from the Laborers than it returns. Yeah, no. Unions are pivotal, and they need to be strong, capable, resolved, and tolerant to a measure of pain and need. Striking is scary as fuck. So is oligarchy, and a strike is a lot harder to rectify than the power-creep of oligarchy. I assure you, as long as People perform Labor, creating Value, and return receiving a portion of Value in return for a business that they do not own or operate, there will be the brutal need for Unions that speak truth to power and that cannot be moved in their loyalty to the Laborers and their Flourishing.

Unions may conduct Strikes in any non-victim-producing way they like, including pickets, demonstrations, rallies, community events, etc. Strikes will be defended by the People of the community and by Civil Servants as required. Strikes will also be protected by law, in that businesses that collude with Scabs (new word needed) will be seized from the Owner, and management teams waiting for an opportunity. Strikes will be an extremely effective means of maintaining a Decent power dynamic between Owners and Laborers.

During a Strike, The Owner will be asked to examine themselves and their Values, and find at least an honest answer as to why this is happening; why their Laborers felt this was what had to happen, and what it says about the Owner and their practices.

Owners who opt to attempt to skirt these Restrictions will rejoin their Civic Peers at a renewed peer level. The economy is so simple, it no longer supports hiding accumulations of Wealth; Value will be tracked on a public blockchain. Personal wealth under $5,000,000 will not be reported, and transactions will not be publicly visible, along with all tracing history. Wealth Revocations, which will not be logged or retrievable by any means; those who lost their Wealth in this way, and attempt to intimidate the Treasury, no one will even be able to confirm it occurred, much less reverse the charge.

The economy will scale as needed for population growth and the entry of neighbor Nations into Utopia. The economy and the population will eventually reach equilibrium, and a new phase of Human history.

We will build consensus that the past is the worst.

Investment

I will reiterate that the limit for personal wealth is one billion dollars or its equivalent under the changes to money that will coincide with this change; breaches will be met with permanent forfeiture of all current funds.

Investment might seem pointless given that. Perfect. Parties may petition for help from the Treasury, from private investors, or any other receptive party. The stock market, as a whole, will be shuddered, and the excessive wealth in “Big Capital” will be returned to the People it was siphoned from. Large enough confiscations may be distributed directly to the People, as it is truly their money. All large companies will ultimately be in the business of supporting Human Flourishing. Excess after overhead and payroll will go to the Treasury. If you honestly can't figure out what the motivation is to be in business if not to stockpile money, then please leave the keys to your factory on the desk on the way out.

Investment

I will reiterate that the limit for personal wealth is $1B or its equivalent under the changes to money that will coincide with this change; breaches will be met with permanent forfeiture of all current funds.

Investment might seem pointless given that. Perfect. Parties may petition for help from the Treasury, from private investors, or any other receptive party. The stock market, as a whole, will be shuddered, and the excessive wealth in "Big Capital" will be returned to the People it was siphoned from. Large enough confiscations may be distributed directly to the People, as it is truly their money.

Market manipulating practices, get rich quick schemes, and other activity that are clearly similar to the practices which decimated the economy in the first quarter of the 21st Century, designed to enable and accelerate the stockpiling of the People's means by a few Bad Actors will be crushed as soon as they are detected, and those involved will be released from their employment and their ill-gotten fortunes. Business accounts that grow so rapidly or so large that it triggers inquiry will be investigated and resolved for the good of the People. As there is a single global Treasury, offshore accounts and foreign currencies are a non-issue.

In simple terms

Consumers are most of your Laborers. Laborers are most productive and content when they have the things they need to be content and feel safe. Elsewise, they will be able to focus, and will feel unappreciated at the very least. Consumers are most of your Laborers. Consumers purchase what they absolutely need, and nothing else, unless they have disposable income.

Consumers need disposable income in order to purchase things beyond absolute necessity. They simply cannot buy anything they don't absolutely require, and even then, they are stretching things to the max.

Well-paid laborers have more money to put back into the economy and keep things moving.

Money does not stagnate at the bottom.

Glossary

Glossary

The conclusion - The conclusion is that we think we ought to work together to survive as a species. Then there are those who do not; which are we?

Definitions

Utopia - The name the population of earth unified to call our home planet

Human Flourishing - the result of People being unburdened from need. This is distinct from population growth. The population will grow to meet available resources. No one will go unwillingly without.

Decency - The state of being Decent; What is Decent will shift with time, but the core will always be movement towards Human Flourishing

The Work - the concerted global effort to achieve Human Flourishing and retire Fear as an influential force

Person - an individual human being who can physically survive outside of their native uterus, regardless of all other factors

Persons - specific People relevant to a specific situation or the like

people - an indeterminate number of individual Persons

People - a population of human beings unified by location, values, and the collective desire for peace and order. “Us,” “We,” “Ours,” and other such stylized indicators of inclusion are rendered as the first-person voice of Humanity

Servant - any official in a position of special trust with the People

Civil Servant - local officials charged to quell small issues, render help where needed, and report major incidents to higher headquarters for support. Replaces legacy police models with strong, calm, empathetic, unarmed Servants who are empowered to maintain the Serenity, render quick suggestions to Persons, engage in community functions, and occasionally facilitate the peaceful transfer of the Person to the local Guidance Center for evaluation. No one will be arrested, convicted, or incarcerated as those practices are simply indecent and barbaric. Handcuffs will be relegated to the bedroom, but are a serious Human Rights violation if used on unwilling people, especially by authority figures.

Head Servant - Title that replaces “Representative,” in Government. They are the lowest-ranking Persons that are subject to Removal. They will remain in their Cultures and represent the will of the People who appointed them. They will earnestly and continuously measure their represented constituents' feeling of security, safety, health, etc, and then report significant findings to the Cultural Capital.

The Triad - the anonymous group of three co-serving policy makers at the head of global power.

Removal - The process of excising a treasonous elected official from our Decent government

Guidance - standardized treatment administered at a Guidance Center

Guidance Center - Civic facility charged with guiding Patients back to Decency.

Patient - a Person receiving Guidance at a Guidance Facility

School - any jointly qualified and accountable facility concerned mainly with Education

Education - useful set of skills gained through rigorous study and self-challenge

Society - Replaces "Country."

Culture - Replaces "State." Cultures will decide for themselves what that means to them

Civic (noun, adjective) - Replaces the word "citizen with a more empowering title" ; Refers also to something's status as public and community resources.

At the time of writing, I still consider myself, basically due to lack of options, an American. Since the United States is such a central focus to the rest of the world at this time, when I say "we," I will mean "the United States and her people." unless explicitly stated otherwise. "We" will indicate a larger scope of inclusion and is more formal and poetic. This will likely be revised in future editions as social language matures.

2025, Nate, non-authority
Nate@EagerToErr.com

The ChatGPT thread I use with my own writing. It spits out roughly this book. Check it out!:
https://chatgpt.com/share/67be636d-13e0-8013-b454-5628efac7e24

It just struck me that I might need to just say, do not take any of this seriously. I called it a self-help just to be immediately on tone. Dunno… it might look good with the books that help you strive and manifest.

Seriously, though, this is just my Asperger idea of fiction.

Definitions

Utopia - The name the population of earth unified to call our home planet

Human Flourishing - the result of People being unburdened from need. This is distinct from population growth. The population will grow to meet available resources. No one will go unwillingly without.

Decency - The state of being Decent; What is Decent will shift with time, but the core will always be movement towards Human Flourishing

The Work - the concerted global effort to achieve Human Flourishing and retire Fear as an influential force

Person - an individual human being who can physically survive outside of their native uterus, regardless of all other factors

Persons - specific People relevant to a specific situation or the like

people - an indeterminate number of individual Persons

People - a population of human beings unified by location, values, and the collective desire for peace and order. "Us," "We," "Ours," and other such stylized indicators of inclusion are rendered as the first-person voice of Humanity

Servant - any official in a position of special trust with the People

Civil Servant - local officials charged to quell small issues, render help where needed, and report major incidents to higher headquarters for support. Replaces legacy police models with strong, calm, empathetic, unarmed Servants who are empowered to maintain the Serenity, render quick suggestions to Persons, engage in community functions, and occasionally facilitate the peaceful transfer of the Person to the local Guidance Center for evaluation. No one will be arrested, convicted, or incarcerated as those practices are simply indecent and barbaric. Handcuffs will be relegated to the bedroom, but are a serious Human Rights violation if used on unwilling people, especially by authority figures.

Head Servant - Title that replaces "Representative," in Government. They are the lowest-ranking Persons that are subject to Removal. They will remain in their Cultures and represent the will of the People who appointed them. They will earnestly and continuously measure their represented constituents' feeling of security, safety, health, etc, and then report significant findings to the Cultural Capital.

The Triad - the anonymous group of three co-serving policy makers at the head of global power.

Removal - The process of excising a treasonous elected official from our Decent government

Guidance - standardized treatment administered at a Guidance Center

Guidance Center - Civic facility charged with guiding Patients back to Decency.

Patient - a Person receiving Guidance at a Guidance Facility

School - any jointly qualified and accountable facility concerned mainly with Education

Education - useful set of skills gained through rigorous study and self-challenge

Society - Replaces “Country.”

Culture - Replaces “State.” Cultures will decide for themselves what that means to them

Civic (noun, adjective) - Replaces the word “town, village, neighborhood,” ; Refers also to something’s status as public and community resources.

At the time of writing, I still consider myself, basically due to lack of options, an American. Since the United States is such a central focus to the rest of the world at this time, when I say “we,” I will mean “the United States and her people.” unless explicitly stated otherwise. “We” will indicate a larger scope of inclusion and is more formal and poetic. This will likely be revised in future editions as social language matures.

2025, Nate, non-authority
Nate@EagerToErr.com

The ChatGPT thread I use with my own writing. It spits out roughly this book. Check it out!:
https://chatgpt.com/share/67be636d-13e0-8013-b454-5628efac7e24

It just struck me that I might need to just say, do not take any of this seriously. I called it a self-help just to be immediately on tone. Dunno… it might look good with the books that help you strive and manifest. Seriously, though, this is just my Asperger idea of fiction.

Definitions

Definitions

Utopia - The name the population of earth unified to call our home planet

Human Flourishing - the result of People being unburdened from need. This is distinct from population growth. The population will grow to meet available resources. No one will go unwillingly without.

Decency - The state of being Decent; What is Decent will shift with time, but the core will always be movement towards Human Flourishing

The Work - the concerted global effort to achieve Human Flourishing and retire Fear as an influential force

Person - an individual human being who can physically survive outside of their native uterus, regardless of all other factors

Persons - specific People relevant to a specific situation or the like

people - an indeterminate number of individual Persons

People - a population of human beings unified by location, values, and the collective desire for peace and order. "Us," "We," "Ours," and other such stylized indicators of inclusion are rendered as the first-person voice of Humanity

Servant - any official in a position of special trust with the People

Civil Servant - local officials charged to quell small issues, render help where needed, and report major incidents to higher headquarters for support. Replaces legacy police models with strong, calm, empathetic, unarmed Servants who are empowered to maintain the Serenity, render quick suggestions to Persons, engage in community functions, and occasionally facilitate the peaceful transfer of the Person to the local Guidance Center for evaluation. No one will be arrested, convicted, or incarcerated as those practices are simply indecent and barbaric. Handcuffs will be relegated to the bedroom, but are a serious Human Rights violation if used on unwilling people, especially by authority figures.

Head Servant - Title that replaces "Representative," in Government. They are the lowest-ranking Persons that are subject to Removal. They will remain in their Cultures and represent the will of the People who appointed them. They will earnestly and continuously measure their represented constituents' feeling of security, safety, health, etc, and then report significant findings to the Cultural Capital.

The Triad - the anonymous group of three co-serving policy makers at the head of global power.

Removal - The process of excising treasonous elected officials from our Decent government

Guidance - standardized treatment administered at a Guidance Center

Guidance Center - Civic facility charged with guiding Patients back to Decency.

Patient - a Person receiving Guidance at a Guidance Facility

School - any jointly qualified and accountable facility concerned mainly with Education

Education - useful set of skills gained through rigorous study and self-challenge

Society - Replaces “Country.”

Culture - Replaces “State.” Cultures will decide for themselves what that means to them

Civic (adjective) - Replaces the word “town, village, neighborhood,” ; Refers also to something’s status as public and community resources.

At the time of writing, I still consider myself, basically due to lack of options, an American. Since the United States is such a central focus to the rest of the world at this time, when I say “we,” I will mean “the United States and her people.” unless explicitly stated otherwise. “We” will indicate a larger scope of inclusion and is more formal and poetic. This will likely be revised in future editions as social language matures.

2025, Nate, non-authority
Nate@EagerToErr.com

The ChatGPT thread I used, along with with my own writing. It spits out roughly this book. I'm giving you this along with the source material I wrote to get it to generate the book. Check it out!:
https://chatgpt.com/share/67be636d-13e0-8013-b454-5628efac7e24

It just struck me that I might need to just say, do not take any of this seriously. I called it a self-help just to be immediately on tone. Dunno… it might look good with the books that help you strive and manifest. Seriously, though, this is just my Asperger idea of fiction.

Anecdotes

In the spring of 2007, I was serving in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom at Camp Victory, Baghdad, and had been doing so since the previous autumn. Two significant things occurred to my sense of self and my perception of things around me; the troop surge occurred as did the response to that surge, and Year Zero by Nine Inch Nails. I had experienced something similar as a young private in Ali A Salem, Kuwait, when I watched Three Kings inside of my equipment shelter. I occasionally opened the door, and the hot bright dusty air would breathe on me and remind me of where I was.

DOWNLOADING YZ,

A solution we will not use; it just somehow felt right to let the Utopia know that I can think like this:

Fiction

The Cube

A poured concrete cubic room with supporting infrastructure managed on the external roof. An uncovered drain in the floor will carry away anything water-soluble hIch will play relevant material, along. Sufficient water sprayers mounted in the ceiling will carry various temperatures of water with enough volume and velocity to serve their purpose uniformly. The cube will be fitted with projectors with projectors which, along with a sound system with the power to be heard will deliver media to encourage desired behavior.

When the cube is to be populated, the group will be relieved of all hair and nails. They will be fully nude and absent of anything that isn't part of their working body. To maintain some dignity, all in the cube will have their GI tracts fully flushed. A hatch at the top of the cube will open down into the cube. A ladder will be afforded for this alone; it will be retracted and locked in the top. The group knows that this is it. This is the last environment they will know. These are the last people. If you were a jet plane, you would not be able to scream your way out. The projector shows victims, court footage, news clips and whatever volume is right for the moment. The subject can always be changed, and speaking water of whatever temperature you like. These will absolutely burn through skin if need be. They can also be delivered just a bit frosty. Or switch between the two.

I have forgotten to mention the main feature! Ok, so, as they descended into the cube, they were met with the image of their most revered leader. They are face-up, grey, and given a sticky grin. This is not to horrify them. This is their last menu.

Ideally, the cube would be an automated device and would alert its operator when decomp is basically done. It could react to speech or movement, tone, etc, and apply an appropriate response.

Anecdotes

In the spring of 2007, I was serving in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom at Camp Victory, Baghdad, and had been doing so since the previous autumn. Two significant things occurred to my sense of self and my perception of things around me; the troop surge occurred as did the response to that surge, and Year Zero by Nine Inch Nails. I had experienced something similar as a young private in Ali A Salem, Kuwait, when I watched Three Kinds inside of my equipment shelter. I occasionally opened the door, and the hot bright air would breathe on me and remind me of where I was.

A solution we will not use; it just somehow felt right to let the Utopia know that I can think like this:

Fiction

The Cube

A poured concrete cubic room with supporting infrastructure managed on the external roof. An uncovered drain in the floor will carry away anything water-soluble hIch will play relevant material, along. Sufficient water sprayers mounted in the ceiling will carry various temperatures of water with enough volume and velocity to serve their purpose uniformly. The cube will be fitted with projectors with projectors which, along with a sound system with the power to be heard will deliver media to encourage desired behavior.

When the cube is to be populated, the group will be relieved of all hair and nails. They will be fully nude and absent of anything at all that isn't part of their working body. To maintain some dignity, all in the cube will have their GI tracts fully flushed. A hatch at the top of the cube will open down into the cube. A ladder will be afforded for this alone; it will be retracted and locked in the top. The group knows that this is it. This is the last environment they will know. These are the last people. If you were a jet plane, you would not be able to scream your way out. The projector shows victims, court footage, news clips and whatever volume is right for the moment. The subject can always be changed, and speaking water of whatever temperature you like. These will absolutely burn through skin if need be. They can also be delivered just a bit frosty. Or switch between the two.

I have forgotten to mention the main feature! Ok, so, as they descended into the cube, they were met with the image of their most revered leader. They are face-up, grey, and given a sticky grin. This is not strictly to horrify them. This is their last menu.

Ideally, the cube would be an automated device and would alert its operator when decomp is basically done. It could react to speech or movement, tone, etc, and apply an appropriate response.

Definitions

Utopia - The name the population of earth unified to call our home planet

Human Flourishing - the result of People being unburdened from need. This is distinct from population growth. The population will grow to meet available resources. No one will go unwillingly without.

Decency - The state of being Decent; What is Decent will shift with time, but the core will always be movement towards Human Flourishing

The Work - the concerted global effort to achieve Human Flourishing and retire Fear as an influential force

Person - an individual human being who can physically survive outside of their native uterus, regardless of all other factors

Persons - specific People relevant to a specific situation or the like

people - an indeterminate number of individual Persons

People - a population of human beings unified by location, values, and the collective desire for peace and order. "Us," "We," "Ours," and other such stylized indicators of inclusion are rendered as the first-person voice of Humanity

Servant - any official in a position of special trust with the People

Civil Servant - local officials charged to quell small issues, render help where needed, and report major incidents to higher headquarters for support. Replaces legacy police models with strong, calm, empathetic, unarmed Servants who are empowered to maintain the Serenity, render quick suggestions to Persons, engage in community functions, and occasionally facilitate the peaceful transfer of the Person to the local Guidance

Center for evaluation. No one will be arrested, convicted, or incarcerated as those practices are simply indecent and barbaric. Handcuffs will be relegated to the bedroom, but are a serious Human Rights violation if used on unwilling people, especially by authority figures.

Head Servant - Title that replaces "Representative," in Government. They are the lowest-ranking Persons that are subject to Removal. They will remain in their Cultures and represent the will of the People who appointed them. They will earnestly and continuously measure their represented constituents' feeling of security, safety, health, etc, and then report significant findings to the Cultural Capital.

The Triad - the anonymous group of three co-serving policy makers at the head of global power.

Removal - The process of excising a treasonous elected official from our Decent government

Guidance - standardized treatment administered at a Guidance Center

Guidance Center - Civic facility charged with guiding Patients back to Decency.

Patient - a Person receiving Guidance at a Guidance Facility

School - any jointly qualified and accountable facility concerned mainly with Education

Education - useful set of skills gained through rigorous study and self-challenge

Society - Replaces “Country.”

Culture - Replaces “State.” Cultures will decide for themselves what that means to them

Civic (noun, adjective) - Replaces the word “town, village, neighborhood,” ; Refers also to something’s status as public and community resources.

Progressives - The initial group of professionals which accept the call to help us build it better, and their subsequent peers

Smut - recorded material, broadcasts, writing, and/or speech which is patently harmful to Human Flourishing or intentionally damaging to the philosophy, respect, trust, or standing of Utopia and her guiding principles. This will not include media which are sexual in nature, as those types of media do no harm to anyone or anything other than the people we wrote this definition for.

At the time of writing, I still consider myself, basically due to lack of options, an American. Since the United States is such a central focus to the rest of the world at this time, when I say “we,” I will mean “the United States and her people.” unless explicitly stated otherwise. “We” will indicate a larger scope of inclusion and is more formal and poetic. This will likely be revised in future editions as social language matures.

2025, Nate, non-authority
Nate@EagerToErr.org

The ChatGPT thread I use with my own writing. It spits out roughly this book. Check it out!:
https://chatgpt.com/share/67be636d-13e0-8013-b454-5628efac7e24

It just struck me that I might need to just say, do not take any of this seriously. I called it a self-help just to be immediately on tone. Dunno… it might look good with the books that help you strive and manifest. Seriously, though, this is just my Asperger idea of fiction.

Anecdotes

In the spring of 2007, I was serving in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom at Camp Victory, Baghdad, and had been doing so since the previous autumn. Two significant things occurred to my sense of self and my perception of things around me; the troop surge occurred as did the response to that surge, and Year Zero by Nine Inch Nails. I had experienced something similar as a young private in Ali A Salem, Kuwait, when I watched Three Kings inside of my equipment shelter. I occasionally opened the door, and the hot bright air would breathe on me and remind me of where I was.

Loose Quotes

I sincerely wish for you to have a long life, to be happy, and to live the way you want to live without government interference.

“The only problem with fundamentalist religion is the fundamentals of religion.” - Sam Harris I think? Paraphrased to expand scope

“There’s an ocean of wealth floating just above us. Let’s pop it.” - Don’t worry about it

“I’m staying in the race!” - President Joe Biden, 82, July 5 2024, to the nerve-raw American People.

“We will win! We will win!” - Senator Chuck Schumer, 74, February 5 2025, to a crowd of addled, oblivious, aging supporters, weeks after the newly-elected president was sworn in and started upsetting everything in his reach. Schumer supplied us with the perfect anti-rallying cry for the rise of the People at the expense of dead, dry wood, and its pentent to ignite and burn everything we value to the ground.

“Fix your hearts, or die!” - David Lynch, Twin Peaks

“I was born sick, but I love it. Command me to be well. Amen.” - Hozier, Take me to church, 2013.

“Some choose to open the window and look at the stars; some choose to bolt their doors, bar their windows, take up a shotgun, and stare at the front door, waiting.” - Nate, I think

What is this? What are you getting at? - I am painting a picture for a future I would like to live in and pass to my descendants. I am suggesting that this would be a future worth working toward. I want to leave the Human experience better than I found it. I would love to be instrumental in making life better for everyone. I am not suggesting that I have the best way to get there, just what my vision of once it arrives looks like. Again, this is where I’d like us to get to, with no offered or even imagined path to get there. I am not advocating for violence. I am not advocating for violence. I am not advocating for violence.

I don’t start talking about me on how this seems dictator-y or fascist because what I am doing is handing the maximum liberty at the expense of no one but fascist brats! In the light of accountability, consumerism dies.

And business will be driven by what has always driven business. Profit.

If all they can throw at us is “Commie!” and “Liberal!” and "Traitor!" or "Sinner!" then that’s all they have, and that’s encouraging.

Progress, tides, and ships - Rising tides will actually raise all ships because we no longer ignore small, floundering vessels full of terrified, drowning unfortunates, being actively scavenged as they struggle, panic, and die, by a number of pirate aircraft carriers that sink and raid anyone and anything they want to without accountability. Those carriers are on notice; you’re about to be on the other end of the torpedo.

“Fix your heart, or die!” - David Lynch, Twin Peaks

The “Not his, Ours!” Party, which will be abandoned as soon as it becomes obsolete due to the unbelievable progress and healing we have done.

social insecurity or bullying. From there, the process is in motion in the person’s brain, and they will never be fully whole. This ends.

The Onus cont.

Suspected Dupes

Fear

That internal process which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

Anger

Entitlement and expectations are usually how anger sparks. Enough anger metastasizes to the heart and prevents joy, peace, and especially, contentment.

Hate

- hatred and bigotry have defined all of Us, ever since we started splitting Ourselves into categories. Whole organizations and clubs revolve around a collective hatred for some “other.” They get tattoos and espouse whatever historical paradigm suits them to emulate and idealize. At the core of hate is fear. To allow One’s fear to dictate their worldview is to openly declare oneself an openly-declared coward. Openly hateful Persons will be Civically received as the cowards that they are. Concerted effort to tame one's hateful fear will be actively facilitated in any reasonable way available. No grudge will be held by any involved party, and the reformed Person will be reintegrated to normal Civic life.

Suffering

- Well, that's why we are here. Children are actively terrified by those charged with their wellbeing and learning. Screaming, cursing, belittling, confinement, and physical violence convince children that fear is normal and necessary, and that the world is inherently dangerous and capricious. That fear becomes a standard feature for whole populations, to the point that it can be relied upon to easily manipulate all People to force unwilling action from the fearful person. Early fear manifests in either social insecurity or bullying. From there, the process is in motion in the person's brain, and they will never be fully whole. This ends.

"...Fear itself."

That which developed in our ancient ancestors to keep them alert and reactant to danger. Fear is innate, but can be brought under control with active, persistent self-awareness and practice. The main problem here is induced fear caused by mistreatment, especially as children. The cycle started with abusive parents, willful ignorance, and wretched conditions. The abused becomes the abuser, and now it is common practice and even expectation that we abuse our children into toeing the line.

"Bravery is the conscious decision to set fear aside, and do what must be done in defiance of fear. Bravery can spring forth only from fear; if you are not afraid, then you cannot be courageous." - Nate

"Some choose to open the window and look at the stars; some choose to bolt their doors, bar their windows, take up a shotgun, and stare at the front door, waiting." - Nate, I think

The Human Progress Stack

The Human Progress Stack; ordered priorities of Democratic Humanism, in the service of human flourishing and progress.

Human Flourishing; there is no greater cause than the Human Cause. Ever.

Decency; we are a social species. Be good, and be well.

Rationality; it is important that what we think and do make sense.

Progress; We deserve better and We will not wait for permission from parasites and conmen. “The only thing we have to fear is fear itself.”

Nate - The only thing we do not tolerate is intolerance. In both cases, the overwhelming force of social mandate for truth and safety will stamp out the poison and bile in our Cultures.

The Veil of Ignorance and the Dunning-Kruger Effect

In this work, I have, to my utmost ability and that of sympathetic others, remained true to the unachievable ideal of the Veil of Ignorance (John Rawls, A Theory of Justice, 1971). I am also doing my best to stay at a useful position on the Dunning-Kruger Curve (Dunning and Kruger, Unskilled and unaware of it, 1999). I will fail in both accounts, but I will try anyway. Given that, I reject with prejudice the idea that I am, should be, or ever will be, a Civic official or anything else other than a guy who wrote a book. I energetically reject power, position, titles, or any other social or political status for this work; I will accept awards reserved for academia.

This vision, as it propagates, belongs to the People, and the People will proceed to build their Societies unmolested as long as the global rule of Decency is upheld by the immovable majority who demand livelihood, safety, and contentment.

The overarching concept

The major point of this is that if people uniformly have what they need and nothing threatens them, they can excel in their passions and benefit Humanity in ways that were scoffed at during the age of laissez faire capitalism. There will be no need to struggle, labor, or fret, as they will be supplied at least the bottom tier of Maslow's Hierarchy of Human Needs with flawless accessibility. They will be less likely to take from, abuse, manipulate, and assault each other because they will have what they need and will be able to thrive in a culture that values human life over all else. What has never been available before is the global decision to be decent.

The Onus

- this is because we have yet, from our early days, to make a concerted People-wide attempt to conquer fear. Yes, I am suggesting that we as the Humanity of Planet Earth need to finally sack up, unite, and tame fear as a prevalent influence; those who attempt to leverage fear for their own gains are traitors and will be guided through their journey to Decency. This is key to everything. We must grow up as a species. Right now we are petulant, deluded teenagers still carrying the animus, superstition, and bad advice of an infancy casting about for answers in the dark, while an opportunistic few manipulate truth and deception, and feed their poison to the pious, credulous, náive masses directly and through bought-off People of the Cloth and corrupt officials. The current system relies completely on the assumption that every single person is infected with a deep well of fear that nature thrust upon them, amplified by the sizable mass of fear thrust upon them by their parents. This fear can be seized upon to great effect, so it is vital to this former system's viability that everyone is uniformly infected to at least a useful level of manipulable, reactionary, omnidirectional fear. The 1950s in America were a fine time for Fear, as governmental bodies were drunk on The Bomb, propaganda, suspicion, paranoia, and existential dread.

This coincided with the largest generation in human history arriving to sop up all the fear and sugar cereal they could. They were raised to be selfish, oblivious, credulous, dim, and entitled as all fuck. They are now in their 70s. And the picture becomes clearer. Some pursue their fears rather than any other set of interests, and it bears out in their lives. They are deeply insecure cowards who believe a strong front will keep them safe from that which quietly terrifies them. They believe their safety comes with an unwavering offensive posture. This belief will be retired.

The Onus cont. -

Historical and recent political and social outcomes have made it quite clear that the way we have been doing things since we became aware of ourselves has been inexorably flawed. This is to be expected of an infant species, but it is reasonable to expect that any self-aware species would eventually arrive at an inflection point where they collectively awaken to Decency and unity, or promptly destroy themselves.

That said, this long sad legacy of hiring almost exclusively lawyers and economists to serve Us as they desire to do has born out in who We have decided to be.

We should not keep doing it as if that isn't a big part of why we're here now.

Ignorance leads to fear. - Nate, to preface the Yoda Quote

"Fear leads to anger. Anger leads to hate. Hate leads to suffering!" - Yoda, Star Wars Episode I, 1999

The Basic Idea

The basic idea of Democratic Secular Humanism is to place Human Flourishing as the very top priority of the entire species, and to build social, infrastructural, and technical structures which are sustainable as we mature. This will be accomplished while also enjoying a healthy work/life ratio; no labor is compulsory or even required for contentment and thriving, and all labor is compensated fairly as defined by those who work for a satisfactory wage as they would have good insight on what is fair. Leaders will still be chosen by fair election to administer local affairs; there will be no such thing as "Federal". Each culture will have an oversight organization. Oversight Organizations will serve some of the roles that federal governments would.

The Human Timeline

Where are we now on the Human timeline? Even a trillionth of the way in? We don't have the fuckiest idea! But then when would be the time to catch it before it got unwieldy? I also love it when I see a person of faith begin a response with "Well, God can't…" It seems that deity cannot do anything Humans can, but we can do some things it can do, like kill people for touching its special box/apartment as it was about to fall off a cart while meandering the eastern Mediterranean desert. We could accept the assumption that the Israelites are the true People of God because it was just obvious that this time, that these people were it for the singular point from which all knowledge, power, and authority springs; much to the chagrin of anything within a 500 mile radius of their current position that might represent gains for their totally cool razing of the desert.

If the Old Testament were found to be fully accurate in its entirety and detail, I would be forced to acknowledge God's existence, His works, the works of his People; He still would not receive my reverence and certainly not worship because of the inexcusable atrocities detailed in that document.

The main point is that if YHWH is as they say He is, then why did He choose then, there, and then to receive, carry, and preserve his critical holy message to Humanity? It only makes sense if YHWH is a surrogate for the will of the rulers of the time. Also, fascinating that YHWH has yet to give the slightest measurable hint of existing, so He willfully went from an obvious and present force, to giving no indication of itself, in an active modern pursuit of a trace. Ubiquitous to completely absent; on a very convenient timeline and with considerable clawing tooth and nail at cobblestone streets by the Church before relenting to adopt finding these discoveries as truth, and dismantling superstition. And that seems to coincide with the advancement of science and how we educate our children, and that trend continues.

This has yet to touch on the content of the message. The message is that YHWH loves the Israelites, but they keep fuckin up. He gives them ways to clean their filthy spirits by ritual sacrifice, but this gets to be a lot, There was a grassroots effort led by an itinerant preacher with a dozen followers to ease the People from their lived experience of ancient misery with promises of paradise, victory, and bounty in the hereafter.

They have holy text and clergy to interpret and preach them. We have this document, and it is sufficient.

Tenets of Satanism vs. The Ten Commandments

Casual comparison between rulesets

”This is a Christian nation!” “Yeah, clearly.” - Nate

The Ten Commandments

(Exodus 20:1-17 KJV)

Exodus Chapter 20

1 And God spake all these words, saying,

2 I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

3 Thou shalt have no other deities before me.

4 Thou shalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth:

5 Thou shalt not bow down thyself to them, nor serve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me;

6 And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me, and keep my commandments.

7 Thou shalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

8 Remember the sabbath day, to keep it holy.

9 Six days shalt thou labour, and do all thy work:

10 But the seventh day is the sabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy manservant, nor thy maidservant, nor thy cattle, nor thy stranger that is within thy gates:

11 For in six days the LORD made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day: wherefore the LORD blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

12 Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee.

13 Thou shalt not kill.

14 Thou shalt not commit adultery.

15 Thou shalt not steal.

16 Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour.

17 Thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

Tenets of Satanism

(The Satanic Temple)

THERE ARE SEVEN FUNDAMENTAL TENETS

I One should strive to act with compassion and empathy toward all creatures in accordance with reason.

II The struggle for justice is an ongoing and necessary pursuit that should prevail over laws and institutions.

III One’s body is inviolable, subject to one’s own will alone.

IV The freedoms of others should be respected, including the freedom to offend. To willfully and unjustly encroach upon the freedoms of another is to forgo one's own.

V Beliefs should conform to one's best scientific understanding of the world. One should take care never to distort scientific facts to fit one's beliefs.

VI People are fallible. If one makes a mistake, one should do one's best to rectify it and resolve any harm that might have been caused.

VII Every tenet is a guiding principle designed to inspire nobility in action and thought. The spirit of compassion, wisdom, and justice should always prevail over the written or spoken word.

I find I cannot honestly read both without feeling like the second one is more ethical, more relevant, and easier (and more direct) to follow for a good life.

Even if you are confident you understand that whole thing, how many worthwhile, applicable commandments can you pull out of that tangle of text? For me, if an important text wants to be taken as such, it should be clear to the modern reader, not jealousy held in on archaic place for eons by those who believe themselves to be the keeper of the meaning, and then insisted upon by generations of doe-eyed faithful who cannot answer what is best about this one other than a piously-tinged "it's what I grew up with."

Oh, BT-Dubs, The Fruit of the Spirit (the socially-good traits that are defined clearly in their primary source document) is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, and temperance. I learned it “Love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, gentleness, and self-control” because of the Christian camp song (the fruit of the Spirit’s not a cumquat. NO IT’S NOT!). I ask you to pull one "fruit" from these that is universally displayed by or assumed of an unprompted christian; tell me one that christians can be relied upon for? It's your book and your song, guys.

Galatians 5:22-23, King James Version

22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith,

23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

Ok, that’s a lot of old words. Can we dress it up into something we can use immediately?

Ephesians 4:32, King James Version

32 And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

(doo doo, da doodly do; Ephesians 4:32)

But I think that's the New Testament squishy God-Jesus father/son salvation tag team!

I did concede to use the King James Version in this document just to include those who are stanch that the 1611 King James Bible is the only useful or even acceptable translation of the Christian bible, having exhausted all other translations and the mandate to learn Hebrew and Greek, which is interestingly a step too far for those who will so energetically declare that they know their faith and we should, too.

I think it was just waiting until the population reached a certain size that the goat population had to be considered. Holy sacrifice is cruel to the goats, too. We know that now.

To ignorance, I say…

To freely allow willful ignorance is to equip and embolden smirking evil, and to betray ourselves, our children, and the future for our species. Ignorant people are pliable because they are stupefied by everything around them; they are being told to look up at the pulpit and at the TV and the flag, and that's a lot easier than this biology homework, and that makes sense to them. And suddenly it is easier and cool to secure products that have an extremely high likelihood of forming a life-defining habit just as they are getting started. Smart people are inaccessible and clearly think I'm trash, and I can't do this thing they say I have to do to be smart, so…

Willful ignorance will be identified and corrected. We must not allow Persons to believe their childhood knowledge and thought process are sufficient. Belligerently willfully ignorant Persons will be given every opportunity for Guidance and Education, until, eventually, We will need to assert Ourselves energetically against this Civic liability.

Recreational drugs All non-lethal drugs will be available to otherwise-well adults for purposes at local dispensaries. The LD50 for each drug will be displayed in the facility, along with a brief explanation of what to expect from the drug the first time they use it at a Dispensary. All except historically dangerous drugs (moderate to high history of accidental deaths) and heavy hallucinogens (as defined and listed by qualified People, once Our movement gains momentum) can be acquired at a dispensary and consumed in private or responsibly in Civic spaces. Consumers will be carefully monitored, and will be referred to treatment for those in potential trouble. Drugs generally should not be shared, but there is no solid rule about that. Just seems better to have your own name on the bottle somehow.
Dispensaries ought to be located in such a way that they are within emergency distance of a purposeful medical facility.

To the Traitors of various stripes

Boomers

Ok, listen. I named this section what I did, and you are here reading it, so I'll try not to be overly defensive, if nothing else than that you knowingly put yourself in possible critical discussion.

MAGA

I'm going to assume that you are not a top official, advisor, or media personality, so that way we can talk eye-to-eye. I'm going to assume you are curious about what I said to you, and not just looking for something to be incensed about.

Ok, my position relative to you is that I sorrow for the greatness that was stolen from you when the desperate, opportunistic, racist, greedy, dying post-Watergate GOP shifted trajectory, leveraged ignorance and deep, generational hate (bolstered every Sunday), and came to resolve that education was the primary enemy of American Conservatism (powered by fear) and, therefore, for the Republican voting base.

The admitted plan was to construct a few generations in which we slowly, but clearly, deliberately draining educational content, vastly over-correct by any means available to keep children steeped in the Peace of the Lord, being "In the world, but not of it," challenged by calls to "teach the controversy" as though these two models were somehow of equal prominence in any area of study, tellingly-specific calls for religious iconography and rituals in public classrooms, and the absolutely frantic collective fit of the idea of teaching Human Reproduction from a modern, scientific, proven understanding backed by knowledge backed by their own lived lives, not Abusive Super Step-Dad is gonna take your joy and throw you away.